CITY'S PAINTERS AND ELECTRICIANS STRIKE, DISRUPT SOME SERVICES

Serious disruption of some municipal services resulted today when 131 AFL electricians and 35 painters employed by the city went on strike. The strikers were joined by a number of other city workers, including machinists, who refused to cross picket lines.

Strikers carried placards and umbrellas saying: "Protesting Delayed Action on Wages." The pay dispute arose over the fact that the city's AFL electricians and painters are not paid prevailing wage rates.

The city's asphalt plant at Kingshighway and DeTonty street, where 200 workers are employed, was shut down. Civil Courts building was without heat, and elevator operators remained off the job for a time at Municipal Courts building.

A complete shutdown of the maintenance and construction section of the traffic division also was reported. Twenty sign painters and 16 truck drivers joined 30 electricians and 11 painters in refusing to go to work at the section's office at Vandeventer avenue and Forest Park boulevard.

More than 50 other workers in the office stayed off the job.

Bridge Section Hit.

In the city's bridge maintenance section, 15 employes did not report for work this morning.

Members of the AFL Teamsters' Union observed the picket line at City Hall and, as a result, no truck deliveries were being made. The City Hall restaurant did not receive its usual deliveries of bread, meat and other supplies.

The mechanical shop of the Streets and Sewers division was closed when 40 employes refused to work. Two garbage trucks were left on the street after breaking down this morning. There were no mechanics to repair them.

Telephone operators were staying at their posts at City Hall "on a temporary basis because of clearance by the electricians' and painters' unions," the Communications Workers of America said.

No telephone installations or repairs were being made on city buildings, however.

One Picket Ordered Removed.

Circuit court judges met in a special session at Civil Courts building to consider the emergency and decided that if the one picket on duty on the Twelfth boulevard side of the building were not withdrawn they would issue an injunction to remove him. They based their decision on the fact that all offices in the building except three are state offices.

The picket was later with-

21 ARE REPORTED KILLED IN SUDAN IN RIOT AGAINST VISITOR NAGUIB

At least 21 persons were reported killed, including the British police commander, Col. H. S. McGuigan, and six of his men. More than 100 persons were wounded, 30 of them critically. Authoritative sources reported the Sudanese police chief, Brig. Martada el Mahdi, among the victims.

The clash came after more than 30,000 demonstrators agitating for and against Naguib massed in the capital. Members of the pro-independence Umma party, brandishing spears and shouting anti-British and anti-Egyptian slogans, marched on the home of Governor General Sir Robert Howe, where Naguib was being entertained after his arrival by plane from Cairo.

Police Open Fire.

Sudanese police, commanded by British officers, called on the crowds to disperse. When the demonstrators defied the order, the police tossed gas grenades and then opened fire when the tribesmen charged with spears. Seven policemen fell before the spear charge.

Naguib came here with Egyptian Guidance Minister Salah Salem for the inaugural session today of the Sudan's first parliament. After the fighting, the Governor General announced the ceremony would be postponed indefinitely. Salem, who once did a dance in his underpants to win Sudanese support for Egyptian plans, was one of the men who helped engineer Naguib's ouster last week.

Crowd Meets Naguib.

Authorities said the disturbances obviously were started by the Umma party headed by Sir Sayed Abdel Rahman el Mahdi, which opposes union between Egypt and the Sudan. The Umma faction was defeated badly in the first Sudanese parliamentary elections last November in which the National Unionists triumphed.

Egypt and Britain agreed a year ago to give the Sudanese territory self-government by 1956 and to let it vote by then whether to unite with Egypt—as Egypt demands—or be independent.

Today's violence followed wild demonstrations last Thursday when word got to the Sudanese capital that Naguib had resigned. Crowds roamed the streets shouting: "We want Naguib."

SENATE CONFIRMS WARREN AS U.S. CHIEF JUSTICE

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—The Senate today confirmed President Eisenhower's appointment of Earl Warren as Chief Justice of the United States.

The Senate's approval came on a voice vote with no audible "noes."

There was little discussion. Senator Knowland of California, the Republican leader who was first appointed to the Senate by the three-time Governor of California, gave the Senate a brief resume of Warren's career and Senator Kuchel (Rep.), California, praised the nominee.

About 40 Senators were present.

Fear of Roll Call Reported.

(The United Press said Republican leaders abandoned plans for a roll call vote on the nomination after some privately expressed the fear it might provoke some opposing votes.

(Chairman William Langer (Rep), North Dakota, of the Senate Judiciary committee who voted to report Warren's nomination to the floor after holding it up for several weeks, said nothing. Langer sat at his regular seat beside Knowland.)

Warren, the Republican vice-presidential candidate in 1948, has been on the Supreme Court since last October under a recess appointment made while Congress was in adjournment.

Canada's Acting Premier Learns Of Quiz Shows---The Hard Way

OTTAWA, March 1 (AP) — Money-hungry Canadian radio listeners think Acting Prime Minister C. D. Howe is the pot of gold at the end of a quiz show rainbow, and they're making his life miserable with what his wife indignantly described as "outrageously impertinent personal" telephone questions.

The program over an Ottawa station offers the pot to the lucky listener who identifies a mystery man from clues given out each week. Until a winner comes up, the pot goes up $50 a week. It's $2500 now.

For the last month a lot of listeners have decided Howe is their man. He is Canada's Trade Minister and is sitting in for world-touring Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

Each program touches off a new bedlam of clue-checking calls to the Howes. Mrs. Howe calls the whole thing "a nightmare."

"We can't sit down to a meal. I can't start a letter. It's impossible to read the paper without the phone ringing," she complains.

The callers have asked whether Howe wears a hearing aid, a wig, false teeth. Does he own a gold mine, or a million dollars? Is he partial to sauerkraut and pretzels? Where does he buy his clothes and for how much?

"Two weeks ago I called the station and told them that unless they could bring the contest program to an end quickly, I would sue for the prize money," Mrs. Howe continued.

"They only laughed at me."

The callers also have pulled the Minister out of the House of Commons chambers and pestered him at his several offices. He finally instructed his staff to intercept them.

'ATOMIC DEVICE' HAS BEEN DETONATED IN MARSHALL ISLANDS, AEC ANNOUNCES

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)

THE Atomic Energy Commission said today "an atomic device" has been detonated at its proving ground in the Marshall Islands.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said the detonation was the "first in a series of tests." The announcement did not say so but the series is expected to include detonation of a hydrogen bomb.

The brief announcement did not say what kind of an atomic device was set off.

KENTUCKY REGION HAS 18-INCH SNOW; 12 IN TENNESSEE

LONDON, Ky., March 1 (AP)—March roared into southeastern Kentucky today carrying a 17¾-inch snow to the London area. The snow was propelled by high winds and knocked out communications and impeded traffic.

The only dependable communications system into the storm area was an emergency short-wave radio network set up by "ham" operators.

Up to 12 inches of snow blanketed eastern Tennessee, paralyzing communications and knocking out hundreds of power lines.

Northern Ohio was digging out from under a 13-inch covering. Heaviest snowfalls were in Cleveland and Toledo, with another inch expected to fall before the end of the day.

Eyewitness Story of Shooting By Captor of House Assailant

GUARDS ALERTED AT WHITE HOUSE AFTER SHOOTING

The guards at all seven entrances to the White House and its grounds were notified by telephone of the incident.

There was no physical "tightening" of the guard because the Secret Service maintains a tight guard at all entrances at all times.

Members of the White House Secret Service detail moved rapidly back and forth through the lobby outside the President's office. They displayed keen interest in news ticker accounts of the shooting.

Secret Service men vividly remembered that the last outbreak of Puerto Rican nationalist violence here was an attempt on Nov. 1, 1950, to assassinate Harry S. Truman, then President, at Blair House.

TRUMAN 'VERY SHOCKED' OVER SHOOTING IN HOUSE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 1 (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman, whose assassination was attempted Nov. 1, 1950, was "very shocked" today when he was told of the shooting in the House of Representatives in Washington.

"It is shocking that such a thing could happen," Truman said. He withheld further comment, he said, "until we get more information.

Spectator Sees Man Trying to Reload Pistol, Pins His Arms, Drags Him Out of Door.

Frank Wise of Takoma Park, Md., a spectator in the public gallery in the House chamber today when Puerto Ricans shot at members, captured one of the assailants and helped capture another.

By FRANK WISE
As told to the United Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP)—I was sitting five seats to the left of one of the men when I heard the shooting begin. I turned around, undecided whether to hit the floor.

I saw that nobody was aiming directly at me. When I saw one use all the bullets in his clip and drop his hand down to his side to reload, I rushed him.

I pinned his arms to his side and dragged him out through the door. Officers and guards took him over immediately and pushed him to the floor.

The woman had come on out ahead. Apparently she got frightened. The second man came on out by himself, and when I saw him I shouted: "This man has got a gun."

The police grabbed him.

WOMAN, TWO MEN SEIZED; 25 TO 30 SHOTS RAKE FLOOR

Assailants, Called 'Same Gang That Went After Truman,' Cry 'Free Puerto Rico'—7 Other Suspects Arrested in Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP)—Five Congressmen were wounded today by a fusillade of bullets fired into the House of Representatives chamber by three Puerto Ricans demanding freedom for Puerto Rico.

Two of the Congressmen—Alvin M. Bentley (Rep.), Michigan, and Ben F. Jensen (Rep.), Iowa—were reported in serious condition. Bentley was shot in the chest; Jensen in the back.

George H. Fallon (Dem.), Maryland, shot in the hip.

Kenneth A. Roberts (Dem.), Alabama, shot in the leg.

The assailants—two men and a woman—were seized by Capitol spectators, employes and police and taken to police headquarters.

The three opened fire with pistols from the public gallery which looks down upon the House floor. They sprayed the chamber from right to left with a barrage estimated at 25 to 30 shots.

House members dived beneath desks and chairs or fled from the chamber as bullets whistled through the chamber.

Seven other suspects were taken into custody. Four of them were seized at Union Station only a few blocks from the Capitol. Three others were picked up at the Greyhound bus terminal in downtown Washington.

He was referring to the nationalist Puerto Rican organization whose members attempted to assassinate President Truman on Nov. 1, 1950.

He said today's gunmen were members of a nationalist organization which "came down here" to put on a demonstration for Puerto Rican independence.

(The Associated Press reported that just before the shooting started, a point was raised in the House that no quorum was present. Speaker Martin counted the House, and announced that 243 members were present.

The shots rang out while Speaker Martin was counting a division vote—a vote that requires members to stand—on a bill to admit Mexican laborers to this country.

Incredulous at First.

At first, disbelieving Congressmen thought the shots were blanks.

Only when they saw their wounded colleagues fall to the floor, blood spurting from their wounds, did they realize that they were targets of a mass assassination attempt.

Van Zandt Disarms One.

Representative James E. Van Zandt (Rep.), Pennsylvania, disarmed one of the assailants as he attempted to re-load. Van Zandt estimated there were 25 or 30 shots. Others thought there were fewer.

Van Zandt said he ran up the stairs to the gallery and grabbed one of the young Puerto Ricans and turned him over to Capitol police.

Dr. George Calver, Capitol physician, reached the floor only a few minutes after the shooting began. His assistants already were on the job.

Galleries Cleared.

Speaker Martin, trying to restore order, ordered the galleries cleared. All but members were ordered off the crowded floor in order to give first aid squads more room to work.

Members and attendants pitched in to help carry the wounded members out and to summon aid. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, who was just off the House floor, lent a hand in trying to make the bleeding Bentley comfortable as he lay in the well of the House.

Davis, shot in the leg, was the last to be carried from the House floor after being given first aid.

One bullet that hit Bentley went directly through his body. It entered on the right side just below his ribs and emerged at about the same spot on the other side. He also was hit in the left leg.

Nurse Enters House.

He was conscious, sitting in the third row of the chamber near the middle aisle. Several hundred members—all of them standing—milled about the floor. The group included some members who had not been on the floor at the time of the shooting, but who rushed in later to find out what had happened.

Representative Walter H. Judd (Rep.), Minnesota, a physician, who gave first aid to Bentley, said he was "in very serious condition." Judd said the bullet entered Bentley's body below the heart and apparently "passed through his stomach, liver and lung."

Judd said, however, that Bentley "reacted from shock very well." He said he believed Bentley's "prospects for recovery are good."

Judd said he rushed to Bentley's side when he was hit. He helped place him on the floor "in a comfortable position." He said the bullet passed about a half-inch below Bentley's heart.

"I saw three men and one woman," Judd said. "I thought there were three guns."

He said they had a banner with "Rico" on it, apparently a Puerto Rican banner, Judd said.

One Pistol Jams.

"The first two shot all they had," he said, "and turned to go out. The third man tried to get a new clip in his gun, but it jammed. It looked like a German Luger."

One bullet gouged a big hole in the chamer ceiling, others bit holes in the congressional seats and the far walls of the chamber.

Jensen was standing just inside a door near the speaker's rostrum on the Republican side. He was hit from behind.

Bentley was sitting near the front on the G.O.P. side, about 20 feet from where Jensen was standing.

Davis was sitting two seats from the middle aisle, almost halfway back. The aisle seat next to him, vacant at the time, stopped a bullet.

20 Nations Open Conference at Caracas — Parley Site Fenced and Heavily Guarded by Troops.

By BEN F. MEYER

CARACAS, March 1 (AP)—The tenth inter-American conference opened here today with chief delegates from 20 American republics, including United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, in attendance.

Venezuelan Foreign Minister Aureliano Otanez was unanimously named president of the conference on Dulles's motion at a preliminary session this morning. The first plenary session is scheduled later today, with Venezuelan President Marcos Perez Jimenez extending his government's welcome.

The inter-American conferences, called about every five years, provide American republics with an opportunity to discuss mutual problems. The conference is expected to last three to five weeks.

Dulles, in a pre-conference statement, told Latin Americans the United States program of friendship with the other American states was "the oldest foreign policy of the United States and it is still our most solid and dependable policy."

Security Measures.

Venezuela took extraordinary security measures to prevent a recurrence of the rioting attributed to Communists, in which some 1500 persons were killed during the last inter-American conference, in Bogota, Colombia, in April 1948.

High, well-guarded barbed wire fences surrounded suburban University City where the conference activities center. Guards patrolled the airport at Dulles's arrival with his party of 15 experts on Latin America. Perez Jimenez sent his own automobile, which has bullet-resistant windows, for Dulles, but United States Ambassador Fletcher Warren said the special protection had not been requested.

Dulles's statement emphasizing Washington's friendship with the southern neighbors came at a time when many Latin Americans were wondering out loud what policy President Eisenhower's Administration would follow in this hemisphere.

Economic Matters.

Communist infiltration in the Americas is one of the major topics for the conference, but Latin Americans consider economic matters the chief item.

Dulles's brief statement made no mention of United States economic plans for Latin America. He emphasized that United States friendship for Latin America is "based upon reciprocity and mutuality."

Fresh from his meetings with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the Berlin Big Four conference, Dulles said also in his statement: "I know the climate here, not only physically but also in terms of conference atmosphere, will be much more temperate than that of Berlin."

Any United States attempt to spotlight Guatemala for Communist influence on its leftist government appeared doomed to failure. The United States delegation had hoped to make this a clear-cut issue, but several foreign ministers made it plain they would hold out for discussion of Communism only as a hemispheric problem, rather than in specific countries.

Guatemalan Move Beaten.

The morning session voted down a proposal by Guatemala to split in two the Committee on Juridical and Political Matters. This group will consider among other things a United States proposal for a study of "the intervention of international Communism in the American republics."

In the show-of-hands vote on the motion, Guatemalan Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello indicated his approval by extending his clenched fist, like the Communist salute.

Toriello has said his country does not intend to "take a seat on the bench of the accused" at the conference. He appeared confident other Latin American countries will heed Guatemala's warning that any declaration against that country would be considered intervention in its internal affairs.

Only Costa Rica is absent from the conference. It contended that Venezuela's Government wasn't democratic, and the meeting shouldn't be held there.

Members 'Hit the Deck.'

Representative Carl Hinshaw (Rep.), California, who was missed by inches as Davis was hit, said he was standing by the aisle just across from where Davis was sitting.

"When I heard the first shots, I looked up and saw this man firing from the balcony," Hinshaw said. "This is funny, I thought, and then I saw my colleagues begin hitting the deck."

Hinshaw said "I hit the deck myself and looked across to see Cliff Davis holding his leg."

Bentley's office quoted Representative Stuyvesant Wainwright (Rep.), New York, who accompanied Bentley to Casualty Hospital as saying, "He's all right."

A spokesman at Casualty Hospital said Bentley was in worse condition than the other victims.

Jensen was taken to the Naval Hospital. The hospital asked the district Red Cross chapter for four pints of O-negative type whole blood for Jensen.

One bullet splattered into the Republican leaders' desk so close to Representative Leslie C. Arends (Rep.), Illinois, the Republican whip, that a splinter hit his cheek.

By the Associated Press.

One of the gunmen was grabbed by Doorkeeper Mathew Fardella when he attempted to reload his gun. Fardella caught him and pulled him out into the corridor. Another doorkeeper, Charles Santoro, also joined Fardella in subduing the gunman.

Fired at Random.

The shots were fired from automatic pistols as the men and woman shouted for freedom for Puerto Rico. They fired at random from a corner of the visitors gallery. As police seized the group and rushed them to police headquarters in downtown Washington, one of the three tossed a Puerto Rican flag into the air.

There were some differences of opinion as to whether others, in addition to the two men and the woman, fired shots.

"I am sure I saw four persons shooting," Representative Louis E. Graham (Rep.), Pennsylvania, told reporters. "The woman was shooting into the ceiling but I am sure that three men were shooting down into the chamber."

This is the second violent demonstration here for Puerto Rican independence in recent years.

On Nov. 1, 1950, two Puerto Rican revolutionists attempted to shoot their way into Blair House, temporary residence at that time of President Truman. One of the Puerto Ricans and a White House guard were killed in the battle. The other Puerto Rican, wounded, was eventually tried, convicted and was sentenced to death in the electric chair. But Truman commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

A group of men, apparently Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, moved into the chamber after the House had recessed. Several seat cushions, ripped by bullets, were inspected and a search made for bullet slugs.

Two bullets were found in the mahogany table reserved for House Republican leaders.

the Senate Judiciary Committee—Eastland of Mississippi and Olin D. Johnson of South Carolina—had indicated they intended to vote against the appointment.

Warren's nomination to succeed the late Fred M. Vinson as Chief Justice was submitted to the Senate on Jan. 11, but it was not until last Wednesday that the Senate Judiciary Committee voted 12 to 3 to recommend confirmation.

Fight in Subcommittee.

Langer, chairman of the subcommittee that first considered the nomination, stirred up a tepest by making public 10 unchecked and unsworn charges against Warren at a public hearing.

Knowland had called the hearing "the most shocking event" he had observed in his eight years in the Senate and subsequently suggested the Senate might well revise its present seniority system of selecting committee chairmen.

TWO STATE DEPARTMENT APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—The Senate by unanimous voice vote today confirmed President Eisenhower's appointment of John M. Cabot to be ambassador to Sweden.

Cabot has been Assistant Secretary of State for Latin-American affairs.

The nomination of Henry F. Holland of Texas as Assistant Secretary of State to succeed Cabot was confirmed on a similar vote.

NEW SYRIAN HEAD OF STATE; MORE RIOTS IN CAPITAL

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

DAMASCUS, March 1 (AP)—Revolt-wracked Syria's army chief of staff sternly warned against further violence and demonstrations today as the capital prepared to greet the nation's new chief of state, Hachem Bey el Attassi.

Though rival factions of army rebels united behind Attasi and Ex-Dictator Adib Shishekly's cabinet agreed to step out, new rioting broke out in Damascus last night and 13 persons were reported wounded, some seriously, when troops fired on the crowds and used tear gas.

(A United Press dispatch from Beirut, Lebanon, said police opened fire yesterday to end a two-hour demonstration by Communists who rushed for Damascus radio, chief voice of the nation, with cries of "down with imperialism.")

The capital for the second night was under a curfew. It was calm again today.

One person was killed and 20 injured Saturday night when pro-Shishekly troops fired on mobs who were demanding the resignation of the ousted dictator's cabinet and Acting President Maahmoun Kuzbari.

Kuzbari, who took over the army revolt Thursday sent Shishekly fleeing into exile in Saudi Arabi, agreed to step down in favor of Attassi yesterday.

Attassi, 79-year-old political veteran and two-time president, was proclaimed head of the state in a broadcast yesterday by Col. Shawkat Shkeir, the army chief.

Shkeir said Attassi was agreed on at a meeting of political and military leaders Saturday night at Homs, 90 miles north of Damascus. The truce meeting apparently healed the split which had divided the rebels after their uprising last week.

Attassi was due here today from Homs to be received officially.

Unconfirmed reports said a new cabinet had been formed with Nationalist party leader Sabri Assali as premier. The rest of the cabinet was reported to include three other Nationalists, four members of Attassi's Populist party and four independents.

Assali and his party were dominant in the regime of Al Sayet Shukri Al Kuwatly, who was ousted from the presidency by a military coup in 1949.

The much-revered Attassi has been a leading political figure since 1919, when he entered the Arab government the French set up at Damascus. He was a member of the first Syrian constituent assembly in 1928.

Attassi became president first in January 1936, but was ousted by the French three years later when they suspended the Syrian government. He was returned to office after adoption of a new constitution in September 1950. Shishekly forced him out in December 1951, when he took control of the country.

Attassi was one of 12 anti-Shishekly leaders arrested last month after rebellion broke out in the Druse tribe. The group was freed soon after the dictator fled the country.

INDIA SPURNS U.S. ARMS; WON'T BE 'HYPOCRITICAL'

Nehru Tells Eisenhower Aid to Pakistan Ends Neutrality, Objects to Americans in Kashmir

(Related Story on Page 1C.)

NEW DELHI, March 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru rejected President Eisenhower's offer of arms aid for India today and demanded that American observers with the United Nations cease-fire team in disputed Kashmir be withdrawn.

By giving military aid to Pakistan, Nehru told Parliament, the United States had intervened in the Indian-Pakistani fight over the Himalyan state and the American observers therefore "can no longer be treated by us as neutrals."

At the end of 1953 the United States had 14 officers with the 48-member U.N. military mission supervising the Kashmir truce. The United States Air Force also makes a C-47 transport and crew available when needed.

'Hypocrites' if They Agreed.

Eisenhower's offer of American arms aid "has done less than justice to us or to himself," Nehru declared, continuing: "If we object to military aid being given to Pakistan, we would be hypocrites and unprincipled opportunists to accept it ourself."

Announcing the aid to Pakistan last week, Eisenhower said the United States would give "most sympathetic consideration" to any request from India for such heip. In a letter to Nehru he also assured India that the United States would see to it that Pakistan used the arms from America for defense only.

Nehru today made public his reply, thanking the President "for your personal message" and saying his government would continue to follow its present policies "which are based on a desire for peace." India now buys its arms where it pleases and does not accept direct arms aid from foreign governments.

Other than this, however, the letter made no specific mention of the United States arms offer.

Explanation to Parliament.

The Premier's review in Parliament of the arms aid question was another matter, however.

"I have no doubt the President is opposed to aggression," Nehru said, commenting on Eisenhower's assurance that the aid to Pakistan would not be misused.

"But we know from past experience that aggression takes place and nothing is done about it. Aggression took place in Kashmir six and a half years ago and thus far the United States has not only not condemned it, but we have been asked not to press it in the interests of peace. Aggression may well follow in spite of the best intentions of the President and then a long argument will ensue on what exactly is aggression."

Nehru said recent exchanges between India and Pakistan had become more friendly regarding the Kashmir question, but "that has all changed now," with the granting of United States aid to Pakistan.

The proposed demilitarization of the disputed state, to be followed by a plebiscite on whether to join India or Pakistan—or become autonomous—must now be "reconsidered from a different point of view," Nehru declared.

Outside Forces Now Factor.

"It must be considered against the question that beyond the cease-fire line there will be large additional forces thrust in from abroad and put at the disposal of Pakistan.

He cited press reports of congressional testimony by United States Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson on Feb. 26 that "the United States must dominate Asia for an indefinite period and pose a military threat to Communist China until it disintegrates."

Nehru said there had been "conflicting reports" on exactly what Robertson testified. One version was that he said the United States must maintain its "posture of strength" in Asia, rather than "dominate Asia."

"Whatever the wording the meaning is the same," Nehru said. "It is known that India's policy in regard to the people's government of China differs from that of the United States. Our two policies in this respect are wholly opposed to each other. But what is more important is that a responsible officer in the United States should say that it is their policy that the United States must dominate Asia for an indefinite period."

"It is said this aid is intended to protect Pakistan from aggression. I am unable to see any danger of aggression to Pakistan from any quarter. However, Pakistan's United Nations delegate, Mr. (Ahmed) Bokhari, has been kind enough to make this clear. In a speech two days ago he said Pakistan wanted to guarantee her frontier against the two biggest powers in Asia—he ferred to China and India.

"It is not clear to me how China is going to invade Pakistan over the Karakoram Pass (on the Kashmir-China trade route), and as for India we have repeatedly shown our peaceful intentions."

(The United Press said Nehru questioned whether agreements such as that between the United States and Pakistan—which he called "military alliances"—are "in consonance with the spirit of the U.N. charter.")

Nehru's letter to Eisenhower said:

"I thank you for your personal message which your Ambassador in Delhi handed to me on the 24th. With this message was a copy of your statement in regard to military aid being given by the U.S.A. to Pakistan.

"I appreciate the assurances you have given. You are, however, aware of the views of my Government and our people in this matter. Those views and policy we have pursed after most careful thought and are based on a desire to help in the furtherance of peace and freedom we will continue to pursue that policy."

American officials here said the withdrawal of United States personnel from the Kashmir cease-fire mission was a matter for the U.N. Secretary General to decide but they thought Washington probably would not permit them to remain in India in view of Nehru's attitude.

More Surplus Food for Jobless To Be Proposed in Senate Bill

Senator Lister Hill and Two Others to Urge Broader Government Relief in 'Distress' Areas.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP)—Senator Lister Hill (Dem.), Alabama, planned to introduce legislation today to broaden the Government's program of providing surplus food to unemployment "distress" areas.

He said the bill will be co-sponsored by Senators Earle C. Clements (Dem.), Kentucky, and J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas. Hill said the legislation would make it easier and less expensive for states and local communities to obtain for relief purposes some of the huge food surpluses built up by the Government under the farm price support program.

At present, limited amounts of surplus food move into "distress" areas on request of a state official if the state agrees to handle the repacking and distribution. This often is prohibitively expensive.

Hill's bill would give the Secretary of Agriculture additional authority to move more surplus food into areas designated as unemployment "distress" regions by the Bureau of Employment Security.

It would authorize the Agriculture Department to repackage the surplus food stocks into smaller units and distribute them to unemployment areas.

Under the present law, the surplus food is delivered in bulk at a state border. State and local communities must repackage it and handle the distribution problem.

Such relief now is going to unemployed farmers in West Virginia and Pennsylvania and jobless farm hands in Missouri. The latest request for aid, which the department said it would honor, came from Gov. William S. Beardsley of Iowa.

Hill said in a statement his bill would permit the department to supplement this program. He said funds left for the current program are estimated at $186,000,000 and this is inadequate to meet steadily increasing demands for unemployment areas.

Police said that Bugg, Negro, was in the habit of carrying all his savings on his person. The two robbers fled on foot.

WEST EUROPEAN SOCIALISTS GIVE BACKING TO EDC

BRUSSELS, March 1 (AP)—Socialist leaders from all western Eurrope except West Germany have indorsed the proposed European army as "the means to insure Europe's security."

A delegation of the German Socialist party abstained yesterday when the representatives of 11 other nations at the European conference of the Socialist International adopted a resolution in favor of the European Defense Community. West German Socialists have led the fight against the EDC in their country.

The Socialist parties blamed the failure of the recent Berlin conference on Russia. They argued, however, tnat negotiations be continued to reunify Germany through free elections.

Turning to Asian problems, the conference called for a political settlement in Korea and negotiations to end fighting in Indochia. It added that a general Far East settlement "will necessarily entail" U.N. membership for the Chinese Communists.

Delegates at the conference were present from Austria, Denmark, France, Britain, West Germany, Luxembourg, Holland, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, Finland and Belgium.

The EDC resolution adopted by the conference said: "In the present international situation, the conference insists on the necessity to reinforce Western democracies political, economic and defensive solidarity and consider that all the Socialist parties must examine attentively the conditions of their participation and association, in their respective countries, to the European Defense Community, which is the means to insure Europe's security."

Resolutions also called for "the creation of a European security system guaranteeing independence to all European nations including those over the Iron Curtain."

5 KILLED IN BLAST RAZING 2 BUILDINGS IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, March 1 (AP)—Five persons, including three children in a neighborhood luncheonette, were killed last night when an explosion destroyed two buildings in a crowded section of South Philadelphia.

A 17-year-old girl, trapped for six hours in a public telephone booth under the mountain of rubble, escaped unharmed. Twenty others, including four firemen, were injured.

The dead included the proprietor of the luncheonette, Isadore Pearlman, 50 years old, and three young customers. The bodies of Bruce Schwartz, 9, and Salvatore Baladino, 6, were found under the soda fountain. The body of 15-year-old Marie Marone was uncovered nearby.

NAVY ALASKA OIL LAND APPEARS TO REST HEAVILY ON STATEHOOD ISSUE

Opening Reserve to Private Interest Not in Bill, but May Hinge on Debate if Senate Gets to It.

By TOM YARBROUGH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 1—The decision whether to open the Navy's immense Alaskan oil reserve to private development appeared to rest heavily today on whether the Senate gets around to debating the Alaska statehood bill at this session.

Strongest proponents of opening up the reserve have pushed the proposal as an aid to the people of Alaska in supporting the cost of operating a state government.

The proposal is not included in the bill, but those behind it say they have brought it up as a means of increasing the political chances of statehood, and it may stand or fall in the debate, as it is almost sure to be a major part of it.

The bill has been reported favorably by the Senate Interior committee, but the Republican leadership has not assigned it a place on the calendar for debate, although Hawaii statehood is the next major measure in line after disposal of the Bricker amendment.

Senator William F. Knowland (Rep.), California, Senate majority leader, has rejected a proposal to tie the two statehood proposals together in the same bill. If the Alaska bill is not brought up for debate, its proponents, many of whom favor opening the reserve for private development, will have no opportunity to present their case for it on the floor.

Senator Hugh Butler (Rep.), Nebraska, chairman of the Interior committee, who made the first official move to open the 30-year-old reservation to private interests, said he wanted a provision to that effect included in the statehood bill, but Democrats in his committee blocked it.

B. Frank Heintzleman, Governor of Alaska, who came to Washington for hearings on the territorial government budget, said the people of Alaska are almost unanimous in wanting the Navy claim canceled, in the hope that large oil companies will move in and spend money —thus contributing to industrial development of Alaska.

Nevertheless, some leaders in the fight for statehood, with an eye on political considerations, have said they prefer to let the oil reserve question be settled after the debate on statehood itself. They fear that some Senators in favor of statehood for Alaska might be opposed to giving up the Navy reserve for use by the state.

Senator Butler has said he would continue to work for opening up the huge block of Arctic wasteland—on which oil and gas have been found in substantial amounts—regardless of what happens to the Alaska statehood measure.

It was a letter from Butler to Douglas McKay, Secretary of the Interior, on Feb. 9, that brought the question into the open. Butler asked McKay to take the first steps toward transferring control of the area from the Navy to the Interior Department, quoting a Navy letter saying it would not object.

Ernest Gruening, who was Governor of Alaska for 13 years before stepping aside for a Republican, is in Washington writing a book and also keeping a close watch on progress of the statehood movement He said he was "sorry to see the Navy pull out after spending as much as it did on exploration." Still, he said, he thought it would be a good thing to allow oil companies to go into the reserve—as an economic boon to Alaska.

He said he personally had not been consulted by any oil men interested in going into the northern area, but felt nevertheless that if the way were opened some would be willing to spend money on the great amount of searching that remains to be done.

E. L. Bartlett, Alaska delegate in the House of Representatives, who has no vote, said also he knew of no desire by oil companies to go into the area but felt that from the standpoint of promoting industrial development they should be given an opportunity.

Secretary McKay said he knew nothing of Butler's proposal until he read of it in a newspaper, but added that he would be willing to discuss it with Butler and other members of the committee. He noted that the Navy letter, while offering "no objection," pointed out that the decision was for President Eisenhower and Congress.

Butler said he had not discussed the matter with the President and did not know what his attitude might be.

The Navy, after spending eight years and more than $50,000,000 drilling for oil and gas in the Alaska reserve, suddenly suspended all exploration last year, with approval by the House Armed Services committee.

A Navy witness said at the time, however, "We have not completed a reasonable evaluation of the field," and that the possibility remained that a "tremendous" amount of oil and gas might be there.

3 SAFES IN GAMBRINUS HALL FORCED OPEN, $395 STOLEN

A total of $395 was taken by burglars who forced open three safes in Gambrinus Hall, 3628 Wisconsin avenue, police reported today. Entrance to the building was gained through a second story window, which had been forced.

Burglars took $220 from the safe in the first floor lounge, $100 from the third floor office of Brewery Firemen-Oilers and Maintenance Men, Local 367, and $75 from Local 6 of the Brewers and Malsters Union, also on the third floor.

Frank Buchholz, manager of the lounge, said the money was obtained between 11:30 p.m. yesterday and 6:30 a.m. today. Police said burglars apparently climbed the fire escape before forcing the window.

THREE FLEEING HOLDUP MEN CAPTURED ON EADS BRIDGE

Three men who held up the Crown Drug Co. store, 370 South Fifteenth street, East St. Louis, yesterday, fleeing with $209, were captured on Eads bridge a few minutes later after a chase by Police Lt. Frank Cook of East St. Louis, who spotted their automobile as it headed for the bridge.

Police said the men, all Negroes, admitted the robbery and that two were identified by Arthur Lee Sessom, clerk in the store, who had fired three shots at their automobile, then gave police a description of the machine. Cook got the description by radio and, with drawn revolver, forced the machine to a stop near the west end of the bridge.

3-CENT AIR MAIL FLIGHTS TO CITY BEING CONSIDERED

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP) —The Post Office is planning to expand its experimental program of carrying 3-cent letters by plane.

A spokesman said today that several additional routes are being considered in the West and Southwest.

The one-year experiment started last October with air transportation of regular letters between New York and Chicago and between Washington and Chicago. Service was added on Feb. 22 between those three cities and Jacksonville, Tampa, and Miami, Fla.

The spokesman said no date has been set for extending the service to other points. Under consideration, he said, are a Pacific coast route from San Diego to Seattle, another from the East to St. Louis, Dallas, and Houston, and a third from Chicago to St. Louis and New Orleans.

KILGORE IGNORED FLU TO VOTE ON TREATY POWER

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 1—Senator Kilgore (Dem.), West Virginia, who last Friday cast the deciding vote against limiting the President's treaty-making powers, made his dramatic last-minute appearance on the Senate floor despite a severe case of flu which had him confined to his home today.

Kilgore, an opponent of both the Bricker amendment and the George substitute, arrived to cast a resounding "no" vote after the roll call was completed. Until his vote, the tally stood 60 to 30, the required two-thirds margin for approval of George's measure.

The long walk from Kilgore's office through the Senate subway to the chamber was made with the assistance of an aid. During the day, Kilgore had answered each roll call on the Bricker proposal, then returned to his office to rest on a couch.

When it beecame apparent Kilgore's illness would delay his appearance for the final vote, Senator Magnuson (Dem.), Washington, won a delay in announcement of the tally until Kilgore could appear.

EARNINGS TAX HEARINGS DUE TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

Proponents of Proposal to Extend Levy Will Be Heard First by Senate Group.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 1 —The initial hearing on the St. Louis earnings tax bill probably will be held next week, Senator William M. Quinn, chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, said today.

This is a tentative assignment, inasmuch as the schedule for handling the important measure has yet to be agreed on by committee members, he explained.

The first hearing will be for proponents of the bill to extend the city's authority to levy the tax. Opponents of the measure would get their chance to testify the following week.

Senator Quinn (Dem.), of Maywood, expressed the hope that the earnings tax bill can clear the committee in two weeks.

"We do not want to get the bill balled up with the appropriation measures," he said. "We want to get appropriation bills out of the way as soon as possible. We also want to get committee action on the earnings tax measure as soon as we can.

"I hope the special session of the Legislature will not continue for the full 60 days."

Senator Michael Kinney of St. Louis, president pro tem, is chief sponsor of the bill to extend the city's authority to levy an earnings tax. This authority will expire April 1, depriving St. Louis of $8,000,000 a year in revenue and precipitating a crisis in the city's finances, if the Legislature does not extend it.

The Senate met briefly this afternoon, with no formal business pending. The House goes back into session tomorrow.

Hearings will begin tomorrow on two of the major matters on the agenda set by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly. The House Appropriations Committee will begin three days of testimony on a bill to extend the state's drouth emergency program. In the Senate, the Roads and Highways Committee will open hearings on Donnelly's proposal to set up a special committee to make a survey of highway safety needs.

$1,150,000 Red Cross Fund Drive Opens; Generous Donations Urged

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Leicester Faust, chairman of the 1954 American Red Cross fund-raising campaign, today called on St. Louisans to contribute generously as the campaign got under way with a "dutch treat" kick-off breakfast at Hotel Jefferson.

"The simple act of contributing to your Red Cross automatically identifies you with each individual act of mercy this great organization performs everywhere in the world," Faust said in a talk which was broadcast over all St. Louis radio stations.

Faust also directed his remarks to volunteers who will begin door-to-door solicitation in an effort to reach the 1954 goal of $1,150,000.

Important Link in Agency.

"You are the all-important link between the generous contributor and the Red Cross workers," he said. "You feed, shelter, clothe and rebuild homes for disaster victims; you save lives by helping to vitalize a strong blood program, water safety, first aid and home nursing; you aid the men and women in our Armed Forces here and overseas; you provide instruction, entertainment and family contacts to disabled and hospitalized veterans."

Director of Public Service Joseph P. Sestric represented the city at the breakfast. He pointed out that the Red Cross belongs to the people of St. Louis in a special way because "it's supported entirely by your contributions and pays enormous humanitarian dividends for every dollar invested in its varied services."

Whitelaw T. Terry, vice chairman of the St. Louis chapter of the Red Cross, suggested a standard of giving, saying "we'll go over our goal in a way that will make us all very proud if each one of us will give the equivalent of two hours pay or give one-half of 1 per cent of annual income.

Speaking for thousands of housewives who will participate in the door-to-door solicitation, Mrs. Robert Kaiser called for additional volunteers.

Mrs. Robert G. Langehennig, chairman of the Shrewsbury unit, reported that the city of Shrewsbury was the first Greater St. Louis community to pass its campaign goal. Workers there already have collected $1230, the goal being $1225.

Eisenhower Appeals for Generous Support of Drive.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) —President Eisenhower has appealed for generous public support of the Red Cross not only because of its material contributions to humanity but because of its basic idea of "people helping people."

In a statement yesterday keynoting the annual Red Cross drive for funds, which was recorded in advance on film for television or other use, the President mentioned all the traditional aids furnished by the organization for years, then emphasized its blood program.

He said the blood donated by the American people has saved not only the wounded on the battlefields of World War II and Korea, but the sick and injured in more than 3000 hospitals here at home.

The President said the Red Cross exemplifies the enormous power which kindness and generosity can exert to "move men closer to the day when the rule of force will be banished from the world, and when the Golden Rule will guide the actions of mankind."

MAN BURNS TO DEATH IN FIRE THAT DESTROYS HIS TRAILER

Everett Borton, a bakery employe, was burned to death yesterday in a fire that destroyed his house trailer in Meadowbrook, Ill., two miles east of Bethalto.

Borton's body was found in a chair near the door of the trailer. Bethalto firemen said the cause of the fire could not be determined. An inquest will be held.

CIVIL DEFENSE SIRENS GET AN 8-SECOND 'GROWL' TEST

An eight-second 'growl" test of the civil defense siren system at 11 a.m. today indicated that the system is in excellent working condition, Robert M. Hanson, civil defense executive, said.

He explained that the tests will be made the first Monday of each month to determine whether there have been any mechanical failures in the network.

16 POSTAL INSPECTORS ACCUSED OF POLITICKING

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP) —The Civil Service Commission said today that 16 postal inspectors in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area have been charged with engaging in political activity in violation of the Hatch Act.

It said "letters of charges" were sent to the 16 last week. They were given 15 days to reply.

Under the Hatch Act it is unlawful for a government employe in certain categories to engage in political activity. Violators are subject to disciplinary action, including dismissal.

ALDERMEN HEAR PLEA TO REZONE 20-ACRE TRACT

The Aldermanic zoning committee today took under advisement a proposal for rezoning for multiple residential purposes a 20-acre industrial tract west of Hereford street between Arsenal street and Columbia avenue.

Heated arguments developed at a hearing during which neighborhood spokesmen called the tract an "eyesore" and opponents argued the rezoning proposal was unfair and "unconstitutional."

The tract was used by Blackmer & Post Pipe Co. for 50 years. It was purchased two years ago by Stupp Bros. Bridge & Iron Co. and leased for five years to Laclede Christy Co. It is served by Missouri Pacific Lines.

Citizens Seek Change.

Former City Counselor James E. Crowe was counsel for a citizens' group seeking the zoning change. William Harrison, industrial real estate dealer, presented the case for the opposition. The Chamber of Commerce of Greater St. Louis, the City Plan Commission, the Missouri Pacific an dattorneys for owner and lessee opposed the plan.

Harrison brought murmurs of protest from spectators at the hearing when he declared that the proposed zoning bill would deprive present owners of their property in a way which was not American, but rather "the way of Commies and South American dictators."

Although Harrison later said it certainly was not his intention to hint that any Communists were present, a man rose to ask: "Since when has it become un-American to fight for the rights of our children on the streets?"

Amid applause, another spectator, Mrs. O. Biffignani, 4893 Reber place, said she lived "right across from that dump" and expressed fear there would be no place for her four children to play if the tract were not rezoned. She received an ovation.

Plan Board's View.

William H. Colbion, planning director of the City Plan Commission, said reclassifying the property would be a mistake. He declared: "Our studies reveal there is a scarcity of industrial sites in St. Louis."

Kenneth Teasdale, attorney for Laclede Christy, termed the rezoning proposal clearly unconstitutional in that it would deprive owners of property rights without due process of law. Even if the bill passed and were declared valid, it was pointed out, tenants would have the right to continue their present industrial operations.

Crowe, speaking for the bill, said it was a case of "property values versus human values."

James W. Noonan, committee chairman, said the group would announce its decision later.

ST. LOUIS DAIRY AND PET MILK CO. ACCUSED BY FTC

They Are Charged With Unfair Methods of Competition on Frozen Products.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 1 — Pet Milk Co. and St. Louis Dairy Co., both of St. Louis, today were named by the Federal Trade Commission in complaints charging unfair methods of competition in sale and distribution of ice cream and related frozen products.

The Pet company was one of eight major ice cream manufacturers named in identical complaints and St. Louis Dairy was named as a subsidiary of National Dairy Products Corp. of New York City.

Complaints were issued against 55 subsidiaries of the eight major companies. The commission estimated that these companies and their subsidiaries conduct 40 per cent of the nation's ice cream business.

"Hinder Competition."

The complaints allege that "these companies follow practices in the sale and distribution of ice cream which have a dangerous tendency unduly to hinder competition and create monopoly."

The commission said that ice cream is customarily distributed through drug, grocery and confectionery retailers and restaurants, hotels, wayside stands and institutions and alleged that the firms named in the complaints were offering "unfair inducements" in seeking accounts with these outlets.

These "inducements" were in the form of cash loans, bonus payments, discriminatory discounts and supplying refrigeration equipment on terms and conditions "calculated to make each dealer an exclusive seller of their products."

The complaints said that ice cream manufacturing has developed into a major industry with sales totalling over one billion dollars annually and that the volume of ice cream and frozen products rose from 148,298,000 gallons in 1920 to 618,532,000 in 1950, though the number of dealers dropped from 2427 in 1920 to 1521 in 1947.

Hearing Dates Set.

"Small business entities in the industry cannot meet the alleged unfair competitive practices of the named respondents because of lack of capital, therefore, are being forced to sell out to larger corporations or discontinue business.

Hearings on the Pet Milk Co. complaint will be held in St. Louis June 15. The National Dairy Products Corp. case will be heard in New York May 18.

Other major manufacturers named by the commission are Carnation Milk Co., Los Angeles; the Borden Co., New York City; Beatrice Foods, Chicago; Fairmont Foods Co., Omaha; Arden Farms, Los Angeles, and Foremost Ice Cream Co., Jacksonville, Fla.

ALL 9 ABOARD AIRLINER KILLED IN WYOMING CRASH

WRIGHT, Wyo., March 1 (UP) —A ground party radioed today it had reached the wreckage of a Western Airlines Convair which crashed three days ago and there were no survivors among the nine persons aboard.

Sheriff Carl Thoemig said the plane had smashed against the side of a small ravine on Black Thunder creek at a point about 15 miles east of Wright, where the big twin-engined plane's pilot last reported his position during a heavy snowstorm last Friday.

The plane carried a crew of three and six passengers, three of them Western employes, on a flight from Los Angeles to Minneapolis. None was listed as from the St. Louis area.

McCarthy Group to Hear Stevens On Army Handling of Reds

Senator Says Secretary Will Appear Thursday or Next Monday — Closed Session Planned.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Robert T. B. Stevens and Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, finally will have that face to face meeting on the issue of Communism in the Army.

McCarthy announced today that the man with whom he has been disputing over the question of whether Army officers have been abused will appear before the Senate Investigations subcommittee either next Thursday or the following Monday.

But at this point no television or radio hookups are planned, as they were for a once-scheduled and then canceled "showdown" between the Senator and the secretary over treatment of Army witnesses.

McCarthy said the meeting will be behind closed doors unless Stevens prefers otherwise.

Staff aids said Stevens's appearance had been suggested by John Adams, Army legal adviser, and that Stevens would testify voluntarily.

And rather than the issue of abuse of Army officers, the question up for consideration will be various ways the Army has handled cases of persons accused of Communist connections.

5 Senators at Hearing.

In contrast with the one-man hearings that McCarthy has often conducted, today's hearing was attended by four other subcommittee members — Republican Senators Mundt of South Dakota, Dirksen of Illinois and Potter of Michigan and Democratic Senator McClellan of Arkansas. The other members of the subcommittee are Democratic Senators Symington of Missouri (in Europe at present) and Jackson of Washington.

McCarthy told reporters today he is "concerned" because of what he said is a contradictory manner in which the Army treated the cases of Pvts. David Linfield and Sid Rubenstein and former Maj. Irving Peress, all of New York.

Peress is the dentist who was given an honorable discharge although McCarthy called him a "Fifth Amendment Communist." Peress called McCarthy's contentions "nonsense."

While Peress was honorably discharged, McCarthy told reporters, Linfield still is in the army, and Rubenstein was given a second-grade honorable discharge against his wishes although he has renounced Communism and has been completely co-operative.

Linfield was before the Senate subcommittee today and refused to answer questions. The Senators voted to cite him for contempt.

Linfield, 25 years old, came with a lawyer, Martin Friedman, who described the soldier as a "poor schnook" caught in the middle of a battle between McCarthy and the Army. Friedman said too that it was a "darned outrage."

Linfield was questioned behind closed doors. It was the first hearing on what McCarthy calls Army "coddling of Communists" since McCarthy's row with Stevens.

The subcommittee had announced that the witnesses would be Pfc. Marvin Belsky, 25, a doctor at the Army's Murphy General Hospital at Waltham, Mass., and Rubenstein.

As it developed, Belsky was not here today.

Friedman in a statement to reporters said Linfield swore to the subcommittee that he never has committed espionage or sabotage. He said his client did not answer all questions, adding: "He has not co-operated with Senator McCarthy, I think because of the fact in his opinion Senator McCarthy continually violates his (Linfield's) constitutional rights."

In contrast to Linfield, McCarthy said, Rubenstein was entirely co-operative and offered to give any information he had to the subcommittee and to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Rubenstein told reporters he was discharged from the Army last month "under honorable conditions" after having served only since November 1952.

"I Wised Up."

He said he had asked not to be discharged, but was released because he had told the Army he had been a Communist while a teen-aged student at the Dewitt Clinton High School in Brooklyn, N. Y. Rubenstein said he quit the party at the age of 17, because "I grew up—I wised up."

Over the week end, a high Administration source informed reporters that the White House had passed the word it hoped Republican members would see to it that McCarthy was not left alone to question subcommittee witnesses, either in public or private.

Mundt, just before going into the closed hearing, said there had been no such White House request to him.

He said he believes reports of such requests "are completely and totally wrong . . . either planted by someone irresponsible or cooked up by someone partly responsible."

McCarthy said yesterday he thought Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker — the officer Stevens said suffered humiliating treatment at McCarthy's hands—should be recalled later because the general showed by his testimony either he "was mistaken or guilty of perjury, or the Associated Press story and my investigators were wrong."

McCarthy was referring to an A.P. account of a report given by the Army Friday on the case of former Maj. Irving Peress.

McCarthy's new remarks about Zwicker came in connection with a report given by the Army Friday on its commissioning, calling to active duty, promoting and honorably discharging former Maj. Peress, a New York dentist who declined on constitutional grounds to answer questions about membership in subversive organizations.

McCarthy said the Pentagon report backed up his investigators' findings that the honorable discharge was ordered after McCarthy demanded Peress be court-martialed and dishonorably discharged.

McCarthy said Zwicker had testified the discharge was ordered before any public announcement about Peress.

Representative Javits (Rep.-Lib.), New York, prepared for introduction in the House today a bill to set up a single Senate-House committee on internal security, replacing the present House Un-American Activities Committee and the Senate Internal Security subcommittee and taking over from the McCarthy subcommittee investigative jurisdiction over alleged subversion. Javits said his proposal would not only reduce duplication, but also make it easier to adopt "rules of fair procedure."

Home Stoned, Says Dentist Assailed by McCarthy.

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Dr. Irving Peress says he has been persecuted as a civilian since Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, denounced him, and he charges that his home was stoned.

Peress said in a statement last night that on Saturday night "Fascist hoodlums threw rocks through our windows, narrowly missing our children and endangering their lives." He has been given police protection.

The dentist, whose honorable discharge from the Army as a major touched off the battle between McCarthy and Army officials, also said:

"Since my appearance before McCarthy, I have been accorded the reception typical of innocent victims hounded and abused by McCarthy. Letters have been sent to my home and office, all unsigned, most of which are overflowing with . . . anti-Semitic epithets and quotes."

Peress, whom McCarthy called "a Fifth Amendment Communist," said phrases in the letters attacked him as a Jew and compared his family with that of executed atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

"This," Peress continued, "comes from the self-styled 100 per cent loyal Americans, the super-patriots who in a true tradition of the storm troopers of Hitler crowned their efforts Saturday night with rocks thrown through the windows of my children's bedroom.

JAPANESE FIRM TO MAKE U.S, JET FIGHTERS IF GOVERNMENTS APPROVE

TOKYO, March 1 (UP).

AN eight-year bar on Japanese manufacture of warplanes neared an end today with an announcement that Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and a Japanese firm have contracted for manufacture of American jet fighters here.

Lockheed gave Kawasaki Aircraft Co. all rights necessary to manufacture Lockheed's two-seat jet trainer, the T-33, and its all-weather fighter, the F-94C Starfire.

Planes manufactured under the Lockheed - Kawasaki agreement presumably would go to the United States Air Force unless the Japanese government decides later to make jets available to Japan's defense forces.

The agreement now must be approved by governments of both Japan and the United States, a Kawasaki spokesman said.

RED RUNS FIRST IN 18-MAN RACE FOR FRENCH CHAMBER

VERSAILLES, France, March 1 (AP)—A once-jailed Communist editor was high man yesterday in a parliament election in Paris suburbs. Because none of the 18 candidates polled a majority, a run-off vote will be held next Sunday. The anti-Red candidates are expected to unite behind one of their number to beat back the Communist threat.

Andre Stil, editor of the Communist party organ L'Humanite, ran first with 97,873 votes—38.6 per cent—in the voting to replace a deceased Gaullist deputy in the Seine-et-Oise department. Mrs. Germaine Peyroles, of the Catholic Popular Republican Movement (MRP) ran second.

Stil was arrested last summer on a charge of plotting against the French state but later was released.

STOLEN ZERK ART OBJECTS FOUND; 2 PERSONS ARRESTED

CHICAGO, March 1 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced today recovery of art objects stolen by three gunmen from the Kenosha (Wis.), estate of Oscar U. Zerk, wealthy inventor.

Arrested and charged with receiving stolen property were Nick Palermo, 45 years old, owner of the Melrose Park Plumbing Co., and his bookkeeper, Ms. Jean Marie Buenomo, 28. Palermo and Mrs. Buenomo denied any knowledge of the thefts. They said the second floor of the plumbing shop had been rented to a man they could not identify. FBI agents found the goods in the rented quarters.

Roy Rogers Hit by Shot.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, March 1 (AP)—Cowboy film star Roy Rogers shot himself and his horse Trigger at a weekend performance at a theater here. Rogers escaped with a slight nosebleed and Trigger with a stung flank. They were hit by small pellets which ricocheted off the stage while Rogers was demonstrating his pistol marksmanship.

Duke of Kent Passes Test.

LONDON, March 1 (AP)—The Duke of Kent, seventh in line of succession to the British throne, has passed his examination to become an officer cadet in the regular army, it was announced today. The 18-year-old duke enlisted as a private last September.

8 DEAD, 25 HURT IN RESORT FIRE IN CATSKILLS

Employes' Quarters Razed by Flames at Widely-Known Grossinger Hotel.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

LIBERTY, N.Y., March 1 (UP)—Investigators poked through charred ruins today to determine the cause of a flash fire in which eight persons perished and 25 others were injured in the employes' quarters at the Grossinger Hotel, widely known Catskill mountain resort.

The flames consumed the three-story frame building early yesterday while the resort's 900 guests, including Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano and his family, continued to sleep, unaware of the disaster.

Fire Chief Dewey Borden of Liberty said the fire apparently started in an entryway and spread up the stairway, cutting off one avenue of escape of 65 employes sleeping in the building. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

Seven of those who died were trapped in rooms near the third-floor landing. The rest of the occupants leaped from the burning building in their night-clothes.

A spokesman at the hotel said the fire apparently was discovered by a dog belonging to Louis Schmidt, a Grossinger's laborer. The dog awakened its master who spread the alarm.

One of the dead was an expectant mother who was trapped by the flames. Her husband also died when he ran back into the building in an attempt to rescue her. One of the injured, taken to a hospital in a critical condition from burns and a fractured leg suffered when she leaped from her flaming room, died of her injuries today.

Marciano, here to train for his next championship bout June 17, his infant daughter and his mother, Lena, slept through the commotion. Few of the guests occupying 20 buildings scattered over the 750-acre resort said they heard anything.

The Grossinger fire department and units from Liberty fought the flames for 45 minutes before they were extinguished. Before the firemen arrived employes dragged mattresses outdoors to break the fall of those who jumped.

MOSLEMS IN JAVA RIOT, BURN TWO ARMY BARRACKS

JAKARTA, March 1 (AP)—The Indonesian Government held a number of persons for questioning today following a religious-political riot in which an army captain was killed, many persons injured, and two army barracks burned.

The violence broke out yesterday as 250,000 Moslems gathered to protest "insults" to the Islamic religion in recent political speeches.

After burning the barracks, the mob marched on Parliament. Then it converged on Vice President Mohammed Hatta's residence, where the leaders presented their complaints.

The demonstration was backed by the Masjumi, the major Moslem political party in the country. It is struggling for power against the Indonesian Nationalist party, which leads the current coalition government.

Both sides have called demonstrations recently in jockeying for power.

$20 Filling Station Holdup.

A total of $20 was taken from a filling station at 1139 North Kingshighway early yesterday by two men armed with revolvers, police were told. Harold Blakenship, 4109 West Pine boulevard, attendant, said the men escaped on foot.

21 ARE REPORTED DEAD IN SUDAN IN ANTI-NAGUIB RIOT

keep public order today following the return of ousted President Gen. Mohammed Naguib as chief of state and a new outbreak of mob violence.

All government universities—past hotbeds of mob action—were ordered closed indefinitely after wild demonstrations yesterday, in which police wounded 12 rioters. One police officer also was hit by a shot from a student.

The police opened fire as disorderly, slogan-shouting crowds of young people surged toward Republican square from all over the city to cheer Naguib, their popular hero. The display of force nipped the demonstration before it endangered the country's shaky military regime.

Naguib, waving and smiling, appeared on a balcony at the presidential palace and appealed in an impromptu speech for "moderation and forgiveness."

Facing the first anti-government riots since the army overthrew King Farouk 19 months ago, Naguib and the man who supplanted him briefly last week, Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, patched up their differences enough to make a show of unity. The President sat yesterday in a cabinet meeting beside his former deputy. Nasser now holds Naguib's other former posts of Prime Minister and chairman of the Revolution Council, the ruling body of 12 army officers who planned and directed the coup against Farouk and tried to drop Naguib last week.

A joint statement yesterday by the cabinet and the Revolutionary Council said "some vicious elements and opportunists tried to exploit this national jubilance (over Naguib's restoration) in achieving their vicious aims."

This obviously referred to the underground Communists and members of the recently outlawed Moslem Brotherhood. Both groups took advantage of the confused situation to try to stir up violence.

The government feared the street mobs would get out of hand as they had in January 1952, when they stormed through Cairo in an outburst against foreigners and set fire to numerous buildings.

SHARP DISRUPTION OF CITY SERVICES AS 166 STRIKE

drawn. Presiding Judge James E. McLaughlin also announced he received assurance from the electricians' union that heat would be restored to the building tomorrow.

While the circuit judges were meeting, assignment of 154 cases scheduled for 9:30 a.m. was delayed an hour and 15 minutes, and 322 jurors were kept waiting.

A program under which senior students of the schools of law at St. Louis and Washington Universities were to observe operations of the nine magistrate courts in the Civil Courts building was canceled because of the strike. The tour was to be under auspices of the Lawyers Asociation of St. Louis.

District 9, International Association of Machinists, announced its members were refusing to cross picket lines wherever established by electricians. The machinists union has more than 100 members employed in various city departments.

Faulty Traffic Signals.

Electric traffic signals were reported "partly out of order" at Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue; at Seventh street and Chouteau avenue; at Twenty-second street and Chouteau and at Gravois and Ohio avenues. Repairs were not made because of the strike.

A serious traffic situation was reported when the set of signals covering the Gravois, Morganford road and Delor street triangular intersection showed green simultaneously for vehicles moving in various directions.

Five school stop signs which had been knocked down or damaged over the week end remained unrepaired.

A similar situation existed with respect to five school stop

Leaders of the striking electrical workers' local announced they will maintain essential services at hospitals, city workhouse, jail, waterworks and other institutions.

"We are not trying to cripple the city," a union official announced. "We are just trying to get city officials to comply with the charter."

The electricians' picket lines were established by 7 a.m. around the City Hall group of buildings, which includes the Municipal Courts building, Kiel Auditorium and Civil Courts building. Pickets also were placed around the municipal garage at Vandeventer and Forest Park and at the asphalt plant.

No Meetings Scheduled.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, who met with members of the Civil Service Commission, Personnel Director R. Elliott Scearce and City Counselor Samuel H. Liberman Saturday to discuss the strike, said today no further meetings have been scheduled with the same group or with union officials.

After reviewing circumstances surrounding the dispute, Mayor Tucker said in a statement today:

"I do not believe that any one particular group of employes is entitled to preferential treatment over any other group, and for this reason I oppose any piecemeal amendments to the compensation plan which would correct inequities, if any, as to one group without correcting all inequities as to all groups.

"At this time I think it is appropriate to remind all city employes that the Civil Service amendment was adopted by the people to protect faithful and competent employes against the whim of politics, and that it was designated for use by the employers as a shield against arbitrary, unfair treatment, but not as a sword to be used to coerce administrative and legislative judgment.

Will Adhere to Charter.

"As Mayor of the City of St. Louis, it is my intention to scrupulously adhere to the charter as adopted by the people of the City of St. Louis. I shall make no promises or take no action inconsistent with the will of the people as expressed in their charter."

James S. Quinn, business representative of Local 1, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said he knew of no plans to confer with city officials. His union represents city electricians employed on inside work. The other electrical workers union is No. 2, with members engaged in outside jobs.

The city takes the position it can do nothing on wages until an amended pay plan being prepared by Scearce is submitted to the Civil Service Commission and approved by the Board of Aldermen. A revised compensation plan was submitted last fall, but the aldermen rejected it.

Street Equipment Idle.

Because members of the AFL Machinists Union stayed off the job in sympathy with the strikers, the street cleaning division kept its 12 street-flushing and seven street-sweeping machines off the streets.

Division heads said they did not want to take a chance the heavy equipment would break down on the streets, without machinists available for repair purposes.

Operations at Kiel Auditorium were reported "at a standstill" by Louis J. Gualdoni, manager, although custodial workers, watchmen and office employes reported for work as usual.

Tomorrow afternoon's scheduled children's concert by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra probably will be canceled if the strike continues, Gualdoni said. Also threatened is a basketball game Wednesday night between St. Louis University and Bradley University.

The auditorium, like Civil Courts building, had no heat. Its one carpenter likewise failed to report for work. Use of an emergency system was required for lighting.

Council 27 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, which represents about 3000 city workers, issued a statement expressing agreement with the position taken by the electrical workers but deploring a strike at this time. The council did not advise its members on what to do about crossing picket lines.

The council, in its statement, criticized the Civil Service Commission, saying: "We believe the commission has violated the intent of the city charter by deliberate stalling and needless delay while the wages of city employes have fallen farther and farther behind wages of workers in private industry."

Continuing, the council said: "The one-way wage plan sent to the Board of Aldermen in recent months was so patently ridiculous as to merit no serious consideration by the board.

"While agreeing with the electrical workers in their criticisms of the Civil Service Commission, we are nevertheless disappointed by their decision to strike at this time.

"There are almost 30 local unions with members employed by the city. To the best of our knowledge, only the electrical workers and painters have voted to take strike action. None of the six locals in our council are on strike.

"The question of honoring the electrical workers' picket line is another problem. Council 27 has taken no official action regarding the picket line to be placed by the electrical workers. Obviously, any of our members working in hospitals, correctional institutions and other such places will be encouraged to continue working.

"In addition we have specifically informed business agents of the electrical workers' union that in some places where the electrical workers may be picketing as a result of one or two of their members being involved in the strike, we do not think it is reasonable under the circumstances to expect 200 to 300 of our members to stay out.

"There will be some departments where our union members are involved which will respect the picket lines, but they will be doing so in the absence of any official position taken by Council 27."

Members of Electricians' Local No. 1 receive $2.92 an hour, 23 cents less than the $3.15 paid by private industry, while Local 2 members get $2.20 an hour, 26 cents less than the $2.46 paid in industry.

The prevailing wage scale for painters is $2.85 an hour, but the city has been paying only $2.60, Arthur A. Hunn, secretary, Painters' District Council, said.

In all, the city has about 8300 employes.

WOMAN SAYS 'I'M FROM PUERTO RICO'

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 1 — A Post-Dispatch reporter who witnessed the subduing of the woman and one of the men outside the third-floor gallery heard the woman, small and dark-haired, shout:

"I'm from Puerto Rico, I'm from Puerto Rico. I'm defending my country."

Representative (Dem.), Michigan said all three persons rose as the first part of the vote was completed. The woman began firing a revolver at the ceiling while the two men started firing apparently at Random, into the crowded house below.

One of the men, Machrowicz said, also appeared to have a revolver. The other held a rapid-firing weapon with both hands. He said the weapon might have been a German Lugar fitted with a rapid-fire mechanism, of the toype known as P-38s in World War II.

'LIKE A BUNCH OF FIRECRACKERS'

By VINCENT J. BURKE

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP)—I was sitting in the press gallery when the shooting started.

It sounded like a bunch of firecrackers going off.

I thought, "The sergeant-at-arms is going to put a stop to that—but quick." Demonstrations by spectators aren't allowed in the gallery.

There was some shouting in what sounded like a foreign tongue and suddenly members began diving for the floor. One of them pointed to the public gallery adjoining the press gallery.

I turned and saw her—a thin, dark-haired woman with pinched features. She was holding a pistol with both hands and blazing away.

At first I believed she was firing blank cartridges. It was inconceivable to me that anyone would indiscriminately spray the House floor with real bullets.

Bill Umstead of International News Service was sitting on my left. I saw him duck his head. I ducked behind him and looked down at the House floor. Many members were lying on the floor. I couldn't tell then if anyone had been hit.

Struggle in Gallery.

I looked back at the public gallery where the woman had stood. Now, I could see a man holding a gun and several other men appeared to be grappling with him.

I saw a bullet-hole in the ceiling. Then I realized for the first time that those were real bullets.

I grabbed the telephone which connects directly with the United Press office downtown, and yelled "Bulletin!"

THE SHAPE OF SPRING AND WHAT IT'S MADE OF . . .

Scope sees a shapely spring in your future . . . made even more so by the season's fabulous fabrics. This week we look not only at the surface of spring but at a force behind the shape . . . a force that will continue to become more and more important. Here are clothes most likely to succeed from now on.

PELLON—THE WONDER UNDER! Non-woven interfacing is changing the shape of clothes, making them stand by themselves!

This spring you'll see a lot of disembodied clothes—complete with bosoms, waists and hips—so well shaped they stand alone. The underlying reason—PELLON! Pellon looks like soft felt, cuts and handles like paper, acts like neither. It cannot be permanently crushed, and it is flexible in any direction; thus what boning and crinoline had to be persuaded to do, this "Wonder Under" does naturally and for always.

THE SHAPE OF SPRING—"Shape" and "shapeliness" are the two words you'll hear most often in describing spring fashions. And the shape behind the shape is most often Pellon. It's the best news in full skirts since great-grandma wore a hoop . . . holds them away from the body to make your waist smaller than ever. Above you see it flaring a printed cotton coat dress, 17.95 from the Junior Shop. It's the determining factor in holding smoothness as well as flare. Pellon's behind the stay-put fit of high-rise pants and skirts, sometimes combining its effects as in the soft flannel suit at left, $110, from the Suit Salon and Junior Shop. Pellon gives body to bodices, is back of the majority of spring's built-in curves, is what makes many a strapless swim suit stay put. It's completely impartial as to the fabrics it pairs off with, and it's invited out at any hour. In the after-five dress at right, of peau de soie, the soft dress fabric folds softly at the bodice, but underlined with Pellon, the skirt stands out with fresh, swirling fullness. By Ceil Chapman, 79.95 from the Costume Room.

WHAT IS IT—It's the fabric marvel of the day! Washable and fast-drying, it's 75% nylon, with rayon and cotton fibers mixed in. It's only 1/30-inch thick and so porous you could blow smoke through eight thicknesses as though nothing were there. Pellon's so bouyant it feels weightless when worn, is actually said to be 50% lighter than most interfacings. It's a ready-made shape, and it's a woman's dream!

SHAPING THE FUTURE—With Pellon, your clothes will now have all the intricate shaping that used to be an exclusive property of Paris designers. Home sewers are finding it gives their work a crisp, professional look; it's easy to cut and sew, is not bulky at seam closures. Homemakers are discovering its use all over the house, to line curtains, to serve as table cloth pads. You'll find Pellon, the "Wonder Under" interfacing at Scruggs in clothes from the Junior Shop, Brides' Shop, Cotton Shop, Costume Room, Misses' Dresses, Sports Shop, as well as in Lingerie and Corsets and by-the-yard from piece goods. Pellon shapes clothes for all the family; at left, under quilted cotton, 10.95, Junior Shop; under polished cotton, 7.98, Girls' Shop.

Flower Patterned Cotton Brocade

The freshest, most elegant fabric you'll find! Finely woven, almost white cotton is brocaded with tiny flowers just a shade darker, for a lightly sheened, textured effect. Suit with stand-away neckline, coat with tucked elbow-length sleeves; both lined with pink polished cotton, closed with pearlized buttons. Each, 79.95 from Misses' Coats and Suits, Downtown, Third Floor.

STOCK MARKET RALLY ON EXPANDED VOLUME

Most Noteworthy Showing Made by Individual Issues Rather Than Group.

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—The stock market advanced today with many strong individual issues encouraging the move.

Many gains ran to between 1 and 2 points while some pushed on to around 4 points at times. There were quite a few losses dotting the list, some as great as a point.

Volume accelerated on the rise to estimated 2,000,000 shares, the eighth time this year that mark has been reached.

Friday's total came to 1,910,000 shares with the market strong.

Strength in today's market was highly selective and found largely individual issues rather than groups. That same thing held true for weakness.

Railroads had difficulty as a group in making headway, but there was a lot of bounce in the steels, motors, oils, chemicals, aircrafts, motion pictures and radio-televisions.

Standard Oil (N.J.) was lower and then moved ahead after the company reported 1953 earnings equal to $9.13 a share as compared with $8.58 a share the previous year.

Eastern Air Lines jumped ahead more than a point right after it was reported from Washington that President Eisenhower had vetoed a proposed merger of Eastern with Colonial Airlines. On the American Stock Exchange, Colonial fell between 2 and 3 points after the announcement.

General Electric was ahead between 3 and 4 points at times after starting on a block of 5000 shares up 1⅝. It shot ahead 3⅞ on Friday after directors proposed a three-for-one stock split.

Twentieth Century-Fox, in the midst of renewed discussion of its potential oil revenue, opened on a block of 15,000 shares up 1⅝ at 22⅛ and held fairly well to its price in later trading.

The nation's steel companies have scheduled operations this week at 70.5 per cent of rated capacity to produce 1,682,000 net tons of ingots and steel for castings, the American Iron & Steel Institute said. This will be a decline from last week's output of 1,756,000 tons when the industry operated at 73.6 per cent of capacity.

TREASURY BONDS STRONG

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Utilities led the corporate bond market higher today.

Treasury bonds were also in demand, especially the 30-year 3¼s. Late in the day they had jumped half a point to a record 109¼ bid. Up 2-32 were Victory Loan 2½s at 99 14-32 bid and the recently issued 2½s of 1961 at 101 15-32 bid.

German, Greek and some Japanese bonds made progress. Up slightly more than a point were German 7s at 92¾ and Greek 7s at 44. Other foreign liens were steady.

Top quality corporates were sought among the industrials, railroads and utilities. But the last department was strongest. Gains frequently extended to more than a point while losses were generally minor.

WHEAT AND SOYBEANS HIGHER AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 1 (AP)—Soybeans spurted around 7 cents and wheat jumped for gains extending to more than 3 cents at one time on the Board of Trade today. Feed grains were strong.

All soybean futures as well as new crop wheat made new seasonal highs. A forecast for a cold wave and blowing dust in parts of the winter wheat belt stirred up demand for the new crop months.

Firmness in cash markets caused short covering in March contracts, particularly in wheat. No. 3 red wheat sold in the spot market several cents above the price for the March future.

A report showing processors had smaller stocks of soybeans on hand at the end of January than a year earlier helped old crop beans. The new crop was bought on belief acreage will not be greatly increased this year.

GEN. ELEC. NETS $5.75

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—General Electric Co. sales set an all-time high of $3,128,127,000 in 1953, President Ralph J. Cordiner announced today.

This was an increase of 19 per cent over the 1952 total of $2,623,888,000.

Net earnings for 1953 totaled $165,728,000, an increase of 9 per cent over the $151,720,000 for 1952. Earnings equalled $5.75 a share compared with $5.26 in 1952.

Cordiner commented that federal taxation prevented "the benefits of General Electric's growth over the last few years from being fully realized in net earnings during 1953." Federal taxes on income and renegotiation in 1953 amounted to $308,500,000 or $10.69 a share, compared with $264,000,000 or $9.15 a share in 1952.

David E. Finley, director, announced today the paintings will be the gift of Edgar William and Bernice Chrysler Garbisch of New York—who, he said, have the largest and most comprehensive collection of native American paintings yet assembled. REDS CONTINUING FLIGHT IN LAOS, FRENCH REPORT

Jungles Near Luang Prabang Almost Clear of Vietminh, Pilots Assert.

SAIGON, Indochina, March 1 (UP)—French pilots, blasting retreating Communists from the air, reported today the jungles north of the Laotian capital of Luang Prabang were almost clear of rebel forces.

Ground patrols fanned out beyond the Mekong river past Pak Hou, 18 miles north of the royal capital, and dug out nests of Reds left behind in the flight. Other patrols pushed out to Lathane, 27 miles to the north, and toward the Nam Khan river.

French sources said Communist resistance was light. They said most of the Red guerrillas who infested the area two weeks ago were fleeing the region to link up with the Communist 308th Division beyond the Nam Bac river, 60 miles north of Luang Prabang.

Scattered clashes were reported in other areas of Indochina but there was no serious fighting.

Active in Delta Area.

The 320th Communist Division was active in the Tonkin delta near Phy Ly, 38 miles south of Hanoi. Farther south, two Communist companies were surprised by a French-Viet Nam armored column which killed 50 of them in a sharp clash.

Ninety-two Communist soldiers were killed and 100 captured in a three-hour fight 18 miles south of Hanoi. The Communist dead included a Batalion commander and a number of officers.

Viet Nam Premier Prince Buu Loc leaves Saigon tomorrow for Paris accompanied by members of the Indochinese delegation to the French-Viet Nam talks to be held there. It was disclosed that Emperor Bao Dai will fly to France around March 10. He will be in Nice during the Paris talks.

Pleven Due in Paris.

Informed sources said French Defense Minister Rene Pleven, due to arrive back in Paris today after an inspection trip here, will tell the French Government continued American military aid is "indispensable" for victory in Indochina.

(The Associated Press reported that Buu Loc declared an armistice in the seven-year-old Indochina war is physically impossible before the Geneva conference next month. He said he had told this to Pleven and he judged Pleven was in agreement.

(Buu Loc said he had the impression froh his talks with Pleven that the Paris government is eager to conclude a quick peace but not at any price. He indicated that France and Viet Nam will push the Indochina war to its conclusion unless the Geneva negotiations succeed.)

French Secretary of War Pierre de Chevigne told the press before leaving here yesterday with Pleven that a statement he made Saturday had been misinterpreted. He was quoted as saying France might help China into the "concert of nations" if Peiping ended its support of the Communists in Indochina.

The minister said he "never envisaged the possibility of a precise compensation to China such as entry into the United Nations in exchange for stoppage of aid to the Vietminh rebels." He said he merely wanted to express the wish that Red China end such aid.

BODY OF DROWNED OFFICER OF COAST GUARD RECOVERED

The body of Comdr. James W. Leek, commandant of the St. Louis Coast Guard District Marine Inspection Service, missing since he fell into the Missouri river at the Kansas City municipal wharf last Nov. 3, was found yesterday near Liberty, Mo.

Comdr. Leek, who lived at 2710 South Grand boulevard, fell while trying to leap about four feet from a barge to the deck of a tow boat. The body was recovered by George Finley of Orrick, Mo., a lamplighter for the Coast Guard, and Guy W. Nolan of Kansas City, a member of the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

A veteran riverman, Comdr. Leek has been in charge of marine inspection in the St. Louis district since 1940. He began his career as a pilot and master on the Tennessee and Cumberland rivers and was widely-known along the Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

WATER CALLED WORLD'S WORST GROOMER FOR MEN'S HAIR

Men! Do you use water to help comb your hair? And do you have any of these dry-scalp symptoms: Excessive hair dryness? Scalp scaliness? Dandruff on clothing? Itching scalp? Increased combings?

Then stop using water! Water lacks cleansing action. Water is not a scalp stimulant. Water has no antiseptic action. Water won't mix with the hair's natural oil. Water is drying to the scalp.

Instead, follow these three simple good-grooming rules for hair and scalp hygiene: (1) Shampoo at least once a week to remove dust, dirt, scales, grease and infectious matter. (2) Stimulate your scalp with Jeris Antiseptic Hair Tonic at least once a day. Jeris Antiseptic Hair Tonic is guaranteed absolutely greaseless; was especially formulated for use by men who do not like grease or oil on their hair, and who now use water, but should not. Massage Jeris into your scalp…to improve circulation, relieve constricted blood vessels, loosen scales and dirt. Jeris Antiseptic Hair Tonic contains three scalp stimulants; five antiseptics…kills on contact the germ, Pityrosporum Ovale, which many authorities recognize as the cause of infectious dandruff. (3) Don't borrow comb or brush! Dermatologists tell us that most men who seek treatment for baldness suffer diseases of the scalp; that 9 out of 10 suffer from what they call dandruff. So don't borrow, don't loan a comb or brush. And clean your own every time you shampoo your hair.

For greaseless good grooming, for healthier, handsomer hair, get Jeris Antiseptic Hair Tonic at any drug or toilet goods counter, today, and use it daily instead of water.

9 DIE AS FRENCH COG TRAIN PLUNGES SKIERS INTO CHASM

TOULOUSE, France, March 1 (AP)—A cog railway train running down a mountain in the French Pyrenees, with holiday skiers, jumped the tracks and plunged into a 1500-foot ravine yesterday. Nine persons were killed and 14 injured.

The train was 3700 feet up the mountain on its way from a ski run to Luchon when it derailed. It was believed the brakes failed.

As the train shot off the track and skidded over rocks to the ravine's brink, some passengers jumped. They were crushed between the rocks and the sides of the train.

DEMOCRATS DID POOR JOB AGAINST REDS, DIES SAYS

But All 2000 He Listed as Communists Were Ousted by 1953, Texan Adds.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Representative Martin Dies (Dem.), Texas, said last night he did not believe the Democrats had done a good job in combatting Communism at home although 2000 persons he listed as Reds in government in 1941 were fired or had to quit by 1953, the year the Republicans came into power.

However, Dies, chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee for seven years under the Democrats, said he didn't agree with those who called the Democrats a "party of treason."

Interviewed on the NBC television show "Meet the Press," Dies said he was unable to press his investigation of Communism because the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt "thought we could do business with Russia."

"He thought that if we investigated Communism it would antagonize Russia," said Dies, speaking of the 1938-45 period.

Roosevelt, he said, "had the same opinion in 1938 as President Eisenhower had in 1945 when he said 'I see nothing in the future that would prevent the United States and Russia from being the closest possible friends.'"

Eisenhower, as commanding general of United States forces in Europe testified before the House Military Affairs Committee on Nov 15, 1945. He told the committee "Russia has no slightest thing to gain by war with the United States" and wants to be a friend.

Dies said that between 1942 and 1945 some 5000 persons in government under investigations as Communists or Fascists resigned and another 1000 were fired. Under the Democrats, he said, 83 Communists were prosecuted,

Asked what he thought of current investigations of Communism, Dies asserted much of it was "a rehash of what our committee exposed years ago."

Dies said he was a good friend of Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, would not pass judgment on the Senator's investigations subcommittee but "I think he's done good work."

Asked to comment on McCarthy's questioning of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, which set off last week's dispute between the Senator and Secretary of the Army Stevens, Dies said:

"I think the Senator was wrong. I think the Army handled it wrong. And I think the critics of the Senator who used Fascist and other such epithets also were wrong."

THIEF HIDDEN UNDER PULPIT STEALS OFFERING AT CHURCH

AMARILLO, Tex., March 1 (AP)—While hymns were being sung in the Temple Baptist Church yesterday a thief hidden in the floor under the pulpit stole the $870 Sunday school offering.

The thief had cut a hole in the floor of the rostrum, directly under the pulpit. From beneath the floor he was able to reach up to the shelf in the base of the pulpit where the offering is placed by ushers. He escaped through a small door which gives access to the space under the pulpit.

432 NEGRO CABS IDLE AS DRIVERS WALK OUT

They Demand 12 Firms Cut Basic Zone Rate—Operator Shot in Dispute.

Twelve Negro taxicab companies operating 432 cabs were shut down today after drivers went on strike over a demand for a cut in basic zone fares from 35 to 25 cents.

One driver, Claude F. Shumpert, 3015 North Taylor avenue, was in Homer G. Phillips Hospital with a bullet wound in the neck suffered early today after an altercation with a driver for a non-struck company.

Striking drivers are members of Local 688, Teamsters Union. Firms shut down are Wyatt, Mitchell, Blue Jay, Central, Supreme, Allen, Victory, Missouri, St. Louis American, St. Louis, Marcella and De Luxe. Two companies, Madison and Harris, whose drivers are not union members, continued to operate about 40 cabs.

Bige Wyatt, president of the Midwest Taxi Association, composed of the 12 struck firms, said registered letters from the union were received by the companies Friday, announcing that drivers would strike today unless the demand was met.

Wyatt said the association had not yet taken a position on the demand, but pointed out that any fare change would require approval of the city Board of Public Service. He said no negotiations with the union had been scheduled.

Willie Mitchell, head of the Mitchell firm, said he had written the union that he would not object to the fare reduction, but had also pointed out the necessity for Board of Public Service approval.

Of the total of 432 cabs, about 150 are owned by the companies, the rest being owned by drivers, who pay the firms $100 a month for insurance, radio service and other services.

Shumpert, a Wyatt driver, said he was shot after he and another driver had hailed a non-striking Madison driver on Easton avenue near Grand boulevard and asked him to co-operate in the strike. Shumpert said a shot then was fired into his machine. The Madison driver surrendered a short time later and admitted the exchange of words but denied the shooting.

Meatless Menus Planned Around Macaroni Foods

Versatile Durum Wheat Products Can Solve Lenten Problems.

ALERT homemakers, especially those with one eye cast toward the food budget, have long recognized the versatility of macaroni foods. As illustrated in the picture on this page, all groups are represented in the Lenten foods that combine well with the trio—macaroni, spaghetti and noodles.

These low-cost wheat products, made from extra hard durum wheat, fit well into many different menu combinations. Their bland flavor obligingly "takes up" the flavors of other foods and makes the most of them.

Almost all kinds of cheese add a zesty flavor to the mild, wheaty durum threesome. And most any sharp cheese adds character to a casserole, the foundation of which is macaroni or spaghetti.

Foundation for Casseroles.

Many a casserole is brightened with vitamin and mineral-laden vegetables. Not only do they strengthen the nutritional content of the dish, but they also add pleasing colors and textures, and remember that eye appeal is especially important during days of meatless meals. Macaroni foods are the foundation for many casseroles in which these vegetables are featured. When only a small amount of a vegetable such as asparagus, green beans or peas is on hand, fold into a macaroni and cheese casserole.

The durum wheat products willingly take the background in main dishes starring all kinds of sea foods. The blandness of these foods make the most of stronger flavors and seasonings, so that the various members of the durum threesome are ideal for the meatless dishes of Lent.

Macaroni and spaghetti turn crisp fresh vegetable salads into hearty dishes. Well-seasoned, chilled salads including this energy-yielding food are especially popular with men.

Macaroni, spaghetti and noodles even join another food group—fruit. Desserts and salads featuring fresh, canned or dried fruits and the small varieties of macaroni are temptingly attractive, delicious and nourishing.

Tips on Cooking.

Italians, the real connoiseurs of durum foods, say that the most common error made in preparing spaghetti dishes is over-cooking. When you buy your next package, read the cooking directions carefully. Many cooking tests have been made to find out what is the most desirable cooking time for each manufacturer's product.

When macaroni is cooked it usually doubles in size. In general, allow about an ounce (one-fourth cup) to two ounces per serving. These figures may be used as a measuring stick when preparing macaroni products without the aid of a recipe.

The Lenten Food Picture

Who could complain of Lenten menu problems when there are all of these delicious foods from which to choose? This large platter of cooked macaroni, spaghetti and noodles surrounded by cooked vegetables, sea foods, fresh vegetables, canned and dried fruits, fresh fruits, cheese and eggs shows how the durum wheat foods may be used with all kinds of Lenten foods.

VEGETABLE PLATES FOR LENTEN MEALS

FRESH vegetables can play a most important part in making Lenten meals appetizing, whether they are served as a side dish or as a vegetable plate.

A vegetable platter which is colorful and provides a nice blend of flavor is one composed of fresh broccoli with lemon butter, whole fresh snap beans, brussels sprouts, carrots, fluffy mashed potatoes topped with a sprinkling of paprika, and baked onions.

Baked Onions With Tomato Stuffing.

Four large white onions.
Two tablespoons melted margarine or butter.
Two tablespoons warm water.
One-half cup packaged bread stuffing.
Two teaspoons minced fresh parsley.

Peel off dry outer onion skins. Cook in boiling salted water, covered, about 25 minutes or until almost tender.

Cut a thin slice off tops and scoop out centers, leaving a one-half inch shell. Dice the onion centers. Mix margarine or butter and water together. Combine bread stuffing, onion centers, tomatoes, parsley and butter or margarine mixture. Toss lightly to blend.

Stuff into onion shells. Top with cheese. Set in baking pan. Pour a little water around them. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) until fork tender. Yield: four servings.

CHEESE SOUFFLE HAS STAMINA BUT IS LIGHT, AIRY

Cheese Souffle.

Three tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca.
One teaspoon salt.
One cup milk.
Three-fourths cup grated aged Cheddar cheese.
Three egg whites.
Three egg yolks.

Combine quick-cooking tapioca, salt and milk in saucepan. Place over medium heat and cook until mixture comes to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add cheese and stir until melted. Allow to cool slightly while beating eggs.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add tapicoa mixture to egg yolks and mix well. Fold into egg whites.

Turn into greased one and one-half quart baking dish. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 50 minutes, or until souffle is firm. Yield: four or five servings.

EGGS ARE QUICK, EASY TO PREPARE

THE egg is perhaps the easiest and quickest to cook of all natural foods. It comes in its own perfect package containing a wealth of vitamins and minerals. Its delicate flavor suffices alone, but it combines with literally hundreds of other fine foods.

For a well-seasoned luncheon or supper dish, consider

Deviled Eggs, Spanish Style.

One-third cup butter or margarine.
One-third cup chopped onion.
One-third cup chopped celery.
Three tablespoons flour.
Three cups cooked tomatoes.
One teaspoon sugar.
One teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
One-fourth teaspoon garlic salt.
Six hard-cooked eggs, deviled.
One-half cup buttered bread crumbs.
Six slices toast.

Cook onion and celery in butter over low heat until onion is transparent. Blend in flour. Add tomatoes all at once. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add sugar, salt, pepper and garlic salt. Pour into shallow one and one-half or two-quart baking dish. Arrange deviled eggs (prepared by your favorite recipe) in sauce. Top with buttered crumbs. Place in hot oven (425 degrees) until sauce is bubbly around edges, 10 to 15 minutes. Serve over toast, rice, spaghetti or noodles. Yield: six servings.

MAIN DISHES MADE FROM CANNED FISH

THOSE cans of fish on your pantry shelf can give you great peace of mind on the days when you just can't get around to marketing. Used with a little imagination, a can of tuna, salmon, sardines, crab or lobster or perhaps some codfish balls can become the main dish of a delicious meal.

Tuna Scramble, Chinese Style.

Six eggs.
One-half cup drained canned bean sprouts.
One tablespoon grated onion.
Two teaspoons soy sauce.
Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

Beat eggs slightly; fold in tuna, bean sprouts, onion and soy sauce. Heat butter or margarine in medium-sized frying pan. Add egg mixture; cook over low heat until eggs are set, stirring carefully.

* * *

Salmon Stuffed Peppers.

Four medium green peppers.
One seven-ounce can salmon.
Oil drained from salmon, or one tablespoon melted butter or margarine.
One tablespoon flour.
One cup evaporated milk.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon black pepper.
One-fourth teaspoon celery salt.
One tablespoon chopped onion.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One cup soft bread crumbs.
One-third cup dry bread crumbs.
Two tablespoons parmesan-type cheese, grated.

Slice tops off peppers; remove seeds; wash thoroughly. Parboil in salted water about five minutes. Blend flour with oil in a saucepan, add milk gradually and cook over medium heat until thickened, stirring to keep smooth and free from lumps. Add salt, pepper, celery salt, onion and lemon juice. Remove from heat, add soft bread crumbs and salmon, flaked with a fork.

Fill pepper cases with salmon stuffing and top with dry bread crumbs and cheese which have been mixed together. Place peppers in a small, deep baking dish in an upright position. Cover the bottom of the dish with water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until crumbs are browned, about 25-30 minutes. Yield: Four servings.

* * *

Sardine and Corn Fritters.

One can sardines, coarsely broken (three and one-fourth ounce can).
One cup whole kernel corn.
Three eggs, separated.
One teaspoon grated onion.
One teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
Four tablespoons all-purpose flour.
Four tablespoons butter or margarine.

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add sardines, corn, salt, pepper and flour. Blend well. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop by tablespoonfuls into hot butter in frying pan. Cook until golden brown on both sides. Yield: 12 fritters.

Suggestions for Lenten Meal

By Dorothy Brainerd
Post-Dispatch Food Editor

The role of the homemaker, in the true sense of the word, is perhaps more important during the Lenten season than at any other time of the year. As guardian of both the spiritual and physical welfare of her family, she must assume much of the responsibility for the observance of Lent. Fortunately, most women gladly accept this challenge as an opportunity to serve those they love, rather than as a burden.

Emphasis upon food and menu planning reaches an all-time high during these weeks. True, food is a major part of the Christmas festivities, but during that season of joy the homemaker is restricted only by her imagination and her budget.

The Lenten season, if we are to observe it in the spirit and not just in the letter, is one of dedicated restraint. It is a period of fasting rather than feasting. Despite these problems, however, meals need not be drab if they are planned thoughtfully.

In the pages of this section we have attempted to collect food news which will help the housewife through days which not only try men's souls, but try women's ingenuity.

Among the recipes are many old favorites which have been given slight twists to make them fresh and interesting. There also are new ones which were developed, at our request, by reputable test kitchens especially for the Lenten food section of this newspaper.

Most of the recipes are for economy dishes which will help stretch budgets to cover Easter expenses. A few party dishes have been included to take care of any entertaining which must be done during this period. In addition to recipes, there are several well-balanced Lenten menus planned by a food expert of the University of Missouri.

It is our sincere hope that this special section may help every homemaker to close the Lenten season with a rewarding sense of a job well done.

Flower Garden Salads

Flower garden salads will bring a touch of spring to Lenten menus. They are easy to make with canned cling peaches and cottage cheese. This favorite combination can be arranged in many attractive ways—some suggestions are as a variety of flowers as shown in the picture above. Crisp rye wafers make a perfect accompaniment because of the texture contrast. Both cottage cheese and wafers are low in calorie count.

Dairy Products Essential To Well-Balanced Meals

DAIRY FOODS, always an essential in a well-balanced diet, take on added importance during the Lenten season. It would be hard to imagine how one could plan meatless meals without the delicious dishes made from cheese, cottage cheese and sour cream; without the cream soups; the custards and ice creams which form the backbone of our meals on fast days.

Nutritionists frequently complain that many persons (and women are the worse offenders) do not get enough milk to meet their nutritional needs. So what better time than the Lenten season to take stock and be certain that you are including plenty of milk, in any of its many forms, in your menus?

The wide variety of cheeses can provide an adventure in good eating, as well as the essentials of good nutrition. Creamy cottage cheese can be used in almost every course of the meal from appetizers and hearty main dishes to the pretty salads pictured above.

These simple salads, incidentally, don't take fussing or time to prepare. First, arrange a bed of lettuce or greens. Second, place the cottage cheese on top of this. Third, arrange the sliced cling peaches or peach halves in flower formation on or around the cottage cheese. A slice of green pepper can be the stem, and bits of cut green pepper the leaves. Maraschino cherry adds a colorful center.

Cottage cheese is an excellent

PRIZE WINNING RICE AND FISH CASSEROLE

HERE is a rice and crabmeat casserole which once won first place honors in the rice and fish division of the creole cookery contest at an international rice festival. Does it need further recommendation for your Lenten meals?

Rice and Crabmeat Casserole.

One-half cup butter or margarine.
One-half cup flour.
Two cups milk.
One cup crabmeat.
One cup cooked rice.
Four hard-cooked eggs, chopped.
One-fourth cup finely chopped onion.
One-half cup finely chopped parsley.
One teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon pepper.
One-fourth cup bread or cracker crumbs.

To make three liberal cups of fluffy rice, put one cup of uncooked rice, two cups of cold water and one teaspoon of salt into a two-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover saucepan with a lid and leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn off the heat. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. After rice has cooked, remove saucepan from heat, but keep the lid on until rice actually is served. Be sure to use exact measurements of uncooked rice and water, and time the cooking accurately.

The unused rice may be stored in the refrigerator in a covered container. You will find many uses for it in soups, salads, casserole dishes, hot breads and desserts.

Method: Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Add the flour and blend thoroughly. Gradually add the milk and continue stirring until the mixture thickens. Add the crabmeat, rice, eggs, onions, parsley, salt and pepper to this sauce.

Mix thoroughly. Place in a greased casserole. Cover with the crumbs. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Yield: seven generous servings.

One tablespoon butter or margarine.

One-third cup blanched almonds, split in half.

One cup water.

One-half cup coarsely chopped green pepper.

Two teaspoons soy sauce.

Mix together the cornstarch and cold water. Stir into the tuna mixture. Cook, stirring, for about five minutes. Serve hot over the hot cooked rice.

DAIRY PRODUCTS ESSENTIAL TO BALANCED MEALS

food to include in Lenten menus because it is a good source of protein, a food nutrient which may be cut down due to meatless menus during this season.

Hearty Cheese Custard Pie.

One cup cottage cheese.

One cup light cream.

One teaspoon celery flakes, crumbled.

One teaspoon salt.

One-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Two tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

One baked nine-inch pastry shell.

Add egg yolks to cottage cheese. Beat with rotary beater until well blended and cheese curds are very fine.

Add cream, celery flakes, salt, pepper and melted butter. Beat well with rotary beater until thoroughly blended.

Pour into pastry shell. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees) and continue baking for 20 to 25 minutes, or until a knife comes out clean when inserted in center. Serve hot. Yield: Four to six servings.

DEVILED HADDOCK FILLETS MADE FROM FROZEN FISH

Frozen foods for easy meals—and here's an idea that is especially appropriate for Lent. Broil fillets of frozen fish, heat frozen French fries, cook your favorite frozen vegetable—and dinner is ready in a matter of minutes.

Deviled Haddock Fillets.

One pound frozen haddock fillets.

One tablespoon melted fat or oil.

Two tablespoons chili sauce.

One-half teaspoon salt.

Thaw frozen fish according to package directions. Brush fillets with melted fat or oil; place in broiler about two inches away from source of heat. Broil five or six minutes. Mix remaining ingredients together and spread over fish. Broil an additional five or six minutes. (It is not necessary to turn fish while broiling.)

Yield: Two or three servings.

COTTAGE CHEESE EXCELLENT FOOD ON MANY COUNTS

Cottage cheese is not only good when served by itself, but it is a versatile dairy food that combines well with other foods. It can serve as a creamy, flavorful base for an otherwise ordinary dish.

It is an excellent food buy, since there is no waste to it. It is high in protein value—a point which is especially important in meatless meals. And yet it is inexpensive. For those who count calories, cottage cheese packs a punch nutritionally and yet is low in calories.

Cottage cheese blends perfectly with various fruits, garnishes and vegetables and adapts itself to many different methods of serving in either hot or cold dishes. It fits in most any place in the menu, as a salad with fruits or vegetables, in casseroles or desserts.

LIME BUTTER SAUCE

Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

One tablespoon chopped parsley, chives or celery leaves.

Two tablespoons lime juice.

Few grains salt.

Melt butter or margarine; add parsley, chives or celery leaves, lime juice and salt. Serve on hot carrots, broccoli, asparagus, spinach, beets or with fish. Makes four servings.

Browned Lime Butter: Brown the butter over low heat, then add parsley, chives or celery leaves, lime juice and tabasco.

SUPPER DISH

If creamed tuna is a favorite stand-by at your house give it this extra touch now that winter avocados are in season.

Heat a can of mushroom soup with a little milk. Add a can of tuna and heat until bubbly. Remove from heat and add a diced avocado. Serve immediately on fluffy rice.

To Honor Pancake Day

Pancakes can play an important role in all Lenten meals, not only on Shrove Tuesday. They are easy to make, whether you use your own recipe or one of the excellent mixes which are now on the markets. The pancakes pictured above are made with currants and a dash of orange extract.

Tomorrow Is 'Pancake Day' So Serve These Thin Cakes

A steaming stack of pancakes can be mighty tempting at any hour of any day—not just on Shrove Tuesday. The fine pancake mixes make it possible to whip them up in a matter of minutes. Or you may prefer to make your own. Either way, you can be assured they will be greeted with enthusiasm.

The hearth was the cherished center of the Welsh home, and quite understandably. Here was the hub of family life, and good things to eat from the hearth were closely identified with happy living.

These Welsh Pancakes are an example of our heritage of Welsh cookery. The delicately browned thin cakes may be served either rolled up with sugar or stacked in thin, leafy layers. Cut in wedges for individual servings; pass a pitcher of melted butter or margarine and plenty of warm honey or orange sauce to top them.

Welsh Pancakes.

One cup sifted enriched flour.

One-half teaspoon baking powder.

One-fourth teaspoon salt.

Two tablespoons sugar.

One-third cup currants.

Two eggs, beaten.

One and one-half cups milk.

Two tablespoons melted shortening.

One-fourth teaspoon orange extract.

Sugar.

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add currants and mix lightly. Combine eggs, milk, shortening and orange extract. Add to flour mixture, beating until smooth.

Pour one-half cup batter on hot griddle and bake until bottom side is brown. Turn to brown other side. Place on hot serving platter or plate. Brush with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle with sugar.

Repeat until all batter is baked and stacked five or six pancakes high. Cut in wedges to serve. If preferred, pancakes may be served with orange sauce. Yield: Six servings.

FAMOUS 'TOP HAT' CHEESE SOUFFLE

Here it is—that perennial favorite — the famous Top Hat Cheese Souffle. Originated a quarter of a century ago, it is a souffle that anyone can make with assurance.

As glamorous a luncheon dish as ever was created, cheese souffle needs only simple accompaniments like pan rolls, broiled tomatoes and crisp salad.

The Top Hat souffle is beautifully golden in color, with a texture resembling sponge cake. The secret is baking at a very moderate temperature, so that the cheese-and-egg combination rises slowly, but substantially.

The size of the casserole is important, too, as the height of the mixture in the dish has a lot to do with the ultimate puffing. A one and one-half-quart casserole is just right for a four-egg souffle, while you will need a two-quart casserole for a six-egg souffle.

The "top" of any souffle "cracks" as it rises. So why not make this decorative by running a teaspoon around in the souffle mixture one inch in from the edge of the casserole just before you put it into the oven? This makes that handsome "top hat."

For the souffle, the recipe calls for pasteurized process cheddar cheese which melts readily into a rich, smooth cheese sauce. Actually, you can use any cheese whose melting qualities you know.

Cheese Souffle.

Two tablespoons margarine or butter.

Two tablespoons flour.

One-half teaspoon salt.

Dash of cayenne.

One-half pound pasteurized process cheese, sliced.

Four eggs.

Make a sauce with the margarine or butter, flour, milk and seasonings. When thickened and smooth add the sliced cheese, and stir until the cheese is melted. Remove from the heat and add the beaten yolks of the eggs; mix well. Slightly cool the mixture, then pour it slowly onto the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, cutting and folding the mixture thoroughly together.

Pour into an ungreased one and one-half-quart casserole. Run the top of a teaspoon around in the mixture one inch in from the edge of the casserole, making a slight "track" or depression. This forms a "top hat" on the souffle as it bakes and puffs up. Bake one hour in a very slow oven, 275 degrees. Serve at once.

CHEESE TOAST VAUDOISE

Six slices white bread.

One and one-fourth cup dry white wine (or milk).

One cup warm cream sauce (seasoned).

One tablespoon butter or margarine.

Dip bread slices in wine (or milk) and arrange next to each other in buttered, shallow baking dish. Mix warm cream sauce with egg yolk, paprika and cheese, stir well. Spread over bread and dot with butter. Place in hot oven (450 degrees F.) and brown for 15 minutes.

Serve very hot. Serves two.

GRATED CHEESE AND CORN FLAKES ADD ZEST TO POTATOES

Cheese Potatoes.

Four medium-sized boiled potatoes.

Two-thirds cup corn flakes, finely crushed.

One teaspoon salt.

Pour two tablespoons butter or margarine into shallow baking pan. Cut potatoes into one-half-inch slices and place close together in pan. Brush tops with remaining butter or margarine.

Roll corn flakes into fine crumbs; combine with cheese, paprika, and salt; sprinkle over potatoes. Bake in hot oven (425 F.) about 15 minutes.

Yield: Four servings.

SEAFOOD IN CURRY

Cut boiled lobster the size of the scallops and cook both together in butter or margarine in a pan. Add finely chopped scallions and cook until they sizzle. Stir in two teaspoons of curry powder, put a lid on the pan and cook for three minutes. Thin with cream. Add a teaspoon of tomato paste.

Cook for 10 minutes, salt to taste. Coconut milk may be used instead of cream. If needed, add more at the last minute before serving.

PANNED OYSTERS

One pint oysters, drained.

Salt.

Pepper.

Put the butter into a covered saucepan and add desired salt and pepper. When hot, add the oysters and cook for three minutes or until plump, keeping the pan covered and shaking it to prevent the oysters from sticking. Serve on toasted bread or crackers.

VEGETABLES CAN STEAL THE SHOW

Vegetables should be cooked with care and understanding. Too many of us just put them in a pot with water, let them boil away, then serve them. But vegetables sometimes should be "dressed up" for special occasions.

For instance, green beans can steal the show when prepared according to this recipe. They're cooked and then added to a fairly thick sauce made with sour cream. The mixture is poured into a buttered casserole and topped with a layer of Swiss cheese, corn flakes and butter or margarine. The finished product is a satisfying, filling dish that does justice to the vegetable and in so doing perks up the entire meal.

Green Beans-Swiss Style.

Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

Two tablespoons flour.

One-fourth teaspoon black pepper.

One cup sour cream.

Four cups drained, cooked green beans, sliced lengthwise.

One-half pound processed swiss cheese.

Two cups corn flakes.

Two tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

Melt butter, stir in flour, salt, pepper, sugar and onion. Add sour cream gradually, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Fold in green beans; heat thoroughly.

Pour into greased one and one-half casserole. Grate cheese and sprinkle over beans. Crush corn flakes into fine crumbs; mix with melted butter and sprinkle over cheese. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) about 20 minutes.

Yield: Six servings.

FISH IN MUSHROOM SAUCE

One-fourth cup milk.

Cut fish into five pieces. Place in a shallow baking dish. Heat soup, stirring constantly until smooth. Add milk and pepper. Pour over fish. Bake, uncovered, in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 35 minutes.

SHRIMP IN LENTEN LUNCHEON DISH

No need to worry about lunch on fast days. Shrimp, fresh, canned or quick-frozen, is one of the most popular sea foods. Here is a recipe for shrimp that is appetizing and satisfying. Try it now for Lent and you will want to add it to your permanent recipe file:

Finely chop shrimp and mushrooms together. Add condensed cream of celery soup, mayonnaise, pickle relish and parsley. Spread mixture on cut side of four toasted bun halves.

Place on cookie sheet. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, until thoroughly hot, about 30 minutes.

CHILI SAUCE USED TO GLAZE THESE PERCH FILLETS

Fruit cooked and served with a main course brightens many a meal. Here's an especially good Lenten combination, pretty too — ocean perch fillets glazed with chili-sauce and broiled with pineapple chunks. This dish is easy to shop for: canned pineapple, chili-sauce, ocean perch fillets, all plentiful, easy to buy, and inexpensive. As a matter of fact, this recipe for chili-glazed fish is suitable for whatever species of fillet you find in your grocer's frozen food cabinet.

Chili-Glazed Ocean Perch Fillets.

Let fillets thaw on refrigerator shelf. Cut block of fillets into four parts. Arrange on aluminum foil on preheated greased broiler pan. Sprinkle blocks of fillets with lemon juice and spread with chili sauce.

Broil two inches from source of heat eight to 10 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Serve immediately with pineapple chunks, buttered and broiled at same time fish is broiled. Yield: Four servings.

Fresh Vegetable Platter

SHRIMP AND EGGS IN CARROT NESTS

When it comes to an all-round vegetable, it is hard to beat fresh carrots. They have been a part of man's diet since ancient times, and the earliest colonists in this country brought them from Europe and grew them regularly. But the carrot's greatest rise in popularity came after the discovery that it was so healthful.

When you buy carrots, look for good color and good shape and fresh appearance. Carrots that have excessively thick masses of leaf stems at the point of attachment or "neck" have undesirably large cores or hearts.

In cleaning carrots, use a vegetable brush. The paring knife wastes too much of the nutritious skin. Another trick is to drop them in boiling water for five minutes, then douse in cold water and the skins will slip off easily. Or, better yet, if young and tender cook them with the skins on and remove easily when the carrots are done.

Creamed Eggs and Shrimp in Fresh Carrot Nests.

Three tablespoon margarine or butter.

Three-fourths teaspoon salt.

One-fourth teaspoon ground black pepper.

One-half cup whole cooked shrimp (canned or fresh).

Three cups shredded fresh carrots (raw or braised).

Fresh parsley for garnish.

Melt margarine or butter in a saucepan. Blend in flour. Remove from heat. Add milk gradually, stirring until smooth after each addition. Cook until medium-thickness, stirring constantly. Stir in seasonings.

Cut eggs into three-fourth-inch cubes and add with shrimp to creamed mixture. Heat thoroughly. On plates, arrange carrots (raw or braised) in shape of nests on toast and fill center with the creamed mixture. Garnish with fresh parsley and a whole shrimp or a slice of egg. Yield: Six servings.

THIS SALMON FONDUE IS EASY TO MAKE

Deceptively easy is a delicately flavored salmon fondue which capitalizes on the convenience of canned salmon and slices of bread as main ingredients in its preparation. It's like salmon sandwiches baked with a cheese sauce, and the effect delights all who enjoy good food.

Salmon for canning is in prime condition, since the fish are caught just as they return from roaming the ocean where they have become sleek and meaty in preparation for their long trip upstream to spawn.

Salmon Fondue.

One teaspoon prepared mustard.

One-quarter teaspoon salt.

Eight thin slices bread; milk; two eggs, beaten; two teaspoons worcestershire sauce; one-half teaspoon tabasco; one-half cup grated American cheese.

Drain and flake salmon; reserve liquid. Combine salmon with celery, mayonnaise, mustard and salt. Spread mixture on bread slices. Place four of the slices in shallow baking dish; top with four remaining salmon-topped slices.

Add enough milk to reserved salmon liquid to make two cups. Combine with eggs, worcestershire sauce and tabasco; pour over salmon-bread mixture. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees) for 45 minutes.

Yield: Four servings.

CRUNCHY CHEESE BALLS CONVENIENT FIRST COURSE

Serve the first course of your meal casually in the living room —hors d'oeuvres and chilled but pepper-hot dips for finger foods. Tomato juice and shrimp might accompany these Crunchy Cheese Balls to get a Lenten dinner party off to a good start. Shrimp can be canned or fresh —just be sure they are well-chilled and that you have a spicy sauce in which to dunk them.

Crunchy Cheese Balls.

One package (three ounces) cream cheese.

Two teaspoons butter or margarine.

One-half cup bran flakes, slightly crushed.

Just before serving, melt butter or margarine in skillet and saute cereal over low heat about three or four minutes. Roll cheese balls in the sauteed flakes. Insert a colored toothpick to each ball. Yield: two dozen hors d'oeuvres.

Good Combination.

Don't overlook the possibilities of a carrot and raisin salad. Grate the carrot rather coarsely. If you like the raisins fluffy, plump them for a few minutes in hot water. Combine the two with a mixture of crushed pineapple and mayonnaise.

Shredded Carrot Nests

Balanced Lenten Menus Planned by Food Expert

By CATHERINE BRENT
Associate Professor of Nutrition, University of Missouri Extension Service.

A balanced diet is, of course, essential 365 days out of the year if we are to do everything in our power to protect the health of our families. But it is especially important during the weeks preceding Easter, since Lenten dishes tend to be high in protein and carbohydrate.

In order to balance this extra intake of proteins and carbohydrates, it is most important to include each day in Lenten menus plenty of milk, vegetables (especially green and yellow), fruits (one of which should be citrus), cereals, and whole wheat or enriched bread.

HEARTY CASSEROLE TEAMS TUNA AND DRY LIMA BEANS

Tuna and lima beans sound like strange teammates? Try them in this casserole and see. Large limas, tuna and cream of celery soup are just about all you need for this hearty hot dish.

Tuna Lima Casserole.

Three cups cooked large dry limas.

Two tablespoons fine buttered bread crumbs.

Blend milk into soup. Stir in tuna, pickle and onion. Pour over beans in casserole. Top with crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes.

Goldenrod Eggs

To make these Goldenrod Eggs in Toast Cases, trim crusts from six slices fresh bread and use slices to line muffin pans. Brush with melted butter or margarine and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 10 minutes or until browned. Melt two tablespoons of butter or margarine in a double boiler, add three and one-half tablespoons flour and mix well. Add two cups milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Season with salt and pepper and add sliced egg whites from six hard-cooked eggs. Reheat and serve in the toast cases. Sprinkle with the yolks of the eggs put through a coarse sieve. If desired, garnish with parsley.

ROCK LOBSTER IN A GOURMET DISH

The modern miracle of food freezing has made many menu treats available to Americans, including rock lobster.

This recipe is a treat not only for the family who eats it, but for the homemaker who is looking for something new and interesting to cook up during Lent. Easy to handle, economical because they are all solid meat with no waste, and delightful to taste, rock lobster tails solve the menu planning problem very nicely.

Try serving rock lobster in thermidor style—thermidor with a new twist, subtly flavored with a sour cream mixture that is gourmet fare indeed. Use one of the empty tails to garnish the attractive platter.

Rock Lobster Thermidor.

Six (six-ounce) rock lobster tails.

One cup sour cream.

One egg.

One-fourth teaspoon salt.

One tablespoon herb vinegar.

Cook rock lobster tails according to directions. Remove meat and reserve shells. Chill meat and dice. Break egg into small saucepan and beat until yolk and white are thoroughly blended. Add cream and salt. Stir vinegar and flour to smooth paste and stir into sauce. Stir over very low heat, or over hot water, until sauce thickens.

Add diced lobster. Add more salt, if needed. Stuff shells with this mixture. Place under broiler, five inches from medium heat, about three minutes until thoroughly heated. Serve on hot platter with pota chips. Yield: four to six servings.

Directions for Boiling: Place rock lobster tails, either thawed or frozen into large kettle boiling salted water (one teaspoon salt for each quart water). When water reboils, lower heat so water boils gently and begin counting time. Keep covered. Boil tails one minute longer than their individual weight in ounces. For instance, boil a four-ounce tail five minutes. Add two minutes to all boiling times when tails are cooked frozen.

To remove meat easily from shell, drain off hot water, drench with cold water. Using scissors, cut lengthwise through center of membrane covering flesh, insert fingers under meat at open end and pull meat out.

USE LEFTOVERS IN VEGETABLE PIE WITH PASTRY TOP

Small amounts of leftover vegetables can be used in this vegetable pie with a pastry top. Ripe olives add a distinctive flavor.

Olive Vegetable Pie.

Three-fourths cup ripe olives.

Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

One and one-half tablespoons flour.

Three-fourths teaspoon salt.

One-fourth teaspoon pepper.

One-fourth cup minced onion.

One cup cooked cubed carrots.

One cup cooked cubed potatoes.

One cup cooked peas.

One cup coarsely cut celery.

Two tablespoons minced parsley.

Pastry for top (basis one cup flour).

Cut olives from pits into large pieces. Melt butter and blend in flour. Add milk, salt, paprika and pepper, and cook and stir until thick and smooth. Add vegetables, parsley and olives.

Pour into a greased casserole or baking dish and cover with pastry. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 25 minutes or until crust is well browned.

Yield: Four to six servings.

CODFISH CAKES

Canned codfish cakes or balls, served with a tangy vegetable sauce, are a quick and inexpensive treat. Brown the codfish cakes according to directions on the can.

Make a medium thick cream sauce, seasoned with a bit of dry mustard and worcestershire sauce. Add drained canned mixed vegetables. Heat and serve over the cakes. (Use the liquid drained from the vegetables as part of the liquid in the sauce for full flavor and nutritive value.)

GOOD ANY WAY

Bake tuna ala king in individual shells just long enough to brown its mashed potato border and you're in the "a la Francaise" category. Do it in a chafing dish and you're giving a party. Serve it from a bowl over table-toasted rusks, scones or biscuits and it's "family style."

One teaspoon salt.

One-eighth teaspoon pepper.

One-fourth cup finely diced celery.

Six eggs, slightly beaten.

Mix thoroughly. Pour into six medium custard cups, set in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 45 minutes or until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Serve with

Cheese Sauce:

Three tablespoons butter or margarine.

Four tablespoons flour.

Two cups milk, scalded.

One teaspoon salt.

One-eighth teaspoon pepper.

One cup grated American cheese.

Melt butter, add flour and blend. Gradually add milk, and cook until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Add seasoning. Fold in grated cheese, stirring until melted. Yield: six servings.

SOME POINTERS TO KEEP IN MIND WHEN USING EGGS

Store left-over whites in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator. They may be held a week to 10 days. Left-over yolks should be stored under water in a covered jar in the refrigerator. They may be held two or three days. Or hard-cook the yolks; use in salads, scalloped dishes, sandwiches, etc.

Four to six whole eggs, eight to 10 egg whites or 12 to 14 egg yolks are the equivalent of one standard measuring cup.

PRETTY DISH TO SERVE FOR ANY LENTEN PARTIES

Almond Tuna Ring.

One package lemon-flavored gelatin.

One cup hot water.

Lemon juice.

One cup chopped blanched almonds.

Two cups canned tuna.

Salt.

Shredded lettuce.

One-third cup chopped green sweet pepper.

Paprika.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Blend in three tablespoons lemon juice and few drops tabasco sauce. Chill until slightly thickened. Blend in three-fourth cup almonds, flaked tuna, celery and salt to taste. Pour into eight-inch ring mold and chill until firm.

Unmold onto serving plate and fill center with shredded lettuce. Blend remaining almonds, green pepper, mayonnaise and one teaspoon lemon juice, and pour over lettuce. Sprinkle with paprika. Yield: Six servings.

CHEESE PUFF IS 'DIFFERENT' MAIN DISH FOR LENT

Cheese Puff offers something a little different in the realm of Lenten main dishes. Combine two cups of milk and one-half teaspoon salt in top of double boiler. Heat milk and add two ounces fine noodles. Cook about 10 minutes, stirring occasionally, until noodles are tender and mixture is slightly thickened.

Add one-fourth pound shredded cheese, stirring until melted. Separate three eggs. Beat yolks until thick and fold into noodle mixture. Beat egg whites stiff and fold in.

Pour the mixture into one and one-half-quart casserole set in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) one and one-fourth hours. Makes four servings.

SEE WHAT CAN BE DONE WITH A CAN OF MINCED CLAMS

It is amazing what can be done with a can of minced clams. The fine flavor of this seafood enhances any dish of which it is an ingredient.

Clam Stew.

Two cups milk.

Two taplespoons butter or margarine.

Salt and pepper.

One teaspoon celery seed.

Heat milk in top of double boiler. Add minced clams with liquor, butter and seasonings. Turn heat down and cook in double boiler for 30 minutes.

Scalloped Clams.

One-fourth cup cream.

One-fourth cup green pepper, chopped fine.

One-fourth cup celery, chopped fine.

Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

One and one-half cups cracker crumbs.

Salt.

Paprika.

Drain clams, reserving one-half cup clam liquor. Add clam liquor to cream. Saute green pepper and celery in two tablespoons butter or margarine for five minutes. Mix cracker crumbs with one-half cup melted butter or margarine.

Grease individual baking dishes and cover bottom of each with a thin layer of some of the buttered crumbs. Mix together clams, cream mixture, sauteed pepper and celery. Put mixture on top of crumbs in baking dishes. Sprinkle with salt and paprika. Garnish the top with the rest of the buttered crumbs.

Bake in moderate oven 350-375 F. about 10 minutes. Yield six servings.

Baby Cubes.

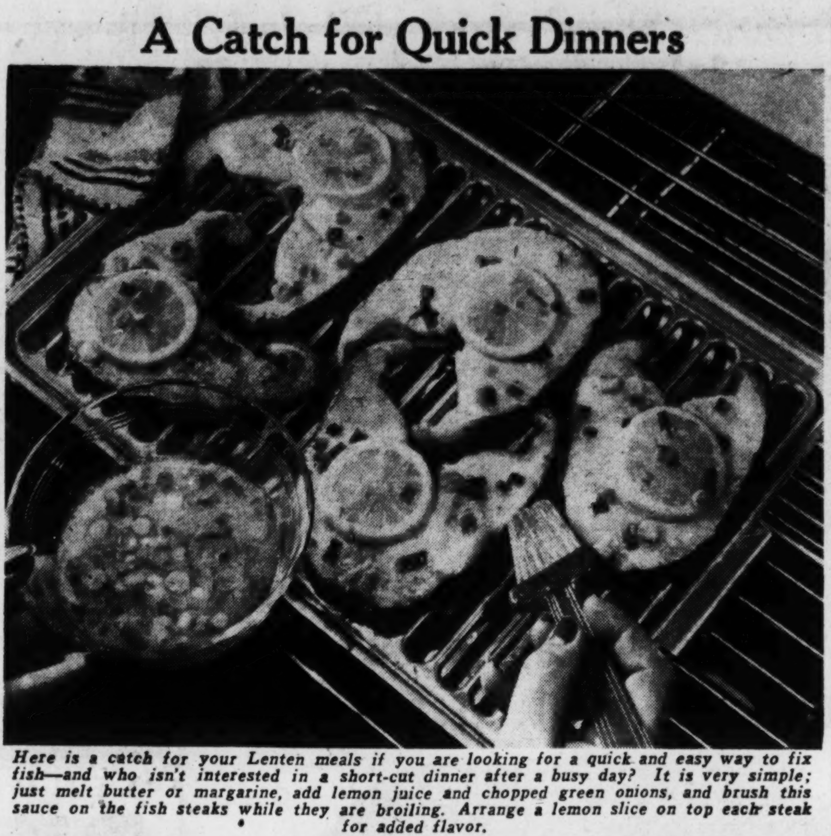
A Catch for Quick Dinners



Here is a catch for your Lenten meals if you are looking for a quick and easy way to fix fish—and who isn't interested in a short-cut dinner after a busy day? It is very simple; just melt butter or margarine, add lemon juice and chopped green onions, and brush this sauce on the fish steaks while they are broiling. Arrange a lemon slice on top each steak for added flavor.

TIPS ON HOW TO COOK FISH WITHOUT FISHY ODOR

The secret of cooking fish with a minimum of odor is in quick cooking. Most fish will cook in any fashion in from five to 15 minutes. All fish should be cooked just long enough to enable the flesh to be flaked from the bones. The way to have pan fried or deep fat fried fish without much odor is to heat the cooking fat to a rather high temperature, dip the fish in cold water and bread the fish with a mixture of corn meal, flour and salt. Then put the fish in the very hot fat and cover the pan. Cooking should take about eight minutes.

To remove the odor of fish from your dishes, wash them in a strong solution of salt and hot water. Don't use soap, say United States Department of Agriculture home economists.

The department says you can prevent the odor of fish on your hands if you chill your hands thoroughly in cold water before you handle the fish, or you can remove the odor from your hands just by washing them in hot water and salt.

FRENCH FRIED EGGS

For a luncheon or Sunday supper dish, prepare deviled eggs in the usual way and press the halves together.

Dip the whole deviled egg in raw egg beaten with water, then in fine dry bread crumbs, and fry in deep fat. Serve with mushroom or tomato sauce.

Curried Rice.

To make curried rice, add one-half teaspoon curry powder to the cooking water for one cup of rice. Serve with seafood or egg dishes.

THIS DESSERT IS A VARIATION OF AN OLD FAVORITE

Brown Top Custard.

Three eggs.

Three tablespoons sugar.

One-eighth teaspoon salt.

One and one-half cups milk, scalded.

One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Beat two whole eggs and one yolk together with egg beater until blended. (Save one white for meringue). Stir in sugar and salt. Add milk gradually, stirring vigorously. Add vanilla. Pour into custard cups, fill three-fourths full.

Top with spoonful of Chocolate Meringue (recipe below). Push meringue down in custard with spoon to coat it. It will rise to surface. Bake in pan of hot water in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 40 to 50 minutes. Cool. Yield: five to six servings.

Chocolate Meringue: Beat the remaining egg white until foamy. Gradually add one and one-half tablespoons sugar; beat until stiff. Fold in a melted one-fourth square unsweetened chocolate and drop of vanilla until well-blended.

THIS RAISIN WALNUT LOAF STAYS MOIST

The fruit salads which are featured so prominently during the Lenten season will taste much better if they are served with a fruit bread.

The plum little raisins not only heighten the flavor of this quick bread; they keep it moist and fresh tasting for an unusually long time. Have some on hand for busy days—and do make this good bread at least a day before you cut for easier slicing.

Best Raisin Walnut Loaf.

One cup seedless raisins.

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour.

One teaspoon salt.

One teaspoon baking powder.

One-half cup chopped walnuts.

One egg.

One cup sour milk or buttermilk.

Three tablespoons melted shortening.

Rinse and drain raisins. Sift together flour, salt, soda, baking powder and cinnamon. Stir in raisins and nuts. Beat egg lightly and mix with sour milk and shortening. Stir into dry ingredients mixing only until all of flour is moistened. Turn into greased loaf pan (about 8½x 4½x2½ inches). Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 1 hour. Allow to cool 5 to 10 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack to cool. Makes one loaf.

TASTE-TEASER

Cook six ounces elbow macaroni in boiling salted water until tender (about eight minutes). Drain and rinse. While macaroni is cooking, combine one and one-half cups shredded American cheese, one-fourth cup chili sauce, one and one-half teaspoons worcestershire sauce, one teaspoon prepared mustard, one-half teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Add macaroni. Melt one-fourth cup butter or margarine in skillet. Add macaroni mixture and heat thoroughly. Yield four servings.

Bread to Serve With Salads

TRY POACHED EGGS WITH SARDINES SERVED ON TOAST

Sardine Toast, Poached Eggs.

One can sardines (three and one-quarter ounce size).

One cup chopped onions.

One-half cup chopped green pepper.

One tablespoon butter or margarine.

One-eighth teaspoon pepper.

One tablespoon lemon juice.

Six eggs.

Saute onions and green pepper in butter or margarine until golden but not browned. Carefully add the drained sardines and the remaining ingredients. Cook slowly for one and one-half minutes, until sardines are heated through.

Poach eggs. Place sardine mixture on toasted English muffins or toast rounds. Place eggs on top of the sardine mixture. Serve immediately. Six servings.

Rice Au Gratin.

Serve rice au gratin as a side dish or double the serving for a meatless main dish. To make, alternate layers of cooked rice and sliced cheddar cheese; top with grated cheese, and bake in a moderate oven until cheese melts.

HEARTY OPEN-FACED LENTEN SANDWICHES

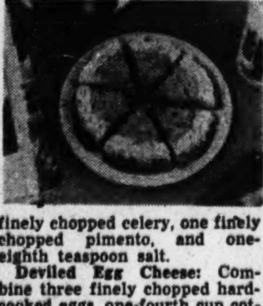
Pumpernicks.

Prepare three sandwich spreads as follows:

Savory Salmon Cheese: Combine one three and one-half ounce can red salmon, drained and flaked, one tablespoon french dressing, one-third cup cottage cheese, one-third cup finely chopped celery, one finely chopped pimento, and one-eighth teaspoon salt.



Deviled Egg Cheese: Combine three finely chopped hard-cooked eggs, one-fourth cup cottage cheese, one tablespoon mayonnaise, two teaspoons prepared mustard and one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Snappy Cottage Cheese: Combine one cup cottage cheese, one teaspoon bottled horseradish, one teaspoon parsley flakes and a dash of salt.

Now cut four large round crosswise slices of pumpernickel about one-fourth inch thick. Spread with butter or margarine.

In the center of each slice spread a circle of savory salmon cheese, one-fourth to one-half inch deep. Next spread around that a ring of deviled egg cheese, then another ring of salmon cheese, and finally a ring of snappy cottage cheese.

Cut each slice in six to eight wedges. Yield: Four servings.

To the Rescue.

If you have just a little tuna salad left over and a friend drops in unexpectedly for lunch, add some diced roasted almonds. They will not only extend the salad, but will add to its flavor.

Colorful Coleslaw.

Next time you make coleslaw why not use half red cabbage for a pretty contrast. Plump seedless raisins and chopped red apples give a flavorful fruit accent to the cabbage.

THREE PERSONS KILLED IN COUNTY AUTO ACCIDENTS

Three persons were killed in automobile accidents in St. Louis county over the weekend, and one died today as the result of injuries suffered Thursday in an accident at Alorton, south of East St. Louis.

The dead:

Mrs. George Slaton, 39 years old, 8417 Gannon avenue, University City.

Mrs. Slaton was killed last night when she lost control of the automobile she was driving on a curve in the 3900 block of Shrewsbury avenue, Shrewsbury.

The machine struck a utility pole, breaking some live wires. Police had to wait until the wires could be moved before freeing Mrs. Slaton, who was dead on arrival at County Hospital. Her husband is a superintendent for a chain of five-and-10 cent stores.

Crowley was killed yesterday when the automobile he was driving west on St. Charles road struck a pile of earth in the 7300 block in Pagedale. Police said the earth was piled at the sides of a hole which had been dug in the street. They said the dirt and hole were marked with flares.

The machine skidded when it struck the pile and turned over four times, police said. Crowley was thrown from the car.

Falls From Automobile.

Conley was killed Saturday night when he fell from an automobile in which he was a passenger. The accident occurred on Missouri Bottoms road near Dunn road.

Driver of the car was Cpl. Claude M. Becker, Camp Carson, Colo., stepson of Conley. Becker told police he accidentally stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake as the machine was rounding a curve, causing the car to lurch forward and then turn around on the wet pavement.

Conley and his wife, Mrs. Lucille Conley, were thrown from the automobile. Mrs. Conley, Becker's mother, suffered cuts of the face.

Faris died today at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, of injuries suffered Thursday in an accident at Alorton.

Howard Dailey, a laborer employed at the American Zinc Co., plant at Fairmont, was killed when his truck collided with an automobile driven by Faris.

Two drivers escaped serious injury yesterday when their cars collided on Black Bridge in National City and crashed through a railing into four feet of water in Cahokia Creek.

An automobile driven by Charles Stith, 3616 Cozens avenue, was going northwest on Illinois Route 3 at high speed when it struck a machine being operated by Andrew Wilks, 115 Pennsylvania avenue, East St. Louis, police reported. Both are Negroes.

After colliding, the two cars plunged 12 feet into the creek.

Hurt As Car Overturns.

J. N. Levy, Dupo, was seriously injured Saturday night when the pickup truck he was driving went out of control on a curve. The machine struck a power pole and turned over.

The doors were jammed by the impact and police had difficulty in freeing him from the wreckage. He suffered head injuries and a fractured right leg.

Jessie Lyons, 1800 McCasland avenue, East St. Louis, was seriously injured Saturday night when struck by a car near his home. He suffered fractures of both legs and head injuries.

Police said the driver was Myles Douglas, Negro, 1425 Kansas avenue, East St. Louis. Douglas told police he was driving south on Fifteenth street when Lyons stepped in front of his automobile.

Alfred W. Mueller, salesman, 3213 Lynros court, St. Ann, suffered a fractured jaw and leg injuries today when his station wagon struck a bridge abutment near Mount Carmel, Ill.

It's Spring (Weather Man Says) After City's Third Driest Winter

Only 2.61 Inches of Precipitation in 3-Month Period, Which Averaged a Warm 38.8 Degrees Temperature.

Spring began today in the files of the United States Weather Bureau here, if not elsewhere. The three-month winter period just ended was the third driest in 118 years of weather history, yielding 2.61 inches of rainfall against a normal of 6.63 inches.

The winter months of December, January and February averaged a warm 38.8 degrees. That made it the warmest winter since 1949-50, which averaged 38.9. Record for the period was 43.2 in 1931-32.

City's Driest 8 Months.

Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said the eight months since July 1 have been the driest ever recorded in this area, with 8.43 inches of rain. That is less than a third of the normal 26.11 inches. For the period beginning Jan. 1, 1952, St. Louis is 30 inches short of average rainfall.

The only winters which had less rain than fell here in the last three months were 1876-77, which had 2.3 inches of rain, and 1840-41, which had 2.43.

February, averaging 44.9 degrees in temperature, was the second warmest in history. It was 8.2 degrees above normal and compared with a 45.3 record set in February 1930. Only .62 inches of rain fell. Normal is 1.88.

The winter months, Wahlgren said, had only .5 inches of snow for a season which ordinarily averages a fall of 13.4 inches. He cautioned, however, against any assumption that there will be no more snow.

"Lest we forget," he said, "the city had 6.1 inches last March 1. We were blanketed with 28.8 inches in March 1912, and a good four inches fell on May 2, 1929."

Colder weather and the possibility of snow were forecast for tonight and tomorrow. This was a reminder that spring's beginning, in the strictest sense, will not come about until the sun crosses the equator late March 20.

PSYCHIATRISTS SAY SCHWABLE SHOWED SIGNS OF ANXIETY

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP)—Two Army psychiatrists said today Marine Col. Frank H. Schwable showed signs of "anxiety and tension" on his way home from a Korean prison camp last year.

The Army officers, Lt. Col. Vincent J. Cassone and Lt. Col. Arthur L. Hessin, testified in a Marine court of inquiry into a false "confession" of germ warfare Schwable gave his Communist captors. Both men interviewed Schwable after he was released.

Hessin said Schwable also showed a "mild feeling of guilt." He described it as a feeling he had let other war prisoners down."

Cassone said Schwable's anxiety and tension were normal for a man who had undergone his experiences.

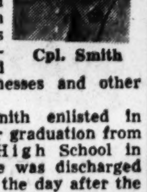
CPL. JERROLD ROY SMITH LISTED AS DEAD IN KOREA

Cpl. Jerrold Roy Smith, son of Mrs. Ida P. Smith, 827 Holyoake road, Edwardsville, is now known to have died in Korea, the Army announced yesterday. He had been listed as missing in action since May 18, 1951.



Cpl. Smith

An Army spokesman said determination of death was made on information obtained from eye witnesses and other sources.

Corporal Smith enlisted in the Army after graduation from Edwardsville High School in June 1947. He was discharged June 26, 1950, the day after the fighting in Korea began. He was recalled to active duty in October 1950.

HECK BROTHERS BUY WINERY

Adolf Heck Jr. and Paul R. Heck, formerly associated with their father in operation of the American Wine Co. here, have purchased the F. Korbel & Bros. Winery, Guerneville, Calif., it was announced today.

The transaction included the plant and 1009 acres on the Russian river 60 miles north of San Francisco.

Bridge Tournament Winners.

AMERICA'S FOREMOST AUTHORITY ON GOOD EATING says:

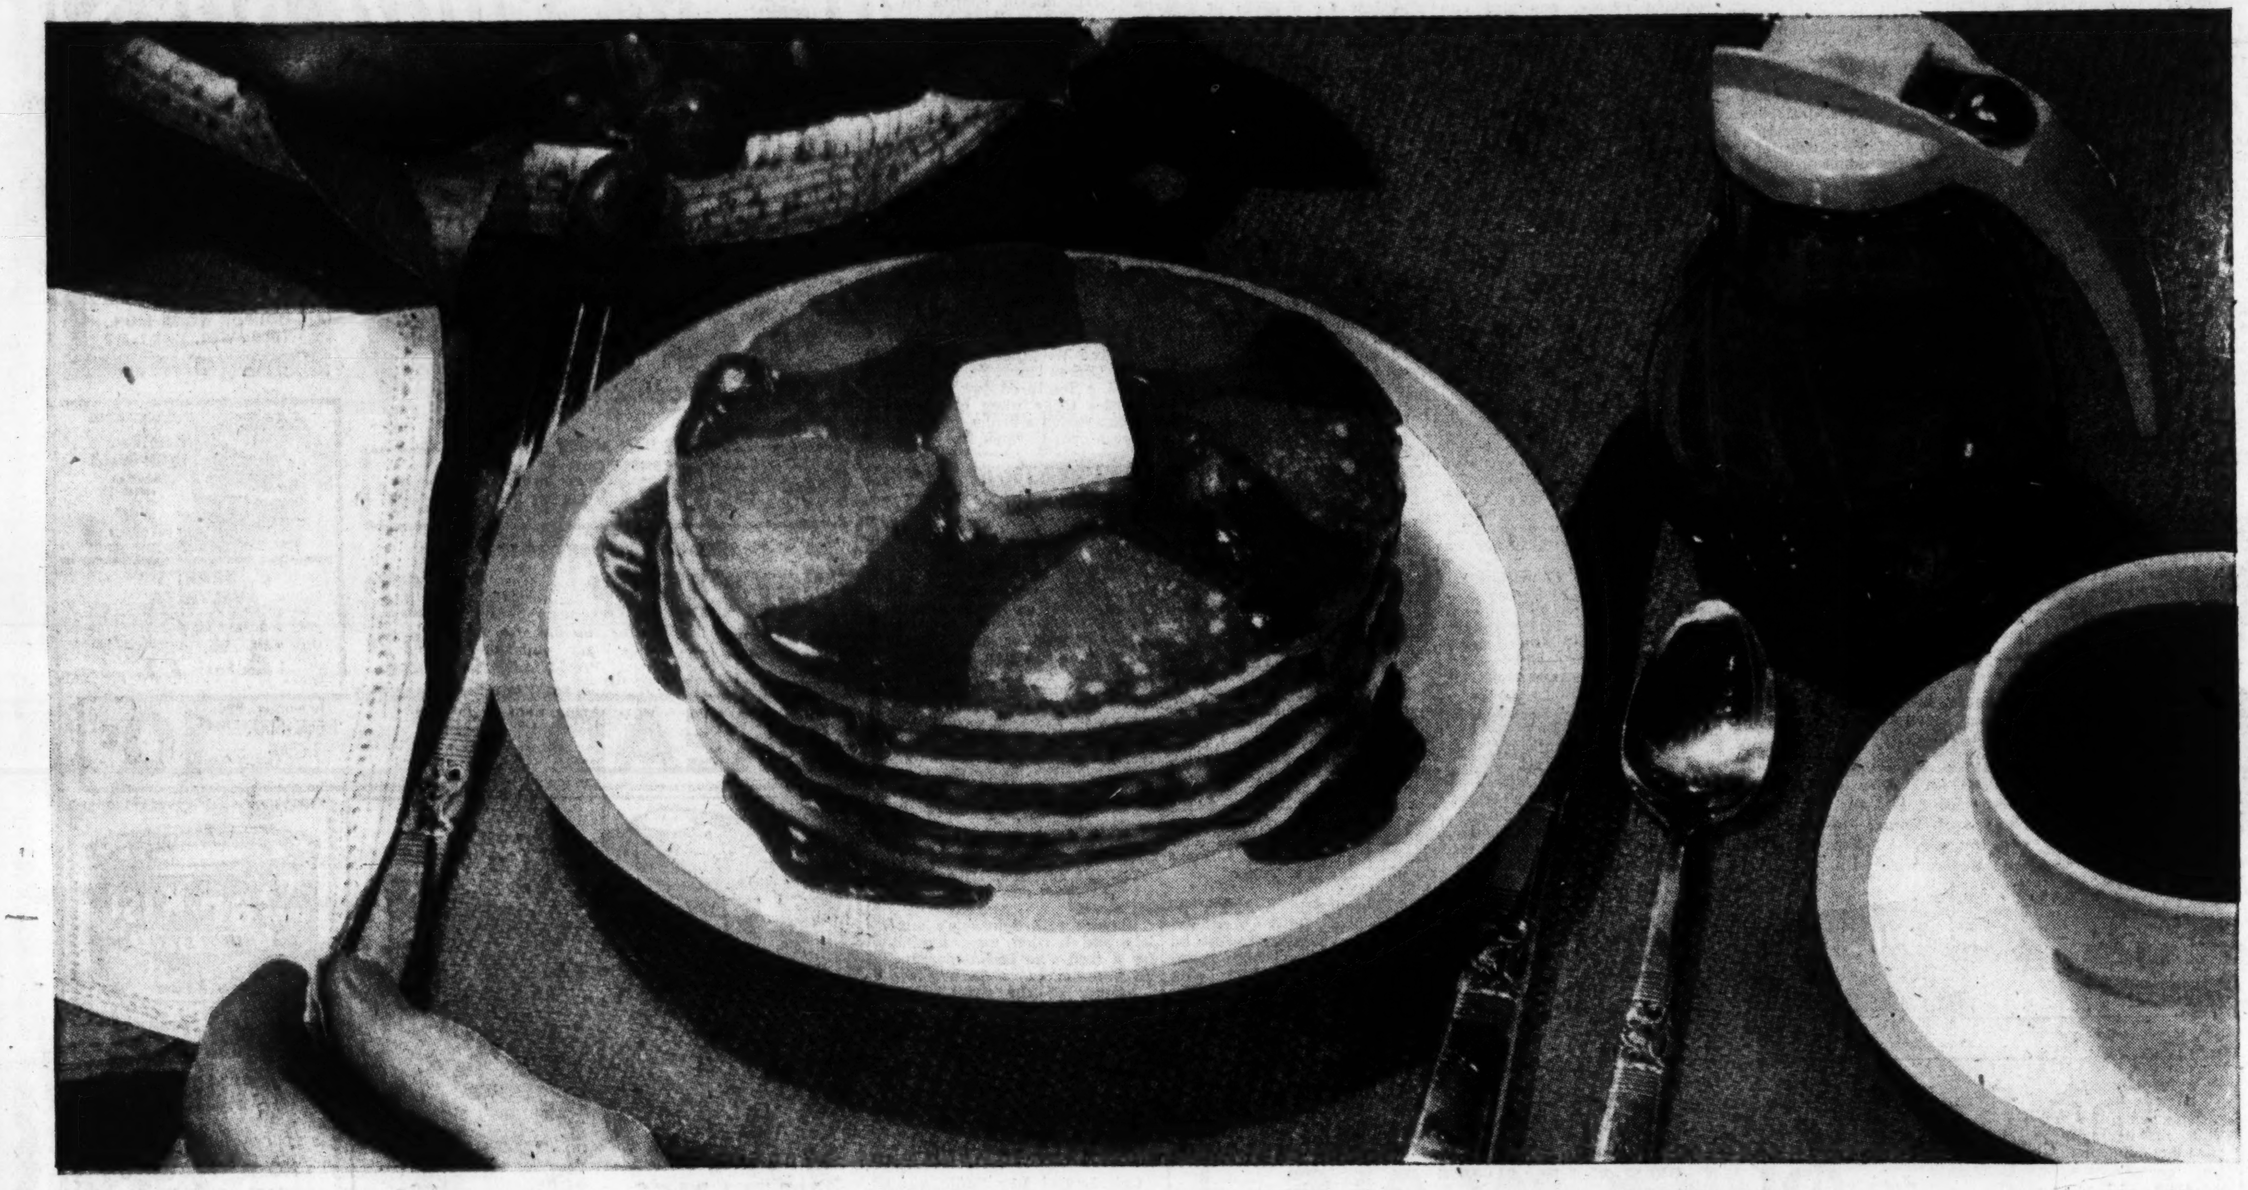
"The forty days of Lent are probably the most challenging days of the year for the woman who likes to plan interesting meals. This is the time when I find pancakes featured on the menus of fine eating places. Why not let pancakes solve your meal problems?

"The light, tender pancakes you can make so easily with my Buttermilk Pancake Mix are just as welcome for luncheons and family suppers as for breakfast. And of all the ways to serve them, the best is with a syrup that has that real maple-sugar taste."

Pancake Meals ...just meant for Lent!



So easy, so quick—with Vermont Maid Syrup and Duncan Hines Buttermilk Pancake Mix

What's the secret of light and tender pancakes? BUTTERMILK! . . . and it's already in the mix.

Old-time cooks knew that no pancakes are as delicate and delicious as those made with buttermilk. The reason is that buttermilk tenderizes the gluten in flour.

Duncan Hines found a way to put the buttermilk right in his mix... so that now you can whip up tender stacks of the best pancakes any time! Of course, to make them really perfect, Duncan Hines asks you to add your own fresh egg.

Try Duncan Hines' suggestion. Have those delicious Duncan Hines pancake meals often, to add variety to Lenten menus.

VERMONT MAID SYRUP— with that real MAPLE SUGAR TASTE!

Real maple sugar flavor is what you get in every jug of Vermont Maid. Skilled blenders choose the finest maple sugar—blend it with cane sugar to bring you a syrup always rich in flavor—always the same. And at such moderate cost! Get the distinctive two-handled Vermont Maid Syrup jug at your grocer's now—12-ounce or big 24-ounce family size, enough for lots of pancake-and-Vermont Maid meals!

India's Leaders Fear U.S. Aid To Pakistan Will Force Them To Arm Nation, Reds Will Gain

Nehru's Aids Are Pushing Economic Program but Think if They Have to Sidetrack It for Defense Spending Country May Go Communist.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW DELHI.

MANY critical aspects of India's internal problems and international aspirations have been highlighted in the furor over the United States commitments to furnish military aid to Pakistan.

Indian leaders have been greatly agitated for weeks. Prime Minister Nehru lost no opportunity to denounce the deal, and his words have been picked up and echoed throughout the land. How much of the opposition is genuine and how much plain politicking is difficult to judge, but the Indians are unquestionably sincere on certain points.

Just what they can do is another matter. The only suggestion this reporter heard was that the Indian Government might as a counter-measure float a great public loan, the proceeds of which would be used for defense or some large-scale economic measure. This would be a face-saving gesture, an effort to strike a pose.

Arms aid to Pakistan represents a setback for Nehru's "dynamic neutralism" policy and is a threat to the Prime Minister's position as unofficial spokesman for Asian nations that want to avoid taking sides in the world power struggle.

Nehru Good Politician.

Observers consider it essential for political reasons for India to react in a positive manner. Despite the fact that many westerners think of Nehru as simply the dedicated follower of Mahatma Gandhi, no man can lead a nation of 360,000,000 people without being a politician, and a good one too. Nehru is expected, therefore, to devise a plan that will command public attention.

Despite Nehru's opposition, incidentally, it is an odd fact that the Pakistan issue is likely to help him temporarily. One of Nehru's vital objectives is to awaken and fortify Indian nationalism. In India, as in other Asian countries, withdrawal of the colonial masters has left no convenient whipping boy for those seeking to weld the country into a unified nation. The Pakistan issue would provide a rallying point for a while.

Behind the Indian opposition lies a basic situation that was summarized this way by a western diplomat:

"India is running two risks—going Communist or going to pieces. Of these two, the second is by far the greater danger."

To prevent the Communists from capturing the poverty-stricken, illiterate, disease-ridden masses of India, Nehru must offer the people hope. For this reason, India has been spending heavily for economic development. American aid to Pakistan might force India to spend more for military preparedness, hence less for bettering the economic condition of the people.

'Open to Communism.'

Nehru indicated the other day that India would not increase its armed forces and put the country on a war basis because of Pakistan aid, but previously a government spokesman had told the reporter:

"If an armaments race starts in Pakistan, it will topple our five-year economic plan and damage our chances to achieve a strong democratic state. This economic plan proposes to raise living standards. If we have to devote money to arms, then there will be less money for the plan and India will be open to Communism."

Despite Nehru, the spokesman said, there might be heavy public pressure for arming India. This pressure would come especially from those who fear a resumption of the bloody Hindu-Moslem battles that accompanied the separation of India and Pakistan in 1947. More than 500,000 persons were killed.

The western answer to this argument is a simple one: Nehru could have United States arms aid too, just as his five-year plan receives American economic aid, if he would choose to "stand up and be counted"; but this condition would be contrary to the international goal the Prime Minister has set for India.

What Nehru wants is to develop in the Far East a third area, an area of peace, that will not be tied either to Russia or the United States. He hopes this area can avoid being drawn into another war. If it could stay out, it might be a vital factor in bringing about the next peace, just as the Indians were called on to handle the prisoner exchanges in Korea.

'Population is Slumbering.'

Indian leaders are obviously sincere about their fear of a setback to their economic plans. S. K. Dey, the brilliant, hard-willed young chief of the basic Community Projects Administration, put it this way:

"India is a country of villages—550,000 of them. Once they were self-contained, producing their own food, clothing, shelter and amenities. They are inaccessible, without communications. They were drained of their vitality by the years of British rule. The population is slumbering and must be awakened. On top of that, we have a governmental machine that is groaning like a 20-year-old Ford trying to go up a mountain.

"There are people in India who want to rebuild this backward economy like the Russians did—with guns. You ask them, 'What about individual liberties?' The answer is, 'They don't count; no man is an individual until he has two meals a day.' That is a good point. There are others in India who want to return to the period of 2000 years ago. We want to go forward by using democratic methods. These are slow, especially at the start, but, once they are well begun, nothing can stop them. We can do it if we have the time; a generation, perhaps."

The two political extremes mentioned by Dey — the Communists and the fanatics who would drag India back to the dark ages—are strengthened by anything that weakens Nehru, and if Nehru's stature is reduced by the arms aid to Pakistan, the extremists benefit. Even Nehru's opponents, excepting the extremists, concede that he heads about the best that can be done by India in the way of a government at the present moment. There is no other leader of comparable stature.

That suggests the question that is often asked, "After Nehru, what?"

An American said:

"I have never worried about that. Somehow a leader always arises. I saw it happen in Poland and Turkey, where the same fears were held. There was apprehensive weeping in the streets when Roosevelt died."

An Indian: "Regardless of what has happened in other countries, India has no well-organized machinery of succession. We see the deepening lines in Nehru's face and we are worried."

Another Indian: "Nothing can happen to him. He is good for ten years more, at least. No one can conceive of anything happening to him."

Nehru Is 64, Vigorous.

Nehru is 64 years old and he looks vigorous and healthy. His walk is springy and his manner alert. His endurance on speech-making tours is fabulous. In Parliament he bustles around from member to member, giving the impression of a man with an abundance of controlled energy. He delivers his comments on the Pakistan issue in a soft voice and in impeccable English.

Here are a few recent statements:

"I make no claim to speak for anyone outside India. I have repeatedly said that we do not desire what is called the position of leadership of Asia or anywhere else. I do not believe in that kind of leadership. I believe in the co-operation of nations, great and small. We have far too much leadership in this world.

"When I think of any military aid freely given from a country of the West, or any country, to a country of the East, the past history of Asia comes up before me, the history of the last 300 or 400 years, the history of colonial domination gradually creeping in here and establishing itself.

"Then I see in the present period in which we live, after all these years of subjection and domination by others, the countries of Asia freeing themselves and becoming independent nations. Then I see some development being thought of which seems to me to reverse this process of liberation and freedom of Asia, which again brings to my mind that period when foreign armies came to Asia. They came in small numbers, they grew. They utilized our own people, whom they trained for the purpose."

"I react very strongly against anything that brings back that old (colonial) process even though it be in small measure. It is a bad thing. So far as I am concerned—and I have not a shadow of a doubt that I speak in this particular matter for every single member of this House—we will not tolerate any foreign soldiers now. We want no protection from others. We want comrades, we want colleagues, we want friends, and we have worked for the friendship of other countries. But we do not want any people to protect us with their armies, navies and air forces because we know by long and bitter experience that such protection becomes something else later."

"Even the act of asking for that protection—seeking it—disables us, makes us weak and feeble and dependent on others. If India is going to survive, India will survive by her own strength and not by relying on others. Whether we have enough armed forces I do not know, but perhaps we have something else which might stand us in good stead, and that is the spirit of man. It is a dangerous thing if, in relying upon others, we lose that spirit.

"If that is our attitude toward India, I should like it also to be that of our neighboring countries. I say that about Pakistan in all friendliness. We have had many conflicts with Pakistan and some continue. Nevertheless, it has been our firm policy to work for friendly relations with Pakistan, because I see no good future for India or Pakistan except on the foundation of friendly relations."

"For the moment I would say that it does not matter what the quantum of the military aid is, because once that type of aid comes in it has made a qualitative difference in the situation. I accept the statement of the Prime Minister of Pakistan that no bases are to be granted. But when military aid comes in, the whole country becomes a base—not a question of an odd base here and there, but the whole country can be utilized for other purposes laid down by other countries and other people. Therefore it is a dangerous step to take, for other countries, for us, and for Pakistan."

"Whatever else may happen, Pakistan drops out of the 'no-war area' and lines up with a major group of powers. Previously she might have felt inclined that way but it now becomes an actual fact because one does not receive free military aid without that particular consequence following. That is a serious thing. It means that the cold war, as it is called, comes to Pakistan and therefore comes to India's borders on both sides. It means that if a hot shooting war develops, it also comes right up to the borders of India."

Observations by Officials.

"We don't think the United States has any ulterior motives. We have a warm sympathy for the United States because it supported our independence movement. We are not anti-American or anti-British, for that matter. Do you know there are more British civilians in India now than before independence? That is a measure of our tolerance.

"We do believe that America thinks at the moment of solving the world's problems in a military way, and we think that is wrong. Your Pentagon seems to rule the roost. We cannot understand the desire for military alliances in these countries. They are weak. You would scatter your forces over the Far East and you would be up against the great mass of China with its internal communications and half-billion people. The main war is bound to be fought in Europe, anyway. If Europe goes, the whole world goes Communist.

"If Pakistan becomes a battlefield in a war, it invites Russia to enter Pakistan, right on our doorstep. As for ourselves, we will not tolerate any expansion of Communism. Just because we are friendly with Russia and China is no reason to think we would tolerate any threat from those areas. Thinking people have no fear of Communism; Nehru has plainly said that the Communists follow a foreign flag.

"We won't tolerate any expansion of Communism internally, either. India has been very firm with the Communists. They got in the government during the war and got official patronage because they helped the war effort, but we have been firm with them. I don't think it has been published, but two years ago we picked out a correspondent for Pravda for writing distorted articles picked up from the Communist press. We simply told the Russians we intended to cancel his visa, and they withdrew him.

'Russia's Enemy Is America.'

"We don't fear a Russian military attack. What would they gain? If they took over India, it would be a liability. Russia's enemy is America. You know, it may sound strange, but if we can survive, we may be the only democracy left in the world—I mean because of that disease you call McCarthyism. There is no difference between a Communist dictatorship and a McCarthy dictatorship. Both are evil. It will be a great tragedy for the world if McCarthyism does not pass.

"It is vital that India have the freedom to go ahead with the building up of the country by democratic means. We think we are proceeding faster in this way than Mao Tse-tung is in China by compulsion. One of the most important struggles in Asia is the race to develop India and China by these two opposed methods."

This is the view also held by Chester Bowles, former United States Ambassador to India, who has said that the Chinese are telling Asia that theirs is the only way in which living standards can be raised quickly and an industrial state put together, and that India is a showcase for democracy in Asia.

Incidentally, the Indians see an American inconsistency in offering aid to Pakistan. India is a secular democratic state, similar to the United States in those respects, while Pakistan is a theocratic (Moslem) state and, in the view of India, not democratic at all.

Comment by Expert.

A man who has watched Indian affairs for a long time from a vantage point made these comments:

"Many Indians seem really to fear an attack by Pakistan, despite the fact India is four and a half times as large. They do not think Pakistan is sincere; they think Pakistan wants American arms for use against India only, particularly to settle the question of possession of Kashmir in Pakistan's own way. While this may not happen, the entire context of Indian negotiations with Pakistan on Kashmir and other partition problems will be changed by the grant of aid.

"The Indians fear irresponsibility in Pakistan, and more Hindu-Moslem bloodshed—a resumption of the horrors that accompanied partition. Nehru is attracted to the West—he wants to borrow its technology

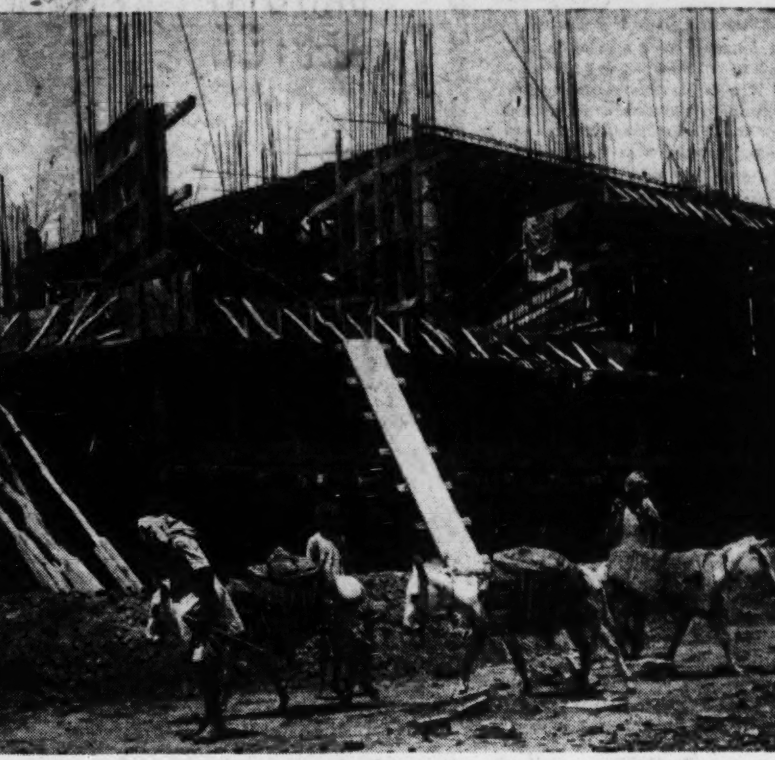
India's Dilemma: This or Arms?



India builds housing and industry under great difficulties. Without sufficient power machinery, it has to get by with manpower and donkeys, as in this project at Chandigrah, in Punjab. An arms race could stop or seriously curtail building by even this primitive means.

Big Decisions Behind Back Of Eisenhower

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
(Copyright, 1954.)

THE greatest political decisions of the Eisenhower Administration are quite literally being made behind President Eisenhower's back.

The final proof of this curious state of affairs was given by the events of the last week. From start to finish of the McCarthy-Stevens imbroglio, the President's hand was never on the helm. The ship was sailing through a violent storm, but the captain usually did not even know what was going on. The facts tell the story.

He 'Stands Aloof.'

Item: Secretary of the Army Stevens issued his defiance of Senator McCarthy without consulting the President or anyone else. Although this act insured a hurricane, the President was officially described as "standing aloof" after the press tickers brought the news to Palm Springs.

Item: The President was not told, either, that Secretary Stevens was going to the fatal luncheon with Senators McCarthy, Mundt, Dirksen and Potter. The President's own subordinates helped to arrange this meeting, with the conscious purpose of procuring Stevens's surrender to McCarthy. But again, the President's first knowledge of Stevens's surrender at the luncheon table came from the press tickers.

Eisenhower Wanted to Fight.

Item: Far from desiring a surrender, the President wanted to fight. He finally returned from Palm Springs on the morning of the luncheon. He quickly decided that this was the moment for a final showdown with McCarthy. He was planning to back Stevens to the hilt at the very moment when Stevens was surrendering. He was a bitterly angry man, when he at last took charge of the desperate damage-control party that was formed at the White House after the surrender was known.

This is not the first time, either, that the Administration ship has sailed onto a reef while the captain was somewhat down below." The last major political drama staged by the Administration was the Harry Dexter White case. That time, Attorney General Herbert Brownell gave Eisenhower less notice of his intentions than Henry A. Wallace gave Harry S. Truman before the famous Wallace attack on the foreign policy of James F. Byrnes. Again, Eisen-

Majority of Senators at Fault For Permitting Rampages by Few to Bring Discredit on All

Prime Responsibility Is Republicans', as Offenders Are Republicans — Eisenhower Cannot Long Delay Action to Stop Harassment by Own Party.

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON.

IT IS impossible to look honestly and candidly at the record during the last 12 months and to make any other report than that the United States Senate has fallen upon very evil days. Not in a long time has the Senate as a whole reached such a low level of conduct and such a peak of irresponsibility.

There are many able and upright men in the Senate. They don't relish what has been going on. They are men of worthy motives and good will. They are in the majority in both parties.

But they are guilty, too. They are guilty of moral paralysis. They are in the majority, but for the last year they have stood immobile as a few members, utilizing the prestige and power of the whole Senate, have committed a whole series of actions driving good men from Government and good government from men — actions which have been disorderly, disruptive and dangerous to the very functioning of democracy.

Stevens and McCarthy.

In the wake of Mr. Stevens' didn't-know-what-hit-him encounter with Mr. McCarthy—in which Mr. Stevens tried to protect the Army with a paper sword and ended by autographing it for the Senator—President Eisenhower will, perhaps, succeed in shielding the deteriorating morale of the officer corps from further inroads. But, finally, only the Senate can, collectively, protect the good name of the United States Senate and keep its own members from traducing it.

What are some of the worst things which the Senate has done to itself and to good government in recent months? Here is just part of the record:

1. It has permitted a one-man investigating committee to berate and deride a great World War II soldier and battle hero, Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, as stupid, unfit and of doubtful honesty because he was carrying out the orders of his military superiors, including the President. This attack on the integrity and discipline of the Army went so far that Senator McCarthy's strongest newspaper supporters, Col. Robert McCormick's Chicago Tribune and Washington Times-Herald, broke with the Senator on this matter, rebuked his conduct and sided with Secretary Stevens.

The Langer Affair.

2. The Senate stood by and watched the vengeful chairman of the judiciary committee, Senator William Langer (Rep.), North Dakota, use his unchecked power to publicize unevaluated, uninvestigated, undocumented, hearsay, wild and scurrilous charges against the Chief Justice of the United States. How irresponsible can you get?

3. It has indulged in such a rain of exaggerated, meat axe attacks upon the personnel of the foreign service and upon the United States Information Agency that these vital arms of the nation's cold war effort have been weakened to near impotence.

4. It has allowed one-man investigating committees, as in the Fort Monmouth radar center spy hoax, to take limited testimony in secret, release one-sided fragments of that testimony and broadcast charges which do the individuals and the Government as a whole great harm and which later prove to be unfounded.

5. And, now, the Senate has provided the dismaying spectacle of trying to rewrite and patch back together on the floor of the Senate sections of the treaty-making provisions of the Constitution during the heat and scuffle of debate.

Not Even in Writing.

Sometimes the proposed changes haven't even been in writing. One Senator asks for a copy of the proposed change just so he can look at it and he gets a scrawled chit from across the aisle. What kind of undeliberative process is this? Is there so little regard for this precious document that it can

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Name and address must accompany every letter, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Courage and Two Men

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

World War II hero, Col. Frank H. Schwable is under threat of court-martial because after seven months of "mental torture, long solitary confinement and brutal treatment" as a prisoner of the Communists in Korea, he capitulated and signed a false statement about germ warfare.

World War II hero, President Eisenhower, after one week of pressure from Republican politicians surrenders his executive prerogatives under the Constitution, and, in effect, requires the Army to knuckle under to McCarthy.

And now for the $64 question: Which of these two men showed the greater courage? C.W.S.

A Piece of Dirty Business

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Is McCarthyism becoming epidemic? Through the ages, we have revered the rule that an accused person is presumed to be innocent until guilt is established by competent evidence. Have we shifted into reverse gear to say that one accused is regarded as guilty until innocence is proved?

Those queries are prompted by the raw deal which Chief Justice Warren received from some members of the Senate subcommittee and others. It was one of the most shocking bits of dirty work I have ever known to be done in Washington. For example, counsel for the committee is quoted as saying that no effort was made to investigate the unevaluated allegations against Warren before making them public! Just where do we go from here?

The selection of Warren for the high court is widely regarded as one of the best appointments President Eisenhower has made. The way Warren has been treated was a nauseating piece of dirty business. I can almost smell the stench in St. Louis.

MARTIN A. DILLMON.

For Action, Not Words

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The people don't care one bit whether it's called a "rolling readjustment," an "inventory reassessment," or the like. The point is we have an economic condition with us that isn't good. And something should be done about it soon, before it gets any worse.

THOMAS BRODERICK.

St. Louis Carries the Load

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Gov. Donnelly is quoted as saying he has "no interest" in the St. Louis earnings tax.

It would seem time the Governor got interested in the plight of St. Louis, whose business firms sweat blood billing, collecting, recording, remitting and accounting for a major portion of the huge fund from which the state derives more than 80 per cent of its revenue, namely, the state sales tax.

If the earnings tax is lost to St. Louis, then it is to be wished that St. Louis will revolt against the vicious state sales tax.

Time after time, bills have been introduced in the Missouri Legislature to kick back part of the sales tax to the city which pays and pays. Time after time, Representatives of districts outside St. Louis have defeated such bills. Has the Governor "no interest" in that raw deal?

SALLY.

Faster Than Discovery

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I wish to commend the staff of the Twelfth District of the St. Louis Police Department for their courteous attention relative to the theft of hub caps from my car.

On the morning of Feb. 24 I found a note on the windshield of my car asking me to call at the Twelfth District station regarding the stolen hub caps. I immediately drove to the station and presented the note. They handled the complaint swiftly and had my hub caps, which they even put on my car for me. I was only there about 10 minutes and feel this was certainly handled with great dispatch, since these things involve great detail and lengthy reports on their part.

It should be noted that the property was recovered and the thieves arrested before I discovered the theft. M. B. C.

Why All the Fuss?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

What the dickens do dimples, teeth, curls, and personality have to do with piano playing? And how could anyone say that John Crosby is jealous of a mediocrity who tries to play the piano? Mr. Liberace purports to do so; because he is on TV, apparently, he is good, and he is a hero, and he cannot be criticized. So the plips think.

This Liberace character is of no consequence; why fuss over him? There are more important things, but this country's plips, and there are many, don't want to face important things.

And they say Liberace plays highbrow music. Ha! If it weren't so absurd, this Liberace thing would be funny. —MICHAEL G. SASLOW.

Confusion in Navy Oil

Senator Hugh Butler's announcement two weeks ago that the Navy favored giving up its Alaska oil reserves has now unfolded into a stranger-than-fiction story of administrative confusion at Washington. Selwyn Pepper reported the facts in Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

"The Navy has given up on it; they volunteered to give it up." The Nebraska Senator thus announced that his proposal bore the Navy's official sanction. His support was a memorandum written by Assistant Navy Secretary Fogler.

Now Secretary of the Navy Anderson says that he had not been consulted by Senator Butler or by anyone in his department before the Navy announced it would have no objection. He says he had no knowledge of Senator Butler's proposal until he read it in the newspapers.

Secretary of the Interior McKay, to whose department the Navy reserve would be transferred under the Butler proposal, says he had not been consulted by Senator Butler. In fact, Secretary McKay says he did not know the Navy had a big oil reserve in Alaska.

Secretaries Anderson and McKay thus are left in the unenviable position of having to say publicly that they do not know what is going on in their departments, in a matter of the highest policy. Their dilemma recalls the similar plight, a few weeks ago, of Secretary of Commerce Weeks, who knew nothing about Administration proposals of important changes in the labor laws.

In the opinion of Secretary Anderson the Fogler memorandum does not mean what Senator Butler says it means. It only says, according to the Secretary, "that if Congress and the White House decide to make a change, the Navy would be responsive." Secretary Anderson says that as far as he is concerned the Navy's policy is the same as it has been for many years—to keep its oil reserves.

Regardless of the merits in this controversy, one course of action certainly invites Secretary Anderson's attention. As his fellow-Secretaries of Commerce, Labor—and the Army—have had occasion to do before him, he can with profit look into the question of the operation of his own department.

The Senate Interior Committee reported out the Alaska statehood bill last week, and the issue of statehood is now up to the Senate. It would be well, therefore, for the question of the naval oil reserve to be clarified as expeditiously as possible, so that it will not complicate the subject of Alaskan statehood.

Mexico Outlaws a Party

Mexico's edict outlawing the People's party is an unhappy sign of political immaturity. While this party polled only 17 per cent of the votes in the last national elections, nevertheless it was the second party in a country dominated for many years by one.

The Interior Ministry accuses the People's party of "constant subversive agitation." Riots and some shootings have been blamed on supporters of Gen. Miguel Henriquez Guzman. Yet no threat to internal stability serious enough to warrant a total ban has been disclosed.

If suppression merely drives opposition underground, the ban will prove a worse mistake. For the dominant Revolutionary party has been secure in its control of government. And so far it can claim a long record of accomplishment toward national unity and democratic procedure. One reason for this is that the Revolutionary party represents within itself the principal diverse interests of national life.

Progress should continue. Mexicans do not predict a real two-party system in the immediate future, but there was hope that political opposition would grow strong enough to keep the ruling party on its toes, at least. Good government needs the challenge of criticism.

Banning the largest opposition party may or may not improve law and order, but it will hardly advance the pledges of political freedom made by the party in power.

March's Perversity

Spring has been busting out all over—but not in a properly spring-like manner at all. There have been tufts of white on the honeysuckles for longer than a week. The privet is well along. And there are little buds on other plants which Nature brought through the dry winter only to threaten with frost—or so it seemed Sunday.

Those who stood in the chill wind to survey Forest Park from Art Hill saw a green-flecked landscape under a wintry sky. Indeed, Nature's perverseness induced human perverseness, a fault-finding mood, a complaining mood. For example: Why are so many park guideposts turned away from the approaching driver, or placed so far up a side-road that they can only serve those who already know where they are going?

Maybe other springs have crept up on us this way, but as any poet will testify, the manner is not suitable. Spring should come with a sudden burst of sunshine and zephyrs. It should be a joyful, dramatic and utter routing of winter. Granted that the calendar insists that the time for this is not yet here, but then there is all the more reason for protesting the false start.

True, Monday's sun banished the usual ice, snow and overcast from the opening of Missouri's trout-fishing season. But is this not one more example of the weather's perversity?

Naguib Out, Naguib In

Ousted on Thursday, Gen. Mohammed Naguib was restored to the Egyptian presidency on Saturday. After the weekend rioting, however, it is hard to believe everything is as before. All the factors involved in the deposition and restoration are not likely to be revealed very soon—least of all what manner of compromise was reached between Naguib and Nasser, leader of the putsch and now accepted as Egypt's premier.

But be the details what they may, Egypt's government now seems more a matter of the strength of rival military groups and of wind-blown mob sentiment, and less a patriotic, disinterested guiding of the country from Farouk's corrupt monarchy to genuine democracy. Naguib may still be faithful to the latter concept, but it has been weakened by the outburst of impatience and ambition.

This can only add to the difficulties assumed with the ouster of Farouk less than two years ago. The debris of corruption and incompetence he left behind could have been cleaned up in a hurry only by a Hercules. Then there are the external problems made pressing by Arab nationalism, especially the continued hostility toward Israel and the nationalistic demand for British withdrawal from the Suez Canal area. Most important perhaps is the three-year "educational program" to make possible the retirement of the military government and the introduction of full democracy.

Unfortunately, years of half-freedom and political exploitation have made many Egyptians quick to complain, but have not produced the patience essential to reform.

Perhaps the government is back on the track. If so, it needs patient support from both the civil population and the military. Without such reasonableness, Egyptians may find they have exchanged one dose of bad medicine for another—even if the new bottle is not labeled with a crown.

How Would Symington Have Voted?

The people of Missouri have a right to ask Senator Symington to tell them, when he returns from his official Armed Services subcommittee inspection trip, how he would have voted on the George version of the Bricker amendment. So we said on this page Sunday.

The desirability of knowing how Senator Symington would have voted increases when it is realized that he might very probably have cast the deciding vote had the unrecorded five Senators also participated.

The vote on the George proposal to limit the President's constitutional treaty-making power was 60 to 31. By the thirty-first vote against it (that of Senator Kilgore of West Virginia), the proposal was killed.

Of the absent Senators, Republican Bridges of New Hampshire (who is in Europe with Senator Symington) and Democrats McCarran of Nevada and Lennon of North Carolina would have voted for the George proposal, according to senatorial associates. That would have raised the favorable vote to 63. The fourth absentee, Democrat Murray of Montana, presumably would have opposed the amendment. Had Senator Murray been present and had he done so, the vote then would have been 63 for the George amendment to 32 against.

Figuratively speaking, this is the point at which Senator Symington enters the chamber. Of the 96 Senators, 95 have voted. If he votes for the George amendment, its total is 64, just enough to carry it by the required two thirds. If he votes against it, the final roll call is 63 for to 33 opposed and the George version of the Bricker amendment to hamstring President Eisenhower fails through the stand against it of Stuart Symington.

Missouri's junior Senator can be expected to be asked this question when he gets back to Washington, that is, if he does not volunteer the answer meantime from overseas. Senator Hennings's leadership of the battle against any and all compromises on this issue only points up the fact that Missourians do not know where Senator Symington stands.

Here We Are Again

A sorry parallel between ancient history of the MacArthur Bridge and present history of expressways was drawn in Sunday's Post-Dispatch news columns.

St. Louisans had to wait 11 long years between the time they voted bonds for the bridge until they could use it for traffic. There were delays over picking a location, delays over choosing approach routes, delays over this and that. For years it bridged the river but lacked access on both sides.

Now it has been 25 years since plans were made for the central or Daniel Boone Expressway. Yet that highway still dead-ends at Brentwood boulevard. Nearly everybody agrees that the area gravely needs expressways, but nobody seems to want one near his property.

The MacArthur Bridge struggle should have proved that it is ridiculous to let local or individual partisanship smother plain public interest, but here we are again.

These parallels in civic frustration ought to drive home the need for prompt agreement on a central expressway.

How Many Is 'Integral'?

Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole owes the country a more specific definition of his "new look" attitude on public housing.

In St. Louis Wednesday, the former Kansas Congressman, who was a leading opponent of public housing before President Eisenhower appointed him to his present post, talked about his hope that 40-year mortgages and the "urban renewal" program would reduce the need for public housing. Until that happens, he went on, the program is necessary, and "it is therefore an integral part of the Administration's housing program, and I intend to support it to the best of my ability."

What is missing from this statement is any clue as to how many public housing units Mr. Cole favors as an "integral part" of the program. Is he for 35,000 a year, as suggested by President Eisenhower? Or is he for 135,000 a year, as originally contemplated by the Housing Act of 1949, which Congress has never yet permitted to come into full operation? Or is Mr. Cole for 20,000 a year, as he was last year after Congress had reduced the President's recommendation to that level?

Mr. Cole is entitled to full credit, as we have previously noted, for changing his views on public housing once he began to understand the real needs which the program seeks to meet. But if he now appreciates a need which he once denied, surely he must have some idea of how great the need is, and how large a public housing program it would take to meet it. Unless he commits himself on this vital point, and gives reasons to support his conclusions, Mr. Cole will be rightly suspected of a rather woolly vagueness on the subject.

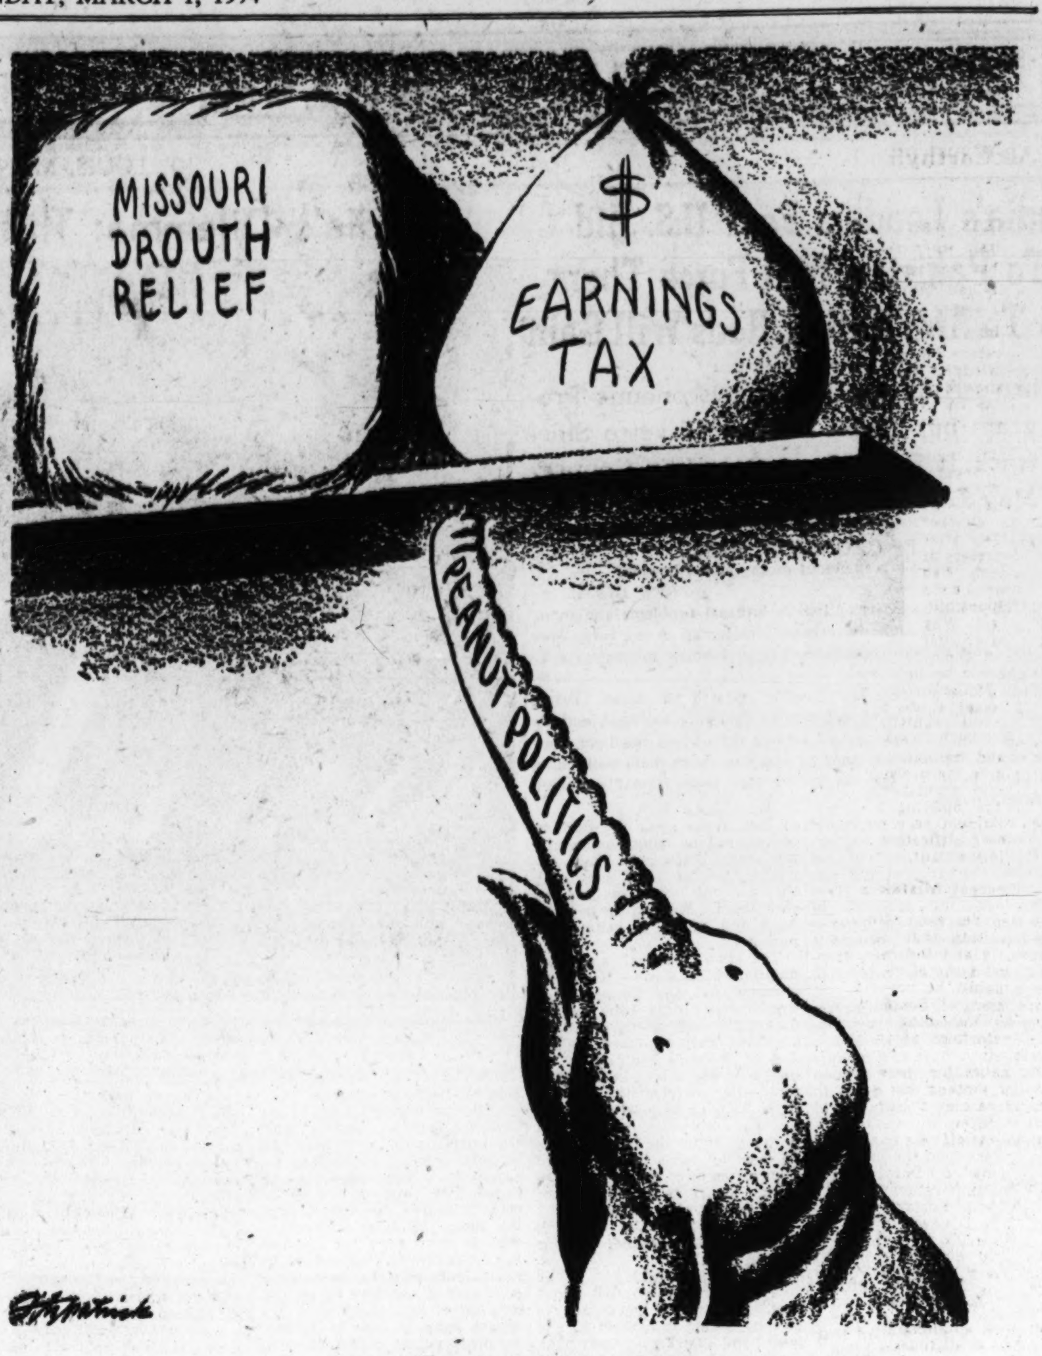
Where Mayor Tucker Can Help

Would St. Louis parents like to help their children to improved dental health, with up to 40 per cent less tooth decay than at present? If the answer is Yes, they ought to see that the City Administration exerts all its influence to move the fluoridation bills through the Board of Aldermen.

Fluoridation is the cheapest, safest, most practical and effective method of attacking dental decay in children. As a committee of St. Louis's leading physicians and dentists told Mayor Tucker when he asked for advice, there is no valid scientific argument against it. On the strength of that report and the Mayor's evident enthusiasm, bills that would permit the city to fluoridate its water supply were introduced in the Board of Aldermen last Oct. 2.

Since then, they have merely gathered dust in Alderman Walter W. Ziegenbalg's committee on public utilities. He did the same thing with a similar measure a year ago, although in that case he showed the people the courtesy of calling a public hearing. Now he hasn't even done that.

The current aldermanic session will die in less than six weeks, and the fluoridation bills will die with it unless Mr. Tucker can persuade Mr. Ziegenbalg to see reason. Fluoridation will have an immediate beneficial effect on the city's children; that is reason enough to make it a reality in St. Louis.



TO GRAB OR NOT TO GRAB?

Bright Side of Berlin Conference

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Instead of risking German settlement which might have ended equilibrium and increased friction in West, Big Four ministers turned to problem in East; one remaining hot war is in Indonesia; truce there needed to help in reducing world tension.

Joseph C. Harsch in The Christian Science Monitor

Washington:

The Berlin conference, when taken in its fuller context of the power struggle we call "the cold war," was, I think, not the failure it is generally regarded as being, but rather a success.

The true function of the conference, the first of its kind in a long time, was to reduce, not to increase, the likelihood of World War III. Technically, the men at Berlin disagreed on more subjects than they agreed upon. However, it would be more accurate to say that they agreed to disagree because agreements would have increased, not reduced, the dangers of another war.

For example, their theoretical purpose was to achieve the release of Germany and Austria from the military occupation which persists to this day as a sort of residual legacy of World War II. It would be a good thing indeed had it been possible for the Berlin conference to liberate those two countries under conditions which would have abetted the general peace.

Joseph C. Harsch

However, the fact is that a release of those two countries under any presently possible circumstances would have increased the reasons why some countries fear other countries; and fear is the principal cause of war danger.

More Safety in Division

It is hard on Germany and Austria that they must pay the principal price for averting an increase in world tensions. But the most basic power fact in the world today is that the existing boundary between the power orbits of East and West is less dangerous than any other boundaries which might in theory have been drawn at Berlin.

It would follow from the above that the Foreign Ministers at Berlin aided the cause of peace by agreeing to continue the present boundary line as being the lesser evil, rather than by agreeing to strike out in dangerous directions by attempting other boundaries.

In brief, the Foreign Ministers concluded, probably wisely and rightly, that it is safer under present circumstances to perpetuate the present division of Germany than it would have been to let Germany go free.

It is safer because there is no sure way of releasing Germany that does not change the balance of power.

The First Task for Peace

There are many reasons for changing that balance. Each side in the cold war would like to see the balance change to its particular advantage. The West would feel safer with all of Germany on its side. The Soviet Union, presumably, also would feel safer with all of Germany on its side.

But if a released Germany were to adhere to the cause of Moscow, the West would feel gravely endangered and would perforce feel it necessary to take redressive action. The same probably would hold true in reverse.

Thus, when the Foreign Ministers agreed to leave Germany in its present status they agreed, in effect, that it is safer to do so than to endanger the peace by granting to either side the victory of adding all Germany to its strength.

This does not rule out the ultimate necessity of the release of Germany. But it does, I think, mean that the Foreign Ministers have discovered a clearer sense of the order in which building peace must be approached.

The first task is not the release of Germany, but rather the settlement of the last remaining hot war in the world, the war in Indochina.

So long as the Indochina war continues a prudent military high command on either side must reckon with the possible extension of that war.

The Foreign Ministers, therefore, put first things first when they put aside the subject of Germany, and its subordinate corollary of Austria, and decided to hold another conference devoted exclusively to the liquidation of the hot war in Indochina and to an improvement in the truce in Korea.

Hopes for a Settlement

If and when those two situations can be reduced to less dangerous and threatening proportion, then the battle line of the power struggle will take on the character of an unbroken truce line. At such a time the loss of military positions will not be so disturbing to soldiers as it would be today.

Also, if the truce is universal, rather than incomplete as it is today, the subject of reduction of armaments will enter into the realm of the conceivable.

Berlin proves that the great powers are unwilling to release Germany in a world which is armed to the teeth, which is plagued by one actual war and by another only recently converted into a precarious truce.

But Berlin also contains the hopeful prospect of a settlement of the conditions which presently make the release of Germany unwise in the eyes of all concerned, for the truth of the matter is that the Western diplomats at Berlin were no more eager to release Germany now than were the Soviet leaders.

Profound Sighs of Relief

Each side blamed the other for the nonrelease of Germany. This was for the public record and for propaganda advantage in Germany. But there was as profound a sigh of relief in Paris, London and Washington over the nonrelease of Germany as there was in Moscow.

On the part of the West this is not because of lack of confidence in the Germans, but because it is recognized that a released Germany is something too big and vigorous for the fragile structure of the peace as it exists today.

Peace must be a solider condition before it can be asked to shoulder anything as vigorous as Germany.

A CHANGE FOR MARQUIS CHILDS

From The Chattanooga Times

Marquis Childs, whose thoughtful and provocative comments on the national scene have appeared on this page for a decade, is renewing his former connections with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. His first assignment was a visit to France and Italy, where he is convinced decisions vital to the free world must be made in the near future. He wants to be there to report them.

We are happy The Times will continue to carry his dispatches, for he is deservingly popular with the readers of this newspaper. Arrangements have been made to secure his columns, though at less frequent intervals.

Mr. Childs represents a point of view which we hope will always be expressed with courage and clarity. He is liberal in thought but his hopes for the future are solidly grounded in an understanding of and respect for the past. When he is critical of individuals or institutions, he is constructively so. The nation needs more commentators like him.

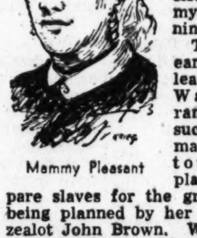
The Mulatto Borgia

MAMMY PLEASANT, by Helen Holdredge, with eight pages of illustrations. (G. P. Putnam's Sons, 311 pgs., $4.50.)

Mammy Pleasant, with her one brown and one blue eye, her slightly kinky hair and beautiful olive complexion, put to shame the dull, unimaginative chameleon who, after all, possesses only the ability to change color. Crossing the color line at will was no trick for her and she had so many other quick changes in her repertoire that she rightly earned the title of San Francisco's woman of mystery in the late nineteenth century.



Mammy Pleasant

Twice in her early career as a leader in pre-Civil War abolitionist ranks she posed successfully as a male jockey as she toured Southern plantations to prepare slaves for the great insurrection being planned by her conspirator, the zealot John Brown. When Brown was hanged following his unsuccessful raid on the Government arsenal at Harper's Ferry she fled to the West Coast disguised as an old woman.

San Francisco proved to be Mammy's meat. The society was democratic, composed of a rough and ready citizenry of uncertain morality. There was a skeleton in every closet and Mammy set out to find where every bone was buried. How well she succeeded makes interesting, if shocking, reading.

There were many people, like former Gov. Newton Booth of California, who believed Mary Ellen Pleasant was unparalleled in her goodness and charity, that she was an unselfish woman who fought to raise the status of her race, that she was the friend and protector of fallen young women of both races.

Helen Holdredge, who had the good fortune to become custodian of Mammy's papers and the diary of Teresa Percy Bell, the white woman Mammy held in slavery for 40 years, has proven beyond doubt, however, that Mammy's pretension of goodness was a false front, that she was the cruel whipmaster of San Francisco, using blackmail to control finances and polities and to make herself immune from the law. She was a wanton Voodoo queen; a sorceress; a murderess; an adulteress; an operator of high-class brothels; an abortionist—a woman, in short, of no conscience, no qualms, no sensibilities.

Born plain Mary, the slave daughter of a quadroon from Santo Domingo and a white Viriginia planter, Mammy was given her chance to break away from ignorance and slavery when she was befriended by Americus Price of Price's Landing, Mo. He enabled her to obtain the rudiments of an education in a New Orleans convent.

The events of Mammy's long life, which lasted into the twentieth century, leap out at the reader from the written page, even though Miss Holdredge's story is sloppily written in a monotonous minor key. The few sulphurous excerpts from Teresa Bell's diary indicate that woman probably would have done a better job—if she could have passed censorship, that is.

McCarthy's Target Is GOP, Not Reds

WASHINGTON.

THERE WAS A BRIEF MOMENT in the McCarthy-Stevens affair when the basic issue had not yet been muddled up. That was when Secretary Stevens took the position that as the civilian head of the Army he, and not Gen. Zwicker, an officer acting under orders, was accountable to Congress for the handling of the Peress case.

Secretary Stevens had already acknowledged that the Peress case showed a condition which required corrective action, and he had promised to revise the army regulations. Senator McCarthy's examination of Gen. Zwicker took place after the Secretary of the Army had acknowledged his responsibility to act. Why then after that was Gen. Zwicker to be held accountable to the McCarthy committee?

Stevens

The General was not responsible for the regulations, for the orders which were issued to him, and he had no authority to reverse the decision or to revise the regulations. Putting aside the bullying brutality of the treatment he received, what was the justification for examining him at all?

To Correct Mistakes.

When Secretary Stevens took the position that he had the authority and the responsibility and would therefore himself be accountable, he not only spoke as a man of honor must but he was upholding loyally the first principles of good administration.

It makes for mere befuddlement to contend that because the Peress case is a bad one, Secretary Stevens should have thrown his officers to the wolves and undermined the foundations of responsible administration. A good administration is not one in which no mistakes are made and there is never a bad case—it is absurd to think that public men must not stand up to defend good government except when the case is perfect and beyond criticism.

A good administration is one which is at all times willing and able to correct its mistakes. That is all that can be expected. That is all that one has a right to ask.

Senator McCarthy already had a letter from Secretary Stevens admitting that the Peress case was a bad one and undertaking to bring about reforms. What then was the purpose of continuing a congressional investigation of this case before the Army had had the chance to institute the reforms which the Secretary promised?

No Help Intended.

Was Gen. Zwicker bullied before the committee in order to help the Secretary of the Army do what he had promised to do? Or was the bullying of Gen. Zwicker done to discredit Secretary Stevens and his officers and to take the Peress case away from the Department of the Army in order to exploit it in the McCarthy subcommittee?

Manifestly, McCarthy's purpose was not to help but to discredit Secretary Stevens, and by way of association to discredit Mr. Stevens's' chief, the General of the Army and the President of the United States. McCarthy's quite evident purpose was to demonstrate his power to intimidate the Army, to show that he was so powerful that he could reach over the head of the Commander-in-Chief and terrorize individual officers. To suppose that McCarthy's objective in these affairs is to protect the Army against Communist infiltration is to be blind and extremely gullible. If that were his object, he would uphold instead of breaking down the authority of the President and of the Secretary of the Army.

McCarthy's object is to show that even in the Army he is a bigger man than they are, and thus to expand his power by making himself feared.

McCarthy's Real Goal.

Everywhere in the country, and all over the world, men and women are asking one another what is McCarthy's ambition, and how is the integrity of the Government to be defended against this brutal usurpation, and how are the peace and liberties of the people to be preserved against this essentially totalitarian assault.

For the short run—until and after the Presidential election of 1956, McCarthy's purpose is plain enough. He is not, one may fairly assume, himself a candidate for President. He is a candidate for supreme boss—for the dictatorship—of the Republican party.

Knowing quite well that he could not be elected, his unconcealed purpose is to break and subdue the President and the executive branch of the Government, the Republican party in Congress, the national organization of the party.

If any Republican still thinks that McCarthy's primary target is Communism and not the capture of the Republican party, he will live and learn differently.

And how does a people preserve its peace and liberties against such an assault? By realizing that his strength with the people is a product of their fears. They are afraid of the cold war, which is indeed a momentous and dangerous thing, but never to be mastered except by men who, knowing the danger, have mastered their fears.

But the people are becoming afraid not only of the cold war and not only of McCarthy's exploitation of their fears of the cold war. Our people are being made afraid of McCarthy himself, and in such a fear there are the seeds of totalitarianism.

Appeased by President.

This is the totalitarianism of the man: his cold, calculated, sustained and ruthless effort to make himself feared. That is why he has been staging a series of demonstrations, each designed to show that he respects nobody, no office, and no institution in the land, and that everyone at whom he growls will run away.

Though it is not flattering to the human race, it is true that there is always a crowd which is impressed by and will follow a man who makes himself feared.

That is how McCarthy's influence has grown as the President has appeased him. He has grown powerful as the Administration has acted as if it felt he was too powerful to be resisted.

His power will cease to grow and will diminish as and when, but only as and when, he is resisted, and it has been shown to our people that those to whom we look for leadership and to preserve our institutions are not afraid of him.

DONATES BLOOD TO RED CROSS FOR AIDING HIS FAMILY

His story is told in a collection from the files of the St. Louis chapter of the Red Cross, which opened its 1954 fund drive today.

Returning from an overseas station with his wife and children, he used all his funds to travel to St. Louis and pay a month's rent. With his allotment check still three weeks away, he turned to the chapter's Home Service Department for aid.

Some months later, he returned the Red Cross gift, explaining that he wanted to make the money available to others in need. Then he said he wanted to give blood "as interest," and has donated 13 pints to date.

CROWD AT MUSEUM FOR INDIAN EXHIBIT

'Cowboys,' Mostly 7, Attracted by Touring Carl Bodmer Show.

By HOWARD DERRICKSON

St. Louis's cowboy contingent, mostly aged about 7, turned out in force yesterday to see the City's Art Museum's newest major exhibition, "Carl Bodmer Paints the Indian Frontier." Attendance for the day, largely parents with children, totaled 1650 persons.

The touring collection is on loan from a castle in Germany's Rhineland and is being circulated by the Smithsonian Institution, Washington. It occupies three galleries, includes 121 paintings and drawings by and about Indians and will leave here March 22.

Visiting small fry, while reacting audibly to nearly every picture on view, were especially interested in water colors done by Mandan Indians. Executed in true primitive style, these have many characteristics of the youngsters' own art work.

Yellow Feather's "Fort Clark," for instance, lacks academic perspective. It depicts a chieftain in full dress astride a pony, with long headdress trailing unnaturally to give a good view of each individual feather.

Indians' Imagination.

This evidence of the "law of the broadest aspect," in the archeologist's phrase, suggests the work was done from memory, where an object's broadest aspect will most vividly persist.

The same phenomenon is strongly exemplified in a Mandan water color of a warrior with shield and feathered headdress, where all elements are spread out and painted flatly. Like the child or uninhibited adult modern, the savage paints what he knows or what he imagines, rather than what he or a camera can see.

Vivid contrast with such spontaneous expression is offered in the bulk of the show, a fascinating factual record of the Missouri river valley in 1832, 1833 and 1834 by the well-schooled Swiss artist Carl Bodmer.

Already accomplished as draftsman and illustrator at 23, he was then chosen to accompany Prince Maximilian zu Wied (1782-1867) in his exploration of the valley. Some of Bodmer's works illustrate the nobleman-scientist's book on his travels, published in 1839.

Bodmer's Documentation.

Bodmer's method, common to European artists of his time, is made clear in his pictures of birds and mammals. First came the detailed drawing, then true color, applied on the spot but often—on this rapid trip—left unfinished because Prince Maximilian was pushing on.

"Hidatsa Indian Dog Dance," which caught the eye of the younger generation, is thoroughly characteristic of Bodmer's completed work. Meticulously detailed are markings on forearm and shoulder, wisps in plume and intricate patterns in beadwork, veined feathers, arrows and decorated bow.

Also of absorbing interest are Bodmer's documentary views of primeval forests, rivers, Hidatsa scalp dances, Mandan sacrifices, Buffalo dances and earth-lodge interiors, scaffold burials of Sioux and Assiniboin chiefs and portraits of Fox, Sauk and Kickapoo Indians painted in St. Louis just 121 years ago this month.

POPE'S GENERAL CONDITION NOW IS CALLED 'GOOD'

VATICAN CITY, March 1 (AP)—Pope Pius's general condition was described as "good" today by L'Osservatore Romano.

The Vatican newspaper cautionel, however, that "improvement continues very slowly." It said that according to information from the Pope's doctor's "a long time" will be needed for the Pontiff's full recovery.

Earlier today, Vatican sorrces said the Pope had spent a "fairly good" night and that his improvement of the past three days continued.

ALVIN C. YORK, WORLD WAR I HERO, VERY ILL AFTER STROKE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 1 (AP)—Alvin C. York, famed World War I hero, was in serious condition today at a hospital here where he is being treated for a cerebral hemorrhage suffered Wednesday.

The hospital reported York's condition as "just about the same—serious." Earlier his condition had been listed as grave.

A physician said the 66-year-old Medal of Honor winner probably will be in a hospital another week or 10 days, but he is not expected to be permanently paralyzed. York's home is at Pall Mall, Tenn.

DR. JOHN W. M'IVOR, RETIRED PASTOR, DIES

He Served as Minister of Second Presbyterian Church for 27 Years.

Funeral services for the Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor, pastor emeritus of Second Presbyterian Church since 1944, will be tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City. Burial will be private.

He died of a heart ailment yesterday at his home, 14 Kingsbury place.

Dr. MacIvor, 75 years old, had served for 27 years as pastor of the church, one of the city's leading churches, and was widely known in religious and educational circles.

He had a hard time acquiring adequate schooling. Before graduation from college he worked as a school teacher, and he retained an active interest in education throughout his life.

A past president of the board of directors of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, he served on the board for 18 years. He had also been a director of Westminster College at Fulton.

In St. Louis he served as a director of St. Luke's Hospital; nationally, as a member of the General Council of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America.

Born March 20, 1878, at South Cove, Nova Scotia, he attended country school there and as a boy came to love the sea and ships. Years later he returned in summertime to sail in the waters near his birthplace and to conduct services in a tiny Presbyterian church there.

Unable to save enough money at school-teaching to complete his education, he shipped to the Canadian Northwest on a "harvest special" and spent two months as a harvest hand, later working his way back to Boston, doing odd jobs on the way. In Boston, for a time, he ran a streetcar.

With money thus earned, he attended Franklin College, New Athens, O., where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in 1902. He attended McCormick Theological Seminary at Chicago for the next two years and in 1905 went to Western Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh. The degree of doctor of divinity was conferred on him by Westminster College and Grove City (Pa.) College.

From 1905 to 1916, he was pastor of Watson Memorial Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh. In 1916 he came to Second Presbyterian here.

He served as director of the Maternal Health Association of Missouri. He also indorsed the Legion of Decency, sponsored by Catholic groups and formed to protest against indecent motion pictures.

In 1921 and again in 1931 he was President of the Metropolitan Church Federation of St. Louis. He was nominated for the St. Louis Award in 1935.

SYMPHONY SCHOOL CONCERT TOMORROW

Possibility Program for Elementary Pupils May Be Canceled Over Strike.

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra is scheduled to present the last of three concerts for elementary school children tomorrow at 3 p.m., at Kiel Auditorium Opera House. Should the city electricians' strike continue, however, the concert may not be held.

Tickets for the concert were sold out long in advance, the Symphony management announced. Seats can still be obtained, however, for the last concert in the orchestra's high school series, to be given March 9.

Both series are designed to provide musical education and entertainment. The program tomorrow will include works of Brahms, Elgar, Tschaikowski, Wagner, Franck, Mozart, Debussy and Schreiner.

Harry Farbman, assistant conductor and concertmaster, will conduct tomorrow's program and give a short talk on music history. There will be games in which the children may identify musical selections, a demonstration of brass and percussion instruments, a performance by the Riverton Dancers and group singing.

The annual student series has no connection with the concerts given each year at public high schools under the sponsorship of the St. Louis Board of Education.

EISENHOWERS HEAR SERMON ABOUT WAY TO BROTHERHOOD

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower were among worshippers at National Presbyterian Church yesterday to hear the Rev. Harold E. Meyers, associate minister, plead for "greater inner discipline" in relations with God and man.

Admonishing that the pursuit of happiness itself calls for inner discipline, he urged more consideration of all peoples of the earth, adding: "Brotherhood can only be dealt with adequately on an international scope. Misery, not Communism, is the basic problem of the world. . . . Communism comes along and moves in where hunger and misery abound."

WINS D.A.V. ESSAY CONTEST

CHICAGO, March 1 (UP)—Frances Myrtle Atkinson, an 18-year-old high school girl of Dayton, Idaho, last night was named first place winner of a national essay contest sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans.

Miss Atkinson, who lives in a village of 287 population, won $2000 for the best essay on "What the American Flag Means to Me."

THOMAS L. STOKES

Voicing Eisenhower Minority's Woes

WASHINGTON.

SENATOR KNOWLAND (Calif.), Administration floor leader, has suggested that something ought to be done about the antiquated seniority system by which committee chairmen in Congress are designated automatically. Everybody knew the Senate leader had in mind, specifically and immediately, Senator Bill Langer (Rep.), North Dakota, chairman of the important Judiciary Committee.

Some others in the Senate—and more outside—would like to see Senator Langer punished. They deplored his inexcusable conduct in permitting all sorts of unsubstantiated charges to be aired against Chief Justice Earl Warren, and for the interminable and insulting delay in confirming the Chief Justice's legal title to the seat he has occupied since Oct. 5. Senator Langer adapted the treatment Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, uses for smaller and helpless fry.

Langer.

Though Senator Knowland suggested no particular substitute for the seniority method of picking chairmen, his aim is clear—that is to adopt some way of filling these jobs other than mere longevity of service.

Advantage to Old Guard.

That was the way Senator Langer fell heir to his powerful post, as did every one of the 14 other chairmen of standing committees of the Senate.

Whether Senator Knowland was thinking only of now and of Senator Langer, he put his finger on a situation that goes far beyond any particular committee chairman.

It is one, in fact, that the Eisenhower wing of the party in the Senate would do well to consider seriously sooner or later if it intends to retain the upper hand and not surrender it to the G.O.P. Old Guard.

For the latter now holds a majority of the committee chairmanships, which means a veto, among other things. The seniority rule is responsible for the Old Guard's predominant senatorial influence.

Age Without Wisdom.

Conservative Republicanism is concentrated chiefly in the Middle West and North Central West and there, too, the party is dominant year after year. Consequently, long tenure is assured by and large for its members of Congress, and thus the seniority which provides chairmanships as its rewards, along with sparse grey hair if not always wisdom.

Similarly, there is long tenure in the South for Democrats, since it is still mainly a one-party section so far as Congress is concerned. Hence—seniority and chairmen with Southern accents and many tricks in the political trade, as Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman knew from sad experience.

Senator Knowland speaks from the inferiority complex of the Eisenhower minority in Congress. His discomfort is assuaged none by the fact that his party also is the minority party in the Senate in numbers. In the last several days he has had his fill of trouble and no wonder he lets out a squeal.

His troubles are gyrating around in pairs. There is not only Senator Langer but also Senator McCarthy, chairman of the Government Operations Committee and its investigating subcommittee of which we hear so much.

The Army and the Court.

Both Senators picked the biggest possible institutions to cuff—Mr. Langer the Supreme Court and Mr. McCarthy the Army and, behind that, its Commander-in-Chief, the President.

Desperate as the Eisenhower situation is in the Senate, it does not yet seem likely that Senator Knowland will do much more than complain about the seniority system.

For one thing, there have always been complaints about the seniority system, especially from students of government. The Joint Committee on Reorganization of Congress, authors of the 1946 Congressional Reorganization Act, tried to find some solution, but could come up with nothing that suited a majority.

Election by House and Senate party caucuses, election by the committees themselves, rotation of chairmanships every six years—all these and other methods were suggested.

Afraid of McCarthy.

But there is another obstacle to the Knowland reform that revealed itself clearly in the excitement in the Senate. The logical chairman for Senator Knowland to do something about, beyond Senator Langer, is, of course, Senator McCarthy, who constantly gives the Administration headaches.

But the same party advisers who lured Secretary of the Army Stevens off his hero's pedestal where he had been waving his fist at Senator McCarthy, long distance, for three days and four nights, would not think of removing Senator McCarthy from his chairmanship, even were that posisble now.

Why?

Besides being afraid of him, they want to use him and his issue to try to win the critical November congressional elections.

Bratton Through as Welter Title Hope?

JOHNNY BRATTON may have thrown away a promising ring career when he allowed the brawling, mauling, rough-house Johnny Saxton to dunce him, at Philadelphia, last week. . . . Among the backfires resulting from this almost shocking display by Bratton were the following:

1—His share of the purse, amounting to $4770, was held up.

2—The Pennsylvania commission barred him from fighting in the state.

3—The International Boxing Club, through President James Norris, announced: "We are not interested in signing him (Bratton) for future fights."

* * *

If you saw TV of the fight you will understand the crowd's feeling against Bratton who was regarded as at or near the top of the challengers in the welter-weight class. . . . What we can't understand is that, with a bright future in sight, he picked this bout to put on probably the worst fight of his career. . . . That he could have done better seemed to be emphasized by his third-round showing when he reacted long enough to batter Saxton all over the ring.

* * *

His subsequent relapse into hopeless ineffectiveness for the remaining seven rounds was what made the crowd throw programs, newspapers, drinking cups and other missiles into the ring, as well as stomp and boo Bratton thunderously.

* * *

That Brattan can regain public favor seems possible, but unlikely. . . . And who will give him the chance to come back? . . . Not the I. B.C. which helped build him up.

* * *

Bratton Borrowed Part Of Purse, Rest Attached.

"PERHAPS, after he has taken an extended rest, he will wish to return to the ring," Norris commented. . . . "If at that time he can demonstrate that he still has his great talents, we will employ him again—but he will have to prove it in other rings, not ours!"

That seems to suggest an I.B.C. boycott, which could work a real hardship on Bratton if carried out.

* * *

There is something to be said in Bratton's favor, in that Johnny Saxton is the type of fighter to make an opponent look bad by his charging, swarming style, ending in the inevitable head-to-breast infighting and wrestling. . . . Bratton himself declares that Saxton "has been thrown out of rings before because he holds on and refuses to let the other fellow get off a punch. . . . I tried to fight him as good as I know—I wasn't laying back."

It seems a weak excuse. . . . Bratton himself must be an over-rated fighter if he can't solve an opponent's style in a way to show his own ability. . . . He certainly was a sour note as a title prospect for nine of the 10 rounds against Saxton.

Perhaps Bratton, like Randy Turpin against Olson, suffered from a "mental condition." . . . Before the fight he had borrowed and had been attached for almost half of the approximately $8000 that was to have been his share of the gate and air money.

* * *

Pep Took the Pitcher To the Well Too Often.

IF Willie Pep indeed is through—and his fight with Lulu Perez certainly indicated he is—we hope he retires with plenty of the reasonable fortune he must have accumulated in a career of 190 fights, only six of which he lost. . . . Five of these were knockouts, suffered in recent years, indicating that Pep is washed up—can't take a punch. . . . In his prime few foes were able to hit him solidly.

As a defensive fighter who also had a marvelous attack—with a knockout when he turned loose all his power—he ranks among the great featherweights of the past, with few to match him in skill. . . . He was as fast and clever even as the famed "Ghetto Ghost," Abe Attell, in his prime.

That he could have when at his peak withstood the attack of that "perpetual motion" wonder, Henry Armstrong (when Hank fought as a featherweight) we question. . . . Here in St. Louis we had a chance to see Pep at practically tops. . . . That was when he dunced Chillin' Charley Riley, then a title candidate, with a cleverly maneuvered knockout. . . . Willie really had something that night.

CALIFORNIA COMMISSIONERS have lifted the suspension of Referee Mushy Callahan and Judge Joe Stone, who caused an uproar last week by declaring Art Aragon winner over Chuck Davey. . . . "They done their best, though wrong, evidently was the reason. . . . The commissioners were in a spot themselves. . . . After selecting the two officials to do the judging, they decided to disown their own judges, which hardly seems kosher. . . . But Davey's defeat remains in the record.

It's Short Or Bench For Solly

By J. Roy Stockton
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1.—Solly Hemus, sturdy competitor who finally pushed Marty Marion to the bench in 1951, and who has stood off whatever competition came along since then, moved over to third base during a Cardinal workout at Al Lang Field yesterday.

It wasn't an entirely new position. Solly had played 11 games at third in 1950, before proving the following spring that an eager young man could do a better job at short than a tired old man, as baseball ages go, especially a tired old man with a patched-up knee and a wayward scarioiliac.

But since that season Solly has been a regular at the position where Mr. Shortstop performed so brilliantly. Solly played 120 games in 1951, 151 in 1952 and last year 154 games. Occasionally he'd shift to second or third in an emergency.

He Can Play Third.

Solly showed in the Sunday workout, too, that he could play third base. A groundball is about the same at third or short, except that you have to range over a wider arc at short stop. And inasmuch as Solly's alleged deficiency, if any, is lack of range, perhaps third would be his oyster, if Alex Grammas, the Golden Greek from Kansas City, did a little crowding at short.

What did Manager Eddie Stanky think about it? Had he considered the possibility of using the very valuable Hemus at third, if Grammas were to force that issue? Did he have an open mind about third, as well as short and first base, as he prepared to pick his team for the 1954 pennant race?

Stanky usually shows that he has given considerable thought to anything like that, any possibility brought up by an observer. It was that way about Hemus and third base.

"I'll put it this way," said Stanky, who always puts it this way or that way rather meticulously. "I do not have an open mind about second base or third base. Red Schoendienst is my second baseman and Ray Jablonski is my third baseman. And I might add that when I say I do not have an open mind about those two positions, I am speaking as of right now."

For the Loser . . . Tough.

And so, as of right now, that struggle in the infield on the third base side of second will be strictly between Alex Grammas and Solly Hemus, with the shortstop job as the big prize and the bench beckoning to the man who comes out second best. Which will be good news for Jablonski.

Actually, it won't be an easy job to push Hemus out of the No. 1 rating at short. He hit .281, .268 and .279 as a regular in the last three years and that's a pretty good average for a shortstop, especially for a man who, like Hemus, reaches base so many times by walking or being hit by pitched balls. And so Grammas will have to hit as well and show superiority in the field, to take the job away from little Solly.

After the rain-curtailed workout which was one long batting drill for infielders, outfielders and catchers, with pitchers alternating between the sliding pit and the bunting machine, Stanky announced that the first squad practice game would be played tomorrow, with more batting scheduled for today.

One team, with Bill Posedel as coach, will include Bilko, Ortiz, Schofield and Jablonski as the infield, Phillips, Burgess and Moon in the outfield and Sarni catching.

A team coached by Scout Gus Mancuso will include Marolewski, Schoendienst, Hemus and Castiglione, infielders: Rac, Frazier and Repulski. Outfielders, and Rand, catcher.

Pitchers of the day, who will work one inning each against both teams, will be Poholsky, Romonosky, Jones, Tiefenauer and Miller. Posedel will have Lowrey, Rice and Grammas as reserves and Mancuso's extras will be Elliott, Yvars and Alston.

About the Jones Boy.

Jones, first name Gordon, is one of three young pitchers who looked so well at De Land that they were sent over to the parent camp. The others are Rollie Hubbard, a fast-ball lefthander, and Larry Jackson. Jackson and Jones are right-handers.

Enos Slaughter, delayed by an automobile accident in which his wife was badly injured, worked out for the first time and was dropping long drives near and over the right field wall. . . . Grammas continues to show improvement . . . he was throwing better. . Stan Musial was hitting the ball well for the first time . . . At the moment, however, Wally Moon, Rochester property, and Joe Frazier, pinch-hitting prospect, are the best batsmen in camp. They played winter ball.

Castle Shannon Wins, Gains Semifinals in Open Soccer Tourney

PITTSBURGH, March 1 (AP)—A team from Castle Shannon (Pa.) gained the semifinal round of National Open Cup soccer play today by defeating the Detroit Bavarians 4-0 at nearby Bridgeville.

Bob Craddock led the scoring with two goals, one in each half.

The victory was the tenth in a row for Castle Shannon. It has been undefeated since last November in league and tourney play.

Carondelets and Grapettes Win in Muny Eliminations

By Dent McSkimming

Nick Scalfano, manager of the Carondelet soccer club, wasn't bluffing when he said a few days ago he thought his team of youngsters might startle some fans in the current Municipal title playoffs.

Nick admittedly was taking a gamble. He had five, new, young players in his lineup. He said he thought they would give Carondelet club its best team in years. Well, in the second game of the Sunday doubleheader at Fairground Park, the kids came from behind to defeat the more solid Kutis II team, in overtime, 4 goals to 2.

Earlier in the afternoon, Grapettes came to life to soundly trounce Franklins, 5 to 1.

This means that Grapettes, Carondelet, Simpkins and Kutis I will go into the round-robin portion of the playoffs, starting next Sunday.

Youngsters Come Through.

All of Scalfano's boys contributed heavily in the surprise victory over Chick Fernandez's red-shirted Kutis Two team. Goalie Don Tuchoski not only made a number of fine saves but he showed good judgment in his handling and disposing of the ball. His single mistake, a fumble, cost him a goal and put Kutis ahead, 2-1. Outside Left Jerry Vonder Haar, although covered every step of the way by Pete Sorber broke loose for some spectacular dashes and, in dramatic fashion, scored the goal that tied up the game, just four minutes before the final whistle.

Center Forward Charley Becker and his relief man, Bud Schillinger, each proved forceful leaders of the attack and each scored a goal. It was youthful but big, strong Bob Ecker, inside right, who scored the other Carondelet goal, the one that made it 3-2.

While Carondelet was enjoying one of its great soccer triumphs, Kutis players were wallowing, never quite up to their best performance and, much of the time, slowed down to a walk. Dick Lodderhose and Tony Arias scored the goals that twice put the red-shirts in the lead.

Some of the Kutis players seemed to have no heart for the contest just when heart meant the difference between retaining control or stepping aside. Little Bernie Brown, the outside right, with one of the most difficult assignments in trying to beat Fullback Chick Pfeil, came off with honors. The three backs, Hal Diaz, Joe Fernandez and Sorber kicked well but repeatedly booted too hard. If they had fed the ball instead of driving for distance the team might have looked better.

Beyond question, the better team won in each game, and the results should insure a more interesting round-robin series.

Grapettes Gain Big Lead.

The gusty, damp wind out of the northwest made it uncomfortable for spectators and for the team defending the east goal. In the first game, it was Franklins who had to face that lusty breeze in the first half. And it is probable that the outcome of the game was influenced by that toss of the coin. Grapettes, moving the ball along the ground much better than in any recent game, scored four goals in the first 45-minute period. Such help as Franklins got from the wind in the second half was not great enough to overcome such a deficit. Each side scored once in the second half.

Slightly-built, versatile Joe McCarthy handling the outside left position for the first time this season, scored Grapettes first goal. Butch Cook tallied from the penalty spot and shortly after toed the ball into the net from outside the penalty area. Buzzy Randazzo, cutting behind the fullbacks, made it 4-0. Joe Spica hit a long shot for a 5-0 tally and Fullback Merlin Whetsel scored from a long free kick for the only Franklin goal.

Goalie Oscar Whetsel saved some measure of glory in stopping a second penalty shot by Cook but there were few such crumbs for the out-played Franklins. Ed Whetsel, normally the team leader and goal-getter, was practically erased from the picture by Center Half Joe Carenza. Still, Grapettes did not look too sound.

Fewer than 1000 paid to see the games.

Change in Program.

Because of the postponement at Milwaukee of the scheduled national Amateur Cup match between the Serbian club and the Chicago Falcons, a change probably will be made in next Sunday's Muny program. Officials will huddle early in the week to try to straighten out their problem.

Meramec Sport Club accommodated the idle Kutis I club by furnishing the opposition in a practice match at Carondelet Park and surprised with a 3-1 victory. Val Pelizzaro and Ruben Mendoza, both just returned from two years of Army service, lined up with Kutis. So did Ted Hebberger, goalie, who had been playing with the Sullivans.

Woman Hooks Limit of 6 Trout 3 Minutes After Season Opens

CASSVILLE, Mo., March 1 (AP)—The women, although greatly outnumbered, appeared to have showed up the men as the Missouri trout season opened today.

Mrs. S. P. Munsinger, Aurora, Mo., got her limit of 6 just 3 minutes after the opening gun at Roaring River State Park near Cassville.

Mrs. Lorelie Adams, Camdenton, Mo., had her limit just 8 minutes after the opening at Bennett Springs near Lebanon. Her biggest weighed 2 pounds, 14 ounces.

The honor of pulling in the first one at Montauk State Park, near Salem, went to Mrs. K. P. Ellis, Licking, Mo. She landed it just 10 seconds after the opening.

The crowds at Roaring River, Bennett Springs and Montauk were smaller than those of last year. Officials attributed this to the falling of opening day on Monday.

Temperatures at Roaring River and at Bennett Springs, were in the middle 30s and skies were clear. At Montauk, the weather was cold, about 20 degrees, but fair.

First man to catch his limit at Roaring River was Russell Portwood of Independence, Mo., who caught his sixth trout eight minutes after the opening.

The Missouri Conservation Commission said water conditions at Bennett and Roaring river were very low, but "almost" normal at Montauk on the Current river.

At Roaring river, the commission installed pumps at the lower end of the stream in the park area and pumped the water back into the river at the upper end of the park.

For size, early honors went to Norman Saeger, St. Louis, who landed an 8-pound lunker, 21 inches long, at Montauk. He used a spinning rod and a small plug.

Bennett Springs' biggest was brought in by J. R. Everhart, Kansas City, Kan. It weighed 3 pounds, 6 ounces. The runner-up there was Dr. I. J. Hammond, Moberly, Mo., who had one weighing just 6 ounces under three pounds.

Williams Breaks Shoulder In Fall, Out Two Months

SARASOTA, Fla., March 1 (AP)—Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox star, fractured his left shoulder while chasing a fly ball in spring training today. He is expected to be out of uniform for five or six weeks, possibly longer.

Williams dived for a sinking liner from the bat of Hoot Evers, stumbled and struck his shoulder. He got up, his face white and grimacing with pain and was helped to the clubhouse at Payne Field, where the Red Sox opened spring training for the regulars this morning. He was then rushed to a doctor's office for X-rays.

"There is no doubt in my mind that it is a break," said Jack Fadden, the Boston trainer. "I have seen too many of those to be mistaken."

After examination at the Red Sox clubhouse by Dr. Russell Sullivan of Boston City Hospital, the slugging outfielder was taken to the office of Dr. Michael DiCosola of Sarasota for the X-rays.

Williams had been fishing for five days in the Florida keys with Dr. Sullivan, and both arrived here by automobile this morning. Williams reported about an hour and a half late.

He had not taken any batting practice and went to the outfield. He had caught about two routine flies, when Evers hit a sinking liner to shallow left. Williams jogged in for it and then dived, trying to catch the ball with both hands. He stumbled and fell on his shoulder.

Williams got up in much pain. After about 10 minutes he was driven to Dr. Di Cosola's office. He was bundled up in a blanket, accompanied by Tom Dowd, Boston traveling secretary.

Williams, who will be 36 in October, batted .407 in 37 games in a sensational comeback last fall after being discharged from the Marines and serving in Korea.

Boston is scheduled to open the 1954 season at Philadelphia, April 13. Observers here thought it extremely doubtful that Williams would be ready for the opener.

Williams, who is reported to have a contract calling for a salary of $100,000 this season, told Pitcher Mel Parnell when he fell "I heard something pop. I knew I had a broken shoulder."

In 1941 Williams suffered a chipped left ankle while in spring training and missed the opening few games. That was the year he hit .406, his best average for a full season in the majors.

Williams fractured his left elbow July 11, 1950, when he crashed into the outfield wall at Comiskey Park, Chicago, while chasing a fly ball in the first inning of the all-star game between the American and National Leaguers. He got back into the Boston lineup as a pinch-hitter Sept. 7.

St. Agatha Is Upset, 1-0, by Holy Innocents

In spite of the loss of several star players who have graduated to senior Muny teams, SS. Mary and Joseph junior soccer club scored a convincing 3-0 victory over St. Ambrose in their C.Y.C. post-season tournament game yesterday.

The winners thus advanced to the final round in which they will oppose the survivor of the St. John-Our Lady of Sorrows game which is booked for next Sunday. St. John advanced by defeating St. Pius, 2-0.

Surprise of the day was the 1-0 upset of St. Agatha by nippy Holy Innocents in their Juvenile division game at Sublette Park. St. Agatha recently won the C.Y.C. championship and followed that up with a victory over the Municipal juvenile champions. Outside Right Ressler scored the only goal of the game.

Heavily favored Resurrection and surprising St. Luke teams reached the senior division final by defeating Sacred Heart, 1-0, and St. Leo, 3-0, respectively.

District Golf Tourney Date Is Switched

The date for the annual St. Louis District Amateur golf championship has been switched to accommodate the scheduling of the Westborough Round Robin tournament, it was announced today.

John Wright, vice president of the St. Louis District Golf Association, announced that the district tournament had been switched from June 8-13 to June 21-27. It will be held, as scheduled previously, at Meadow Brook Country Club.

This enables Westborough to hold its annual round robin amateur invitation tournament June 10-13 at that club. This tournament annually has attracted some of the country's leading amateur golfers.

"We (the D.G.A.) believed the accommodation should be made for the good of amateur golf here," Wright said in announcing the action of the association.

Principia Star To Be Ready for Tourney Opener

Principia Academy, which won't play in the Class B regional tournament at Elvins until Wednesday night, may be glad of the extra day's rest if it aids the recovery of its 6-foot-4 center Jerry Toll, who suffered a back injury in the subregional meet. Coach Whitey Schubert said he expects Toll to be ready for full-time duty when Panthers meet Troy at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Bayless, coached by Clyde Ficklin, opens the Elvins meet tomorrow night against Linn.

The schedule:

TUESDAY—Bayless vs. Linn, 7 p.m.; Bismarck vs. Wellsville, 8:30 p.m.
WEDNESDAY—Troy vs. Principia, 7 p.m.; Cuba vs. Bonne Terre, 8:30 p.m.

Only flyweights, bantamweights, featherweights and lightweights see action tonight. The four heavier classes get their preliminary innings tomorrow night.

Among the favorites on tonight's program are Jerry Morales of Kansas City and Bernard Dean of St. Louis, flyweights; Leroy Jeffrey of Detroit and Junior Trujillo of Denver, bantamweights; Dave Resee of Des Moines and Emanuel Aghassi of Iraq and Chicago, featherweights, and Ardell Dukes of Evansville, Ind., and Bob Morgan, Memphis, lightweights.

Dangers of Abuse Of Boxing Officials.

MUCH was made of the suspension of two California boxing officials after they decided in favor of Art Aragon in a recent bout with Chuck Davey. Mushy Callahan, the referee, and Joe Stone, a judge, were set down immediately at the conclusion for what the chairman of the commission called "the worst decision I have ever seen."

Now the same commission reinstates the two men after a hearing with a statement including the following resolution it adopted:

"Based on the past records of Referee Callahan and Judge Stone over a period of years for experience, honesty, integrity and ability, be it resolved that (they) be absolved of the charge of violation of pro boxing rules."

But the statement concluded that the judgment of the two officials was faulty.

Maybe the latter was true. Highlights of the bout were shown over KSD-TV Thursday, but there was not enough of the contest shown to form any judgment.

The point is that when a commission joins in condemnation of its own appointed officials it is treading on dangerous ground.

What if the baseball commissioner or the president of each major league would suspend an umpire every time there is a public outcry against a decision? How long could you expect to have courageous umpiring?

How long do commissions expect to have independent and courageous boxing decisions when they bow to the whims of boxing spectators over a decision?

The California commission said that it was tired of decisions showing a lack of uniformity.

And if you saw the Johnny Bratton-Johnny Saxton bout at Philadelphia, you heard the unanimous decision, 9 to 1, by each official. That should have been satisfactory, and perhaps it was correct.

But don't you think that officials, in self protection, will arrange some system by which the three of them will be fairly close together in their verdicts if the present trend continues?

Over the years, boxing fans have asked innumerable times if judges didn't have pre-arranged signals at the end of each round so that their scoring could be made known to each other.

So far as has ever been learned, they have not had any signals although many, many times the cards of the judges, and the referee, have been very close together. It was, and still is seldom that you see a great spread. Sometimes you do, and that seems to occur when one official either takes a strong dislike to something a boxer is not doing or has a strong admiration for something he is doing.

Boxers as Referees.

IT has long been known that a good boxer seldom makes a good referee. There are exceptions, of course, but on the whole, topnotch boxers are not good referees. They tend to favor too much the boxer who approximates their own style.

Walter Johnson, as a baseball manager, was frequently criticized by pitchers working for him because he insisted they throw their fast ball too often. Johnson thought there was nothing like the fast ball, which was true if it was Johnson's but if it was someone's else without that zip, it wasn't too effective.

So with the boxing official. One who worships at the shrine of the sock, or the clever defense may prove faulty in his judgments.

An official who approaches his task with a mind clear of prejudices against one style or other will do a better job.

But if he is to be expected to do that better job, time after time, he will have to get the solid backing of the commissions which appoint him.

Nobody can do a task correctly or even approximately correctly if he's trying to think all the time of what his boss will think about if he exercises his independent judgment.

If this sounds like pontificating, make the best of it.

Herbert Kranze Dies; Former Boxer, Referee

Funeral services for Herb. W. Kranze, former amateur boxer and professional fight referee, will be Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Drehmann-Harral Funeral Home with burial in New Picker Cemetery.

Kranze, 52, collapsed working his backyard yesterday and died of a heart attack.

He and his brother, Werner, came here from Germany as young men and began boxing at the Sherman Park A. C. Three years ago they organized the Old Timers Club of former fighters.

Kranze, a meat market operator, is survived by his wife; a son, Herbert Jr., 6 years old, and his father and two sisters in Germany.

Loop Tie With LSU Possible

NEW YORK, March 1 (UP)—All-conquering Kentucky, the only major unbeaten basketball team in the nation, hopes to complete its perfect season tonight with a victory over Alabama as the college court sport heads into the last week of the regular season.

The "week of decision" for the collegians began yesterday with Holy Cross, Bowling Green and Connecticut each accepting post-season tournament bids, and the emphasis from now on will be on those tourney berths.

But for tonight the spotlight is squarely on Kentucky, which has emerged from a year's suspension for recruiting activities to win all 23 games it has played thus far. A victory tonight over Alabama at the Crimson Tide's court in Tuscaloosa, Ala., would make Coach Adolph Rupp's Wildcats the first team to go unbeaten through a season of 20 or more games since Long Island University had a 22-0 mark in 1938-39.

A victory—confidently expected since Alabama has lost seven games thus far—also would clinch for Kentucky at least a tie for the Southeastern Conference championship, the crown that must be won before the Wildcats can get that sought-after berth in the N.C.A.A. tournament.

Three More Enter Meets.

Connecticut (21-2) accepted N.C.A.A. bid last night as the newly crowned New England Conference champion; it won the title with a stunning 78-77 upset of Holy Cross, Saturday night. Connecticut, fourteenth team to enter the 24-team N.C.A.A. field, will play with Navy in a first-round tourney game at Fort Wayne, Ind., March 8.

Holy Cross's wounds were salved with a bid to the National Invitation Tournament. The Crusaders (22-2) were quickly followed into the N.I.T. fold by Bowling Green (16-6) and that left only one more place to be filled in the 12-team carnival that opens at Madison Square Garden with a tripleheader Saturday night.

Situation in Conferences.

The 10 empty berths still left in the N.C.A.A. are reserved for conference champions not ts yet determined. Those races shape up this way:

Southeastern — Louisiana State University (12-0) can match Kentucky's perfect league mark by beating Mississippi tonight and Tulane Saturday. If the two tie, they will play off at Nashville, Tenn., March 9.

Pacific Coast—Northern Division Champion Oregon State and Southern Division Champion Southern California will meet in a two-of-three playoff at Los Angeles, Friday, Saturday and, if needed, Monday.

Southern—Opens eight-team post-season tourney for N.C.A.A. berth at Morgantown, W. Va., Thursday. George Washington (11-0) won the regular season crown, is favored in tourney.

Atlantic Coast—Opens eight-team post-season tourney for N.C.A.A. berth at Raleigh, N.C., Thursday. Duke (10-1) won regular-season title, but other strong choices are Maryland (7-2) and North Carolina State, which had best overall record (22-5).

Ivy-Cornell (9-2), Princeton (9-3) and Penn (8-3) in blanket finish. Cornell has three left, including a game against Dartmouth tonight.

Big Seven—Kansas and Colorado (9-1 each) clash tonight at Kansas in season's big game. Winner also will have to win one remaining game to clinch.

Big Ten—Indiana (10-2) can clinch by winning finale Saturday against third-place Illinois (9-3). Iowa (10-3) finishes tonight against Ohio State. Illinois plays next-to-last game tonight against Northwestern.

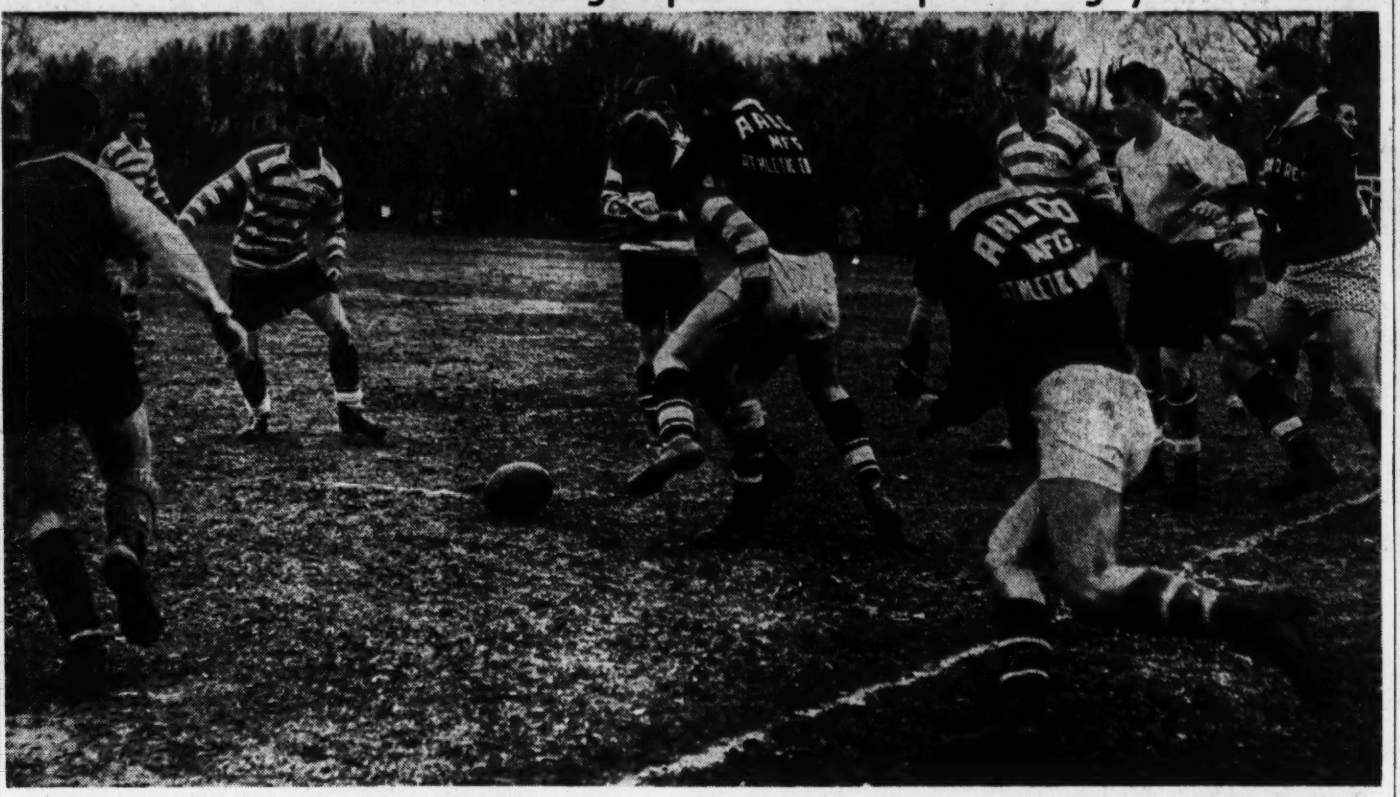
Aggies Play Billikens.

Missouri Valley — Oklahoma A. and M. (7-1) must win two remaining games to clinch—against Tulsa Tomorrow and St. Louis Saturday. Wichita (8-2) has finished league season, has accepted N.I.T. bid on condition it misses out on N.C.A.A.

Southwest—Rice and Texas (each 8-3) finish tomorrow, Rice against S.M.U. and Texas against Texas Christian. If both win, they'll meet in two-of-three playoff.

Border — First-place Texas Tech (10-1) and second-place West Texas State (9-2) meet in season finale for both tomorrow on Tech's court.

A Little Wrestling Experience Helps in Rugby



—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

The ball appears to be just an incidental part of the battle as players of the Grand Recs (black shirts) and the Saints play a Missouri Rugby Union game at Forest Park. The newly organized Saints surprised by holding the champion Recs to a close score. The referee ejected one player but the game was marked by good, clean tackling. That's WALLY BURKE of the Saints in the grip of an eager opponent.

Saints Extend Champion Recs, But Lose in Rugby Opener

By Neal Russo

Jimmy Austin, a handsome insurance man from Liverpool, England, shook off the bruises after his Saints' rugby team lost to the champion Grand Recs at Forest Park yesterday and said his squad stood a good chance of upsetting the Recs when they meet again.

"We just got this team together and with a few more practices and games we ought to do all right," Coach Austin said.

"We were practicing one day anda a group of boys wondered what kind of game we were playing," the Briton recalled. "They were invited to join us, liked the game and now they're on our team."

The St. Louis youths teamed with Austin and three others from England to extend the Recs, 8-3, in the Missouri Rugby Football Union's season opener on a cold, windy day. The other Britishers on the Saints are Bill Tatlock, a shipping clerk who was Austin's teammate in Liverpool; Charley O'Riorden, an insurance adjuster from London, and Harry Friedman, accountant from London.

Austin, whose father Patty taught many English school children the game, scored the Saints' three points on a 40-yard penalty kick. Jerry Jacobs tallied the Recs' first try (three points) by "touching down" the ball after it was deflected by a teammate on a penalty kick. Bill Heck made the conversion (two points) anad Mel Loncaric scored the second try on a short run.

The Dwarfs, featuring former athletes at South St. Louis high schools, beat the Raiders, consisting largely of Washington U. medical students, 9-0. Jack Adolphson scored the first-half try which was set up by a penalty kick by Co-coach John Weisman, former Princeton star. Al VonderHaar, former St. Mary's High tackle playing his first rugby game, tallied two trys on runs late in the game.

Rugby, a rough sport described as a combination of football and soccer and thus appealing to spectators, usually is played Saturday afternoons in England. One match there drew more than 94,000 fans.

Noel Jackson, British Consul, officially opened the season by kicking in the first ball. . . . Uniforms still are unnumbered although Joe Drapp, publicity chairman, has reminded the teams that fan interest might be greatly increased if the 30 players on the field could be identified.

Referee Joe Birmingham ousted Art Streb, Recs' redhead star, for arguing with him. In a game last season Streb's shorts were pulled off by a grasping opponent and teammates had to surround him while he put on a new pair. . . . Jim Van Coutren of the Saints was flattened on the hard ground while carrying the ball but remained in the game after lying down about two minutes.

Rockford May Join Central Pro League

The Central States Professional Football League will probably include Rockford as its sixth franchise holder next season, according to Bob Reed, owner of the St. Louis club, the Knights, who attended a league meeting at Chicago yesterday.

"Rockford was not represented at our meeting but negotiations have been started which should bring that city into our organization," Reed explained. Last fall, in its final game of the season, Rockford tied Delavan (Wis.), a league member, in an exhibition game. That result, Reed said, indicates the club is sufficiently strong to make a good league title contender.

Wausaw, Waukegan and Waterloo are other league members.

The next league meeting, at which the schedule will be drawn up, will be held April 11, at Delavan, Reed said.

Billikens May Be Forced to Transfer Game

Eddie Hickey today was faced with the added problem of the possible effect of the city electricians' strike on St. Louis University's basketball game Wednesday night against Bradley University at Kiel Auditorium.

Coach Hickey, just returned from the east where the Bills lost to LaSalle, 96-82, Saturday night at Philadelphia, said he had not had time to make alternate plans for the game in the event the Bills cannot use the Auditorium.

This will be St. Louis's last home game of the season and the Bills are scheduled to play their final game of the regular schedule away from home against the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater Saturday night.

Hickey said that it was possible the Bradley game would attract a crowd of 8000 or 9000 and that obviously the school's West Pine gymnasium (capacity about 3000) would not handle that kind of crowd.

74 Players to Seek Berth on Ritenour Nine

Doing a quick switchover from basketball to baseball, a record 78 candidates have signed up for the Ritenour High diamond squad, and will report for workouts tomorrow. This number does not include freshmen, according to Coach Lyle Fisher, whose team won the Suburban League title last season. First year men will be called for later.

A good nucleus is back for more competition with the Huskies, but much may depend upon the ailing left foot of Pitcher Don Miller. Miller suffered a fracture of one of the bones in his foot during a basketball workout Feb. 8, and was able to remove it from a cast just a few days ago. He is expected to be able to begin light workouts this week. Miller won 10 and lost one for the Huskies.

Nine lettermen will be back. These include Catcher John Orlando, who batted .395; Second Baseman Pete Orlando; Third Baseman Roland Boehm; Shortstop Roland Kurtz; Center Fielder Bob Burda, who hit .333 as a freshman last year; and Pitchers Jerry McKinnis (5-1); Bob Schwartz (2-0); Joe Terbrock (1-1), and Miller.

Fisher's club had an overall record of 18 and 3 during the 1953 season, but among the stars who will be missing due to graduation are Outfielders Butch Hankins and Vic Bonuchi.

Crystal City Gets Stern Test In Cape Meet

By Harold Tuthill

Old friends and new will converge on Cape Girardeau tomorrow night when the twenty-eighth annual state high school basketball tournament starts its week-long grind at Houck Field House.

Foremost from St. Louis interest will be Cleveland's opening game in defense of its 1953 championship. The undefeated Dutchmen of Earl Jansen, Public High League champion, will seek their first triumph at Cape against Jefferson City in an 8:30 game.

Cleveland, 22-0 for the season, has a string of 37 consecutive triumphs, the best in the state for Class A schools.

Cleveland is one of six repeaters from the 1953 field. Others are McKinley, Beaumont and Webster Groves from the St. Louis district and Crystal City and Kirksville from outstate. Arvel Popp's Crystal City Hornets are the only other undefeated Class A team—schools with an enrollment of 311 or more. Those with fewer students are classified as Class B for basketball tournaments only.

The Dutchmen from Cleveland will depart by train tomorrow morning with Coach Jansen and Athletic Director Karl Ware. The 10 players who will make the trip are the "Big Five" of Roger Thomas, Rick Herrscher, Bob Ferry, Paul Schaefer and Norm Goette and the second five of Jerry McDonnell, George Burkel, Terry West, Rich Limpert and Dale Daugherty.

On the opening round of three with Cleveland is Crystal City, which has won all 27 of its engagements. The powerful Hornets will oppose a Kansas City Southeast team that has a 19-1 record, and it ought to be quite a scrap starting at 10 o'clock.

The honor of opening the tournament falls to De Soto and Kansas City Westport. Tipoff at Houck Stadium will be 7 o'clock.

St. Louis's four other representatives — C.B.C., Webster Groves, McKinley and Beaumont—will start their competition Wednesday. Beaumont will play Cape Girardeau Central, Webster Groves will meet Joplin, C.B.C. will play Raytown and McKinley will end the first round against Buffalo.

Ed Furgol Ties for 7th in Mexican Golf

Palmer's 286 Wins Tourney

MEXICO CITY, March 1 (UP)—Johnny Palmer won the $12,000 Mexican Golf Open today with a cautious five over par 77 as a rally by Argentine Roberto de Vicenzo fell short by one stroke.

Palmer, a veteran Charlotte, N.C., campaigner, played it safe to protect a lead he held throughout the tourney and finished with a 37-40 that gave him a two-under-par total of 286 for the 72 holes.

De Vicenzo's putting failed him on the back nine and the defending champion rimmed the cup repeatedly to lose birdies that might have cinched his comeback. His 38-36—74 gave him a total of 287, one stroke better than unheralded John Weitzel of Hershey, Pa., who had a 35-38—73 today.

Most of the leading winter circuit players competing in the south-of-the-border event were out of the money, including Tommy Bolt, Dave Douglas, P.G.A. champion Walter Burkemo and Ed (Porky) Oliver.

Tied for fourth place with 289 were Wally Ulrich, Maplewood, N.J.; Ralph Blomquist, Glendale, Calif., and Jay Hebert, Woodmere, N.Y. They won $847 prize money each.

Juan Neri of Guadlajara topped the Mexican pros, tying with Ed Furgol of St. Louis for seventh place with a total of 290. Johnny Kesselring of Toronto, Ont., had 291; Vic Ghezzi, Inwood, N.Y., 292; and grouped at 293 were Bo Winninger, Oklahoma City; former P.G.A. king-pin Olin Dutra, Mexico City; Al Besselink, Grossingers, N.Y., and Al Mengert, Seattle, Wash.

Colorful Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., and young Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif., brought up the rear of the prize-winners with 294 each, tying Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., who had the day's best round, 34-35—69.

In other games St. John's No. 2 defeated St. Francis de Sales No. 2, 2065-1528; St. Mary's No. 3 beat St. Francis de Sales No. 1, 2001-1846, and Cathedral No. 2 won over St. John's No. 3, 1830-1812.

Two Clubs Complete Inter-City League

The Glen Carbon Hawks and Pontoon A. C. have joined the Southwestern Illinois Inter-City Baseball League to complete an eight-club circuit, President Vernon Lucas has reported.

The season will open April 18 and close on Labor Day. The annual all-star game has been set tentatively for July 18.

23 TAFT-HARTLEY CHANGES STUDIED BY HOUSE GROUP

Bar on Union Shop, Indefinite Bar on National Emergency Strikes Included.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP)—The House Labor Committee is considering a proposal which in effect would arm the Government with authority to block national emergency strikes indefinitely, it was learned today.

It has before it also provisions to bar outright practically all union shop and other union "security" measures, and to give states unlimited authority to regulate strikes.

The proposals are contained in a "confidential" list of 23 tentative Taft-Hartley law changes prepared by the committee staff. Practically all of them, if approved, are sure to arouse the wrath of labor unions.

A 'Working Paper.'

The list is considered a "working paper." Committee chairman Samuel K. McConnell Jr. (Rep.), Pennsylvania, has said he would not bar consideration of proposals from other committee members and that the closed-door voting would be "fair."

The Administration now has authority to go into court for 80-day injunctions against strikes that would create "national emergencies" in its view. President Eisenhower recommended no change in this clause.

The proposal before the House committee, however, would give the Administration authority to ask courts for injunctions of unlimited duration against such strikes.

The list provides for government-supervised strike votes before a strike "insofar as practicable." It also authorizes government-supervised votes of stockholders on companies' "last offers" to unions.

Union Shop Association.

The committee list would outlaw any wage contracts that require union membership (union shops) or payment of dues (maintenance of membership) as a condition of continued employment. It would, however, permit union shops in the construction, maritime and amusement industries as recommended by the President with union membership required after seven days instead of usual 30.

President Eisenhower made no general recommendations on union security clauses in wage contracts. The Taft-Hartley Act now permits them except where state laws bar them.

On the question of federal-state jurisdiction, the committee list proposes that the Taft-Hartley Act shall not prevent states from regulating "the right to strike or the right to picket."

Unions have long contended that they need the "protection of a federal law on the ground that state laws are more restrictive and also because of the difficulties of industry-wide bargaining and striking in the face of a variety of state laws."

The committee this week is expected to take up another proposal in the list that will arouse union leaders. This proposes two alternatives for administration of the Taft-Hartley Act: to abolish the National Labor Relations Board and leave union representation cases to the Department of Labor and unfair labor practice cases to the courts; and to enlarge the board from five to seven members and replace its general counsel with an administrator.

SWINDLE POSSIBLY LINKED TO FRAUDS OF $300,000

DETROIT, March 1 (AP)—A 37-year-old automobile firm accountant's apparent suicide led police today on an inquiry which they said might uncover frauds of $300,000 to $400,000.

A full investigation was pending into mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of Edwin D. Smith, whose body was found in an old, abandoned Detroit river gatehouse yesterday. Police said embezzlements in large figures might be traced to Smith. Police mentioned a total of up to $400,000.

Smith's body, expensively dressed, was found by a newsboy delivering on his paper route. Smith had been shot between the eyes. Beneath his body lay a newly-purchased .22 caliber rifle. Two notes were found.

Married and the father of two children, Smith had been missing for a week from his Lathrup village home. Previously he had returned from a Florida vacation. Oakland county authorities had been asked by his wife, Ila, to search for him.

Disease Kills Landmark.

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—A historic landmark was wiped out by the Dutch elm disease. The stump of a tree, planted by a slave in the Revolutionary War, fell victim to the disease and was removed.

Ultimately the proposed changes were rejected by one vote, but only after the Republican leader, Senator Knowland, defended his approval of the George amendment on the ground that even if this version was obscure in its wording the House of Representatives could correct it.

Surely these aberrations and depredations do not reflect the real desires of the majority of the Senate. But the majority cannot escape responsibility for them. They have assented. They have stood by immobile. They have not joined to say, "No, this must stop!"

Isn't it time to stop it? Isn't it time for the Republican policy committee to sit down with the President and the Vice President and decide that this has gone far enough?

Offenders Are Republicans.

The prime responsibility is with the Republicans. It has been Republican Senators who have been in the forefront of these abuses. This itself has posed a dilemma for President Eisenhower. He has been constantly harassed by the right wing of his own party. He cannot long refrain from acting to protect the Executive branch from this mounting, feverish, unjustified harassment, and he can do this only by taking the political risks of some controversy within his own party ranks. After all, Mr. Eisenhower has an obligation to all the people.

BIGGEST POLITICAL DECISIONS MADE BY EISENHOWER AIDS

The Meaning of It.

What is the meaning, then, of this strange pattern, which has been visible in many other incidents besides those cited? The answer appears to lie in the President's own character and experience.

Dwight D. Eisenhower clearly brought to the White House a rather routine military officer's conception of the presidency. He has had to learn fast in his first 14 months in office. He has come a very long way since the early days, when he was hardly more than an amiable constitutional monarch.

Also important is what Eisenhower has not done. He has not yet assumed the national political leadership that is the highest of all the many functions of the presidential office. The political problems of the President are the problems most foreign to his own past experience. He does not feel at home with them. He still allows even the biggest political decisions to be made by other men, whom he regards as experts in the dark political art.

The group that has been making these decisions is increasingly discernible. The Attorney General belongs to it, and so does his political assistant, William Rogers. The chief figures in Congress are the chairmen of the senatorial and congressional campaign committees, Senator Dirksen and Representative Simpson. The most active member in the White House itself is the congressional liaison officer, Wilton D. Persons.

All these busy little people have one thing in common. They think that Senator McCarthy will win the 1954 election for the Republican party.

INDIA'S LEADERS FEAR PAKISTAN AID FORCES ARMING

but to avoid political connections. One of the questions I think he must be asking himself is this: 'If Pakistan goes to the West, will all the Middle East go with it?'"

A particularly shrewd representative of a western nation talked of India for a long time, and he too came to the question of the Middle East. He said:

"I think the United States may be playing with fire in this case. You can go so far in these things, but you should stop short of a point at which you may risk retaliation. With the situation so delicate in the Middle East, arms aid to Pakistan might trespass beyond that point.

"I think the amount of aid will make a big difference. A sum of $25,000,000 would have little effect, unless Nehru was convinced it was the start of something big. Two hundred to $300,000,000 would put stress on India. Indians are a little bewildered by the whole affair. They can't see what the United States can gain that would offset the risk of losing friends in India and elsewhere in Asia."

"I can discuss India most perceptively," he said, "but when I am through I wonder if I really know. India is like an iceberg to me—most of it is below the surface."

New Housing Bill Guards Against Government 'Tyranny'

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 1—A little-noticed and innocent-sounding section of the Administration's new housing bill has as its background one of the most fantastic legal cases in history—a case involving what a congressional committee called "tyrannical" action by the Government.

The case is still bogged down hopelessly in the courts seven years after it began, despite having gone to the Supreme Court three times and many more times to the court of appeals. It has been investigated twice by congressional committees. Seven of its principals have died since it began.

The section of the new housing bill is designed to prevent such a case from ever arising again, and is in part an admission that the Government acted wrongly and unfairly when the case began back in 1946.

Double Move.

The case involved a twin-barreled move by Charles H. Fahey, an important New Deal figure who headed the Home Loan Bank system in 1946, to end strong opposition to his policies in the Los Angeles area and to take over the management of a federal savings and loan association in Long Beach which was the fountainhead of the opposition.

Thomas A. Gregory, the president of the Long Beach Association, has since got his association back, but he thinks he is owed a large amount of money which the Government still resists giving him.

Among other things, the case brought out the fact that the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, which insures savings accounts in almost all savings and loan associations in the country, cannot be sued except in the District of Columbia. Although government officials have repeatedly insisted that this in no way jeopardizes the insurance of the ordinary shareholder, the new bill would make the corporation suable in all states.

Heart of New Section.

The heart of the section of the bill affecting the savings and loan system is a set of procedures and limitations involving how the home loan bank board can take over the management of an institution being run in such a way as to jeopardize the savings of its shareholders.

The right of the board to appoint a "conservator" of an institution is preserved, but never again would it be able to do so the way it did in the celebrated case of the Long Beach federal.

On the morning of May 20, 1946, a team of officials from the Home Loan Bank Administration (as it was then called), simply moved into the Long Beach Association and took it over, without notice or hearing.

The Government later cited a number of charges of mismanagement, but they have never yet been fully tested in the courts—despite seven years of litigation.

This was the background: In 1946 there were federal home loan banks—the "central banks" of the savings and loan system—in Los Angeles and Portland on the West Coast.

A group of "rebels" in Los Angeles, who fought Fahey's policies, tried to elect as president of the Los Angeles bank a man named Charles E. Berry, to whom Fahey strongly objected. Without notice, Fahey suddenly ordered the Los Angeles bank liquidated and merged with the Portland bank into a new Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco. The San Francisco bank still exists.

Two months later Fahey moved against the Long Beach Association. Gregory had led the opposition to him in the Los Angeles bank controversy.

Charges, Counter-charges.

The charges and counter-charges since then are bewildering. Gregory insists with the fervor of an apostle that Fahey (since dead) was "power mad," that the charges were simply "trumped up to get me" and that the Government ever since has used legal tricks to block his chances of getting back what is rightfully his.

Officials of the Home Loan Bank Board familiar with the case insist that Gregory was running an unsound institution, and they insist also that the long legal delay has been a device by the Gregory side to avoid a showdown on the real issues involved.

Most impartial observers of the case believe that Fahey did in fact act arbitrarily, but few are willing to risk a judgment on whether there were any real grounds for a Government take-over of the Long Beach institution.

The legal case has reached almost incredible complexity, bringing in countless "interpleadors" such as the property owners with Long Beach association mortgages and dozens of cross-claims and filings. The record has run to 28,000 pages—50 times the size of the novel "Gone With the Wind."

The Gregory side claims that dangerous legal precedents have been established by certain of the court decisions that have gone against them, but the Government lawyers scoff at that contention.

On several occasions, including the present, there has been a disposition on both sides to settle the affair, but the legal case has grown so complex that settlement is almost impossible. The key issue involves money which Gregory claims is still owed to his institution as a result of actions of the Government conservator when he was in control.

The new housing bill, aside from making the Insurance Corporation suable everywhere, requires the board in most cases to hold a hearing in advance of appointment of conservator for a savings and loan association. It clarifies also the question of just when the courts can be appealed to—a key question in almost half of the litigation in the Long Beach case.

FOSSILS HELP TO BRIDGE LINK IN ANIMAL LIFE

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP)—Recent exploration in southwestern Wyoming has shed new light on the vast span of time between the last of the dinosaurs and the appearance of animals similar to those living today.

Many of the fossils were collected and brought to the Smithsonian Institute here for classification and study. Previously unknown, they will help breech a gap of 55,000,000 years.

The largest and most interesting of the specimens was a vegetation-eating creature about the size of the present day bear. It's scientific name is the pantolambda. Although only its skull was found, scientists have determined that the pantolambda did not even remotely resemble any living animal.

'Foreign Intrigue' Star

Actor's Observations On Life in Europe

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, March 1.

NOT in the memory of the oldest inhabitant have there been so many actors trouping through Europe, making TV films and, just incidentally, broadening their minds and conceivably the minds of the Europeans they encounter.

JOHN CROSBY

One of the best known of the working expatriates at the moment is James Daly, the star of "Foreign Intrigue," who has kept up a flow of correspondence with J. Walter Thompson full of actorish and sometimes very sharp observations about the countries he is visiting.

* * *

DALY ON SWEDEN, for example: "The Scandinavian countries are supposed to be relatively free of most of the problems that beset the rest of the world, but they have one problem unique to themselves. The hotel problem. Once acquainted with this problem, the traveler in the north countries is not so apt to marvel at the fact that the Swedes, for instance, have been at peace for 125 years. How could they possibly get involved in the world's troubles—they never leave their hotel rooms."

Daly on American children abroad: "Glyn (his 5-year-old daughter) was given a small gift by a Swedish friend. She simply accepted it and smiled fetchingly. So I said, 'What do you say, Glyn?' She opened her mouth and then knotted her brow and said: 'What do I say here, Daddy?' After a summer of 'Mercis' and a week of "Danke schoens' and whatever they say in Denmark, the well-rehearsed 'Tacke sa mycket' got lost somewhere in the rain in Upsala."

* * *

DALY ON THE SUBJECT of European misconceptions about Americans: "I do all I can to disprove the favorite European cliche that Americans are childish billionaires with the morals and manners of dangerous cretins. Unfortunately, although you can knock yourself out in this direction, about the best you can do is have your European friends tell you: 'Oh, but you're different.' Or as one guy said to me in Paris this summer: 'But you have a European soul!' No matter how much I assured him that my soul had come over on the Mayflower, he wouldn't let me have an American soul and still be a friend."

* * *

DALY ON THE SMALL CONFUSIONS of life abroad: "Cuts of meat are different in every country we've been in. Apparently every country has its own ideas as to how animals should be sliced up. Except for steaks and chops, general confusion reigns. This situation produced an incomparable vaudeville sketch between Hope (Mrs. Daly) and Mrs. Holger (their landlady). Mrs. Holger was going to order our meat for us and asked for a list. When presented with the list, she was absolutely at sea.

"Although she speaks perfect English, she'd never heard of sirloin steaks or T-bones or round steaks. Hope tried to explain by taking imaginary slices off her own torso. When I walked in, Mrs. Holger, a hefty type, was carving a big hunk off her hips, saying, 'Oh, you mean from here?' After about a half hour of the two of them dismembering themselves from calves' brains to pigs' feet, I had to leave the room in an agony of strangulated laughter."

* * *

DALY ON AN ACTOR confronting the real thing as opposed to the stage version: "We visited Kronberg Castle in Elsinore (Denmark), where I mooned about a bit pretending to be Hamlet while the kids joyously slurped up their first ice-cream cones of the summer. Perhaps clever stage sets have spoiled me for Hamlet's castle, but Hope and I both felt it didn't do Shakespeare justice. The situation is marvelous and some of the interiors are impressive, but to an American, brought up on illustrations in Grimm's, it isn't a real castle like those on the Rhine."

* * *

DALY AGAIN on children abroad: "The children are really becoming terrifyingly bright, what with speaking French in school and Swedish to the neighborhood kids. In self-defense Maw and Paw take themselves off to the Berlitz School of Languages once a week, but it's a losing battle. When Tyne asks me to check her arithmetic, I am forced to make trumped-up excuses. I can't add and subtract in English, much less French. If I weren't in the movies, I'd lose face with them entirely."

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

WHEN Olin Clark was an MGM nabob he was told that the studio was interested in one of the inimitable tales of James Thurber. Clark tracked his man by phone to a Vermont hideaway and asked him to set a price on the story. Jim promptly said "$100,000." Clark murmured, "Thanks, anyhow," and started to hang up. "Hey, wait a minute!" protested Thurber, very quickly. "Don't you guys want to haggle?"

* * *

MISS PAIGE WROTE, "He was bent on seeing her" on the blackboard, then asked her class, "Who can restate that sentence in more acceptable English?" Young Bernie Geis volunteered, "The sight of her doubled him up."

Dog of the Week

Few dogs can look as coyly inquisitive as a collie pup. This young female Dog of the Week at the Humane Society shelter, 1210 Macklind avenue, is no exception. Those in charge of the shelter have no papers on her ancestry, but they point out that she has many of the markings of a purebred dog, including the long, thin nose. She is available for adoption on application, in person, at the shelter.

Pitching Horseshoes

Boston Story

By Billy Rose

NEW YORK.

TWO years ago a story came out of Boston which didn't get anywhere near the attention it merited. I'm repeating it for the benefit of those who maintain that the average American business man has a chunk of dry ice where his heart ought to be. . . .

BILLY ROSE

Back in 1879, a young man named George Robert White opened a small drug store in a residential section of Boston. The going was plenty tough at first, so in an effort to undersell his competitors he began mixing his own ointments and lotions, and packaging them himself.

A couple of decades later, in the best tradition of Horatio Alger, the neighborhood druggist had become the owner of a giant outfit known as the Cuticura Corp., manufacaurer of soaps, salves shampoos, shaving creams and other toilet articles.

IN 1920, AS HE began to slow up, White decided that no one man was smart enough to know what to do with the great wealth he had accumulated. The wise expenditure of millions, as he saw it, was a chore for many minds, not one. So he wrote a will in which he left $5,000,000 to the city of Boston for civic improvements, stipulating only that it be spent as a fair-minded committee might recommend.

Simultaneously, he set up a substantial "Humanitarian Fund" to be administered as the officials and directors of his corporation saw fit.

In 1922, while on his deathbed, he called these men into session and gave them their final instructions. Starting with the day of his death, the Cuticura Corp. was to turn over two dollars out of every three dollars it earned to the Humanitarian Fund. Furthermore, this fund was to be operated for the first 30 years without publicity, so that no one could accuse his corporation of trying to cash in on its adventure in humanity.

IN THE NEXT 30 YEARS, without fanfare or fuss, Cuticura turned over better than $30,000,000 to the fund. Who got all this money? Well, among the beneficiaries were the Massachusetts General Hospital, the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Boston Health Department and the Boston Lying-In Hospital.

In 1952, as per White's instructions, the concern finally let the facts be known, and it was then that William C. Hamilton, its vice president, said, "The more we gave away, the more our company prospered. Even if it were possible, Cuticura wouldn't change its policy of giving away two-thirds of its profits to charity."

★ ★ ★

THE STORY is as effective a piece of propaganda for "our way of life" as any I have ever heard tell of and our State Department could do a lot worse than to bring it to the attention of the misguided millions who are being taught that the American business man is a monster.

A simple way to accomplish this would be to print up several million leaflets and attach them to small balloons in the vicinity of the Iron Curtain on a day when a stiff west wind is blowing.

5 Kinds of Love

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

"ALL that I ask is love," says a popular song, and there are plenty of men and women, young and old, who echo the words without having any idea what the words really mean—if they mean anything. Actually, there are many kinds of love, and few persons succeed in getting all of them. Indeed, few people consciously want all of them.

Scientists have analyzed love in innumerable ways and none of the analyses covers the entire ground satisfactorily. One of the most recent attempts is that of gynecologist Anna K. Daniels in her new book, "The Mature Woman" (N. Y., Prentice-Hall, 1953, $3.95). There are five basic kinds of "attitudes" of love, says Dr. Daniels: 1. The romantic. 2. The physical. 3. The procreative. 4. The spiritual. 5. The realistic.

★ ★ ★

LET'S LOOK AT EACH of them for a moment. No. 1, the romantic, is "the story-book, fairy-tale attitude" which has little or no relation to real life. Yet it's what most of the people are seeking when all that they ask is love. It should be looked on not as a complete experience but merely as a seasoning for the real thing; "and like any other seasoning, it must be used carefully, sparingly, with understanding and restraint."

No. 2, the physical, is predominantly masculine, Dr. Daniels asserts.

"The wise woman, determined to face life realistically, will accept this fact and adjust to it."

No. 3, the procreative, is perhaps more characteristic of women than of men; but it is widespread and is one which mankind shares with all living creatures. Since the perpetuation of the human species is involved, no one should depreciate its importance—nor should anyone suppose that it alone is enough to constitute a love-life.

★ ★ ★

NO. 4 IS THE SPIRITUAL, which Dr. Daniels considers a very elevated form of friendship. The finest relationship between man and woman can not last very long "unless there is a strong element of the spiritual in its composition."

No. 5, the realistic, "Combines all the others in varying degrees. . . . It may be the most difficult to attain, but once having been attained it can bring the greatest opportunity for long-term happiness. To achieve it requires considerable maturity." But it's worth the effort.

That's Dr. Daniels's analysis. You won't agree with it in every detail; neither do I; but it is something to think about.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A YOUNG girl writes: "I have asked my boy friend, who lives in another state, here for a visit. Our house is rather small and we have no spare room in which he can stay, and, therefore, he will have to stay at the hotel. I would like to know if it is my family's responsibility to pay his hotel bill, or does he pay this himself? If it is my parents' obligation, how do they go about this without embarrassing him?"

If you have invited him in your parents' names to come and stay at the hotel in your town, they certainly would notify the hotel to tell him that he is their guest, and his bill will be sent to them. But if you wrote and said that you wished he would come to see you sometime, and that there was an excellent hotel in town where he could stay, then that would be his responsibility.

Former St. Louisan's Writing Career

Berton Roueche's Third Book Published; Making Self Write Is Hardest Job

By Virginia Irwin

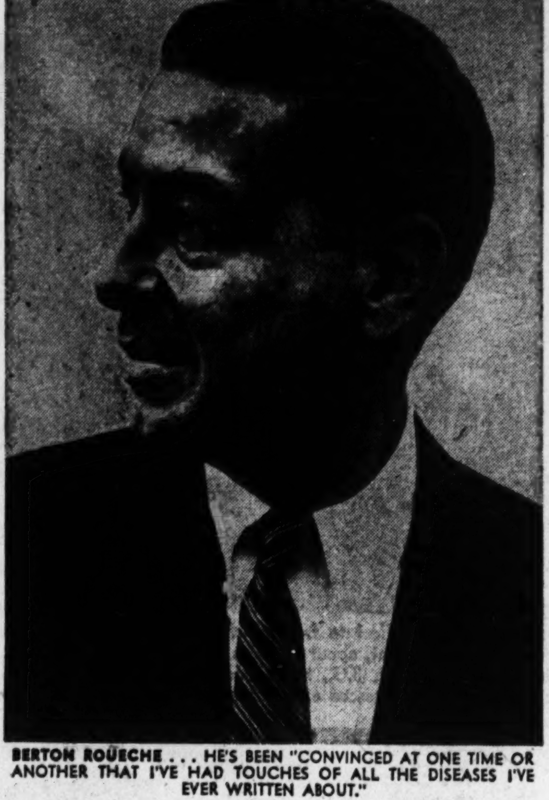
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.

FORMER St. Louisan Berton Roueche, whose latest book, "Eleven Blue Men and Other Narratives of Medical Detection," was published last week, now lives in a rented house on a Long Island farm surrounded by potato fields. Near the house is an old garage and over the garage Roueche has fashioned a studio to which he repairs each morning around nine.

"There," says Roueche, "I subject myself to that form of torture known as self-discipline. I make myself write."

A former Post-Dispatch reporter, the 43-year-old author of "Eleven Blue Men" (Little, Brown & Co.), has two previous books to his credit. "Black Weather," a novel with a St. Louis background, was published in 1945, and "The Greener Grass," a collection of his articles on rural subjects which first appeared in the New Yorker magazine, came out in book form in 1948.



BERTON ROUECHE . . . HE'S BEEN "CONVINCED AT ONE TIME OR ANOTHER THAT I'VE HAD TOUCHES OF ALL THE DISEASES I'VE EVER WRITTEN ABOUT."

"Eleven Blue Men" is also a collection of stories which Rouche first wrote for the New Yorker. True tales of authentic medical detection, each of the 12 stories in the book carries all the suspense of a whodunit. The tale of the Eleven Blue Men from which the book takes its title details every step in the detective work done by three New York Health Department epidemiologists from the moment the first "blue" man, an aged derelict, collapsed near the Hudson Terminal. Then 10 more followed suit. All were old and dilapidated and all were blue all over. The epidemiologists worked around the clock and found the solution to the mystery when they discovered silver nitrate in the oatmeal of a Bowery hash joint.

Two of the stories in the book won for Roueche the coveted Lasker Foundation Award for medical reporting in 1950. One, entitled "The Pig From Jersey," is the account of how a doctor of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases backtracked from a trichinosis victim to the source of the contaminated meat served at a Schachtfest given by the Hindenburg Pleasure Society in the Yorkville section of New York.

The second story upon which the Lasker Award was based is called simply "The Fog" and is a graphic account of how a greasy, gagging fog closed down on Donora, Pa., on the morning of Tuesday, Oct. 26, 1948, struck down 6000 of the town's inhabitants and left 20 people dead when it lifted six days later.

* * *

THE son of Mrs. C. B. Roueche of Kansas City, Mo., Roueche thought as a young man that he would like to be a doctor, but at the University of Missouri he wound up in the School of Journalism. Upon graduation he went to work for the Kansas City Star, worked briefly for the Globe-Democrat in St. Louis and in 1942 joined the staff of the Post-Dispatch, where to his delight he was put to covering assignments in the medical field.

While in New York in 1944 he dropped in at the offices of the New Yorker in an attempt to peddle some articles he had written in the particular style of that magazine and to his surprise was offered a job.

With the background of his medical reporting in St. Louis, Roueche continued his interest in medical stories. His first magazine piece along this line, "The Alerting of Mr. Pomerantz," marked the establishment of a special department in the New Yorker called "Annals of Medicine." So far Roueche has been the only contributor to the department.

"The Alerting of Mr. Pomerantz," which is included in the new book, is the story of how an insect exterminator put medical investigators on the trail of the first known case in medical history of rickettsialpox, a disease bearing a resemblance to Rocky Mountain fever.

"Funny thing," Roueche laughs, "by the time I get through writing a piece about some disease, I'm sure I've got it. I've been convinced at one time or another that I've had touches of all the diseases I've ever written about."

* * *

ALTHOUGH he spends most of his time at his Long Island retreat, where he lives with his wife, the former Katherine Eisenhower — she's the only daughter of Arthur B., Kansas City banker and businessman and eldest brother of the President—and his 11-year-old son, Bradford, Roueche makes the journey into New York once every two weeks to check in at his office at the New Yorker and perhaps do some research at the Library of the Academy of Medicine on 103rd street. In his studio above the garage he has also built up an extensive medical library of his own.

"One of the triumphs of my pseudo-medical career," Roueche says proudly, "is a letter I have addressed to Berton Roueche, M.D. It came from a New York doctor and it gave me quite a kick to read the salutation—Dear Dr. Roueche."

Roueche leads the sort of independent existence that most writers dream of some day achieving.

"Being your own boss," he says, "is all right except for that torture you have to inflict on yourself—self-discipline. I'd rather just look out of the window at the ocean which is only a short distance away from my desk, or be out there scooping up scallops or digging clams or just lying on the beach. Or listening to my collection of jazz records or practicing on my trombone."

Although Roueche sometimes relaxes his efforts at self-discipline, he not only manages to keep up his output for the New Yorker but in the last few months has completed another book. Tentatively titled "The Last Enemy," it is what Roueche calls "in the thriller class" and will be published this Spring.

Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

WHEN people go out to buy paint for a room in their home they usually select one that has a pleasant color, which is exactly the way it should be.

On the other hand, paint can do a lot more for you and your house than just provide a note of color if you use it correctly. For example, if the windows and doors in a certain room are too big or too ugly you can make them a good deal less conspicuous by painting the trim around them the same color as the walls.

The same holds true of a fireplace and even a radiator. If, on the other hand, the windows happen to be attractive and you'd like to take people's attention away from some other feature of the room, paint the trim around the windows a different color than the walls.

Lots of people select a paint that will go well with certain pieces of attractive furniture, forgetting that it can be equally useful in making unattractive furniture less conspicuous. If you have a large couch or other bulk piece of furniture that seems to take up too much space, try painting the walls around it the same color as the finish or fabric. You'll find that this will decrease the size of the piece considerably.

And now that paints are so easy to apply, it's often a lot easier and less expensive to paint a room than to make a new slip cover for a large piece of furniture. Also remember now that summer is coming that you can make a room feel a good deal more cooler just by giving it a cool fiinsh such as blue or green..

For the most satisfactory service from a clothes dryer, Missouri University home economists recommend that homemakers observe these four suggestions. (1.) Sort clothes as they are sorted for washing. (2.) Don't overload the dryer. (3.) Don't overdry clothes. (4.) Clean the lint trap every time you use the dryer.

1. ARE OUR SUBURBS IMPROVING FAMILY LIFE?
YES☐ NO☐
2. DO NON-CHRISTIAN NATIONS PREFER OUR SCIENCE OR OUR RELIGION? YOUR OPINION—
3. DO SCIENTISTS KNOW HOW WE REMEMBER?
YES☐ NO☐
3-1

Answer to Question 1.

APPARENTLY, yes. Results of a study show that in the new medium-priced housing developments both white and blue collar workers have a more solid, united, companionate family life. Their children date more frequently and with more family approval and control than is possible in the crowded city. A healthy sign!

Answer to Question 2.

Our science. Arnold Townbee writes that Russians and Asiatics can understand and accept our machines but not our religion, culture and ideology. This creates the basic clash between East and West. Communism, he says, offers the East a fanatical ideology which party members can enforce. But you can't enforce democracy with guns. An explosive situation.

Answer to Question 3.

No. Neurologist Ralph Gerard writes that our brains probably receive 60,000 "bits of information" per minute—15 trillion in 70 years! Whether all or only part is stored up, and how the brain organizes the ones we consciously remember is almost anybody's guess.

Many silk printed dresses, with or without jackets, appear in the Carnegie collection for spring. Cottons are handled with the same care as silks and woolens. Many are designed for street wear, among these being a white track printed cotton featured in a two-piece suit that has a silk-lined jacket. Others, including a scarlet printed dress and jacket costume, are for afternoon, while still others are for dinner and evening wear.

WHEN you apply a light color enamel over a dark enamel it's best to first apply a coat of white undercoat. This will usually insure a single finish coat of enamel completely hiding the dark enamel.

Varnish does not do very well if it is too cold when it is applied. If the varnish has been stored in a cold place, warm up the container in some warm water prior to use. For best results the varnish and the room in which it is applied should be at about 70 degrees.

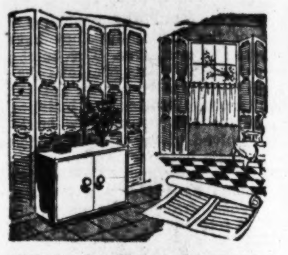
New Shutter Wallpaper

By Elizabeth Hillyer



WALLPAPERS were never more interesting than they are now, and one good reason is that there are so many new special effect papers.

Here's an example, a handsome shutter panel. Each panel strip of paper shows two sections of shutter as if the shutter were slightly folded, to give a look of depth. One panel on each side of a window is all the finish it needs. Three or more shutter strips side by side look like a screen. The screen effect is an eye-catching background for furniture and a one-stroke banisher of bareness on a windowless wall, an idea especially for a long hall.

A few shutter panels are big decoration for a room, and can be used on walls that are painted or papered. The background color of the shutter panel can be matched with paint or plain paper. Panels can be cut at the bottom to the length needed.

MRS. G. H. "Should two shadow boxes be hung on the walls near a corner, or if only one is used, what should be used to balance it? The television set is in the corner and there are matching chairs on the wall on both sides."

Matching chairs with the television set between them establish formal balance which is completed by matching decoration on the walls. However, shadow boxes are rather heavy wall decoration and you should consider whether or not their use will make the corner seem crowded and too heavy for the rest of the room. Less bulky pictures might be better there, and a shadow box or shadow boxes on another wall to balance the somewhat concentrated grouping.

MRS. L. A. "The wood of my divan and chair in the living room is dark mahogany. Would light oak go with it, or must I stick to the dark mahogany for new end tables?"

The tables must be chosen for the appropriateness of their style. Thus light mahogany is usually a better choice because tables of it are more likely to be right with furniture made of dark mahogany. Oak tables often lack the refinements of styling which made them suitable.

For Weight Watchers

A cup of hot bouillon is a good pick-up for a reducer who needs a midmorning snack. Vary the bouillon sometimes—just to make your reducer's life interesting—by adding a few short sprays of water cress to it. Or add some drained canned mushrooms to the bouillon.

Knitted Apparel

Knitted apparel tends to stretch out of shape when hung for long periods. Hand-knit dresses should be folded no more than twice and stored in a drawer rather than hung in the closet.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG U S PAT OFF

Dear Martha:

FOUR years ago I started going steady with a fellow and two years later he went into the army and asked me to wait for him. When he came back two months ago we were married. We're very happy but there is one thing we keep arguing about. He wants to stay in St. Louis but I want to move to California. I want to stay clear of his folks and mine. Do you think I am wrong.

MRS. R. E. B.

There are so many factors involved in a decision of this kind that it's hard to say. If your parents or his are actually interfering in your marriage and making both of you unhappy, then a move away might be logical. But if not, why force your husband to go to a strange part of the country just to make sure there will be no in-law trouble? Maybe you are just looking for trouble when there's no reason for it. If he wants to stay here, try to be happy and make him happy. It would seem foolish to go clear across the country unless both of you are agreed that you prefer the west coast to St. Louis.

Facts on Gray Hair

By Glen R. Shepherd, M.D.

"There is a sinking of the soul,
  A sudden shock of age and care;
As one who in a mirror sees
  The first gray streaking of his hair."

SO wrote R. H. Newell in "The Man of Feeling" in 1864. Newell's feelings may be shared by some of you. But I think gray or white hair graces its owner and adds distinction to the appearance. It certainly isn't a sign of old age. Too many young people now have gray or even white hair for this old idea to be true. Though I know it isn't a sign of extra intelligence, either, the gray or white hair gives that impression.

Just why hair grays is not yet known. The scientists understand what happens to the hair shaft as it loses color. Your hair, if enlarged under a microscope, appears like a hollow reed containing tiny granules of pigment in the center. As this pigment disappears the hair appears first gray and then white.

★ ★ ★

I HAVE NEVER talked with anyone whose hair turned white overnight. It's a common legend but I doubt its reality.

To restore really natural hair color, pigment or colored granules of some sort would have to return to each hair. This can't yet be done.

A couple of chemicals important in nutrition were publicized several years ago as able to restore natural hair color. But careful tests with them for eight months didn't darken hair in either graying youngsters or oldsters.

Sometime in the future, when our knowledge becomes greater regarding matters of nutrition and normal cell requirements, there might be a way to restore the natural brown or black pigment to gray hair. Such may be possible but I doubt it.

★ ★ ★

GRAY OR WHITE HAIR can be dyed. It seems sort of silly, because so many people regard gray and white hair as becoming in appearance, even flattering.

Some hair dyes give fantastic coloring under daylight or fluorescent lighting. Who wants to wear purple, blue, or blue-black hair—which is the daylight effect of certain dyes?

Most of the newer hair dyes are perfectly harmless for most people to use. The manufacturers take great pains now to avoid irritating material. A few people are sensitive to certain organic dyes.

The only sure way of finding out whether any dye you use—if you must use one—is safe is to try a little dye on your skin before applying it to your whole scalp. If it doesn't cause a skin rash or other reaction in a day or two, its probably safe enough for you to use.

A few people become sentitized to certain dyes after using them. That is, nothing happens after the first application. The rash or other reaction comes on after the second or third application. This sort of delayed rash is rare. It's usually temporary if that dye isn't used again.

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

But part of being well-dressed is the knack of combining the right clothes. It's really just common sense, easy as can be.

Sports accessories go with sports clothes, for example, and dressy accessories go with a dress-up coat or a date dress. Going hatless is a casual, sports style and doesn't go with a dress-up coat in—or out—of town. When you wear a dressy coat, wear a suitable hat with it. Gloves, too.

What are sports accessories? Mittens or cotton knit gloves to go with sweaters, cotton pull-overs, wool skirts and jackets; also pigskin and calfskin belts. Wool or silk scarfs. Socks. A handbag made of corduroy, calfskin, saddle leather or plastic that looks like rugged leather.

Dress-up outfits call for harmonizing shoes and stockings, not scuffed-to-death loafers and bare legs. Don't ruin the effect of your pretty new date or Sunday dress by wearing it with old loafers and socks—it's not good taste, not correct, even if it is comfy.

Gold jewelry is best for daytime and should be dainty in size to be suitable for you. Pearls . . . a dainty strand . . . are smart for evening. Also small rhinestones, if you keep them tiny and don't wear too many of them.

Shoes for dress-up outfits should be dressy, too, in suede, patent leather, calf, or fabric such as velvet, velveteen, etc. They can have low or medium heels. If you're in the late teens and an upperclass belle, maybe you can talk your mother into letting you wear higher heels.

Chaplain to Teen-Agers in Trouble

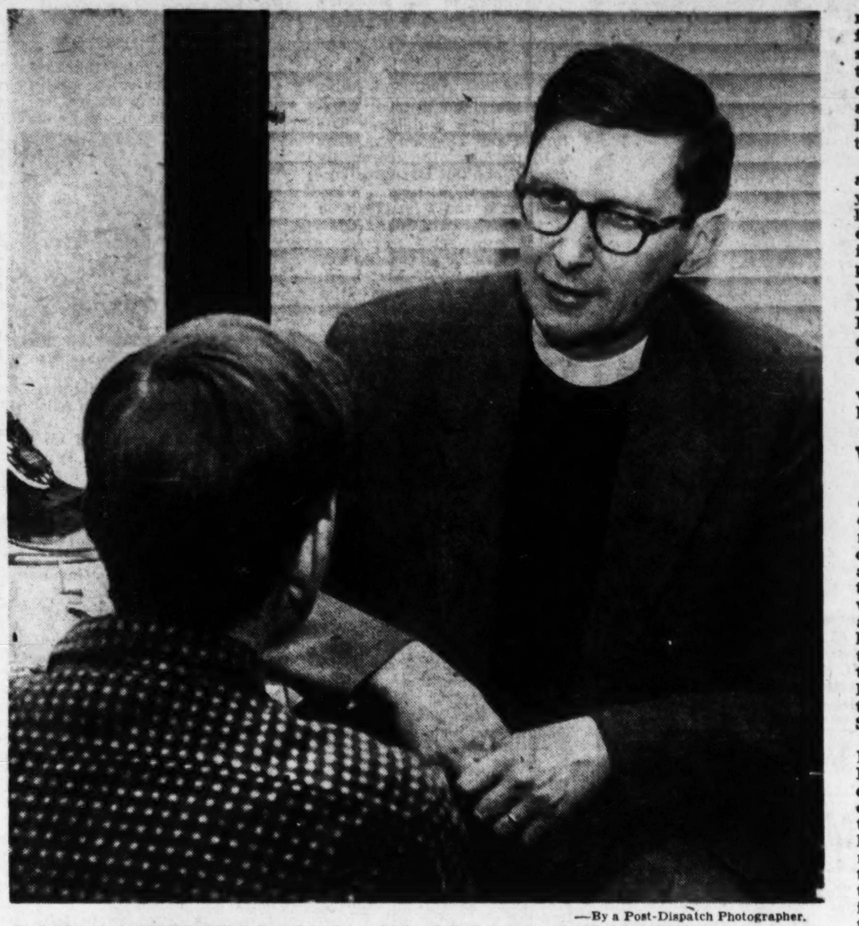
By Clarissa Start



—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

THE REV. J. ALBERT DALTON TALKS WITH A BOY AT THE CITY'S HOUSE OF DETENTION. HE SAYS: "ONE OF OUR MOST DESPERATE NEEDS IN OUR WHOLE SOCIETY IS FOR SOMEONE TO LISTEN TO US."

EVERY Sunday morning, the Rev. J. Albert Dalton sets out, like many another minister, to deliver a sermon. By the time he returns home at noon, he has completed a 70-mile circuit and participated in four services. At 8 a.m. he is at Bellefontaine Farms institution for teen-age boys, at 8:45 at the State Training School, at 10 at Meramec Hills girls' institution, and at 11 at whatever church may have invited him as guest speaker.

This hard-working routine is fairly typical of the Rev. Mr. Dalton's existence, for, while he has been in St. Louis just six months, he has become one of this area's most energetic helpers of young people in trouble.

"Some people feel sorry for me because of the territory I have to cover," he says, "but I love it. I suppose I like the circuit riding idea. And my job is the most interesting I've ever had."

The Rev. Mr. Dalton's job is part of a project of the Metropolitan Church Federation, in which five Protestant chaplains work with city institutions. Besides the Rev. Mr. Dalton, an Episcopalian who is sponsored by the City Mission office, Bishop Tuttle Memorial, Christ Church Cathedral, of which he is executive director, there are Dr. and Mrs. William Rogers, City Hospital chaplain and his wife of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the Rev. Guy Outlaw at Homer Phillips Hospital, sponsored by Ladue Chapel, and the Rev. David Voorhees, Lutheran, at Koch Hospital.

Each of these chaplains works in a designated area. The Rev. Mr. Dalton's happens to be the juvenile field, and he is proof that while many people talk about juvenile delinquency, some work hard at doing something about it.

His contact with youngsters in trouble begins at the juvenile court, where he spend every Tuesday and Thursday morning, talking to all Protestant youngsters who are brought in. He follows their case through court, continues to visit them while they are institutionalized, usually visiting their families, too, and tries to help in their rehabilitation after their release.

"Helping them get back into their community, into some sort of neighborhood program seems to me to be our primary job," he says. "Unless we help them acquire an active normal life, the institutions will just be doing a kind of ambulance job."

Each case, to the Rev. Mr. Dalton, seems to be "too individual" to make for generalizations about juvenile delinquency or the causes for mounting delinquency in the city area.

"However, to me it seems that the real problem in almost every instance of youngsters I've worked with is a family problem," he says. "Most delinquency starts with a breakdown in the home.

"I've found, too, among these young people a real concern about their homes, an anxiety about them. Many times it becomes my duty to visit the parents so I can go back and report to the children and relieve their minds that things are not quite as bad as they've been imagining. Often, it seems to me that the children worry about the parents more than the parents worry about the children."

★ ★ ★

OFTEN they have had religious backgrounds but frequently the religion has been one of fear and threats rather than reassurance and strength.

"My problem is not so much teaching the Bible," he says, "as straightening them out so that it becomes a source of help."

Along with his full Sunday morning session and his two mornings at court, the Rev. Mr. Dalton spends some time at the house of detention, his Monday afternoons and evenings at Bellefontaine Farms and all day Wednesday at Meramec Hills.

Some of his work is in individual visits, and at other times in group discussions where he tries to "initiate things as little as possible but let them bring up the problems bothering them." He finds little difference between the problems of teen-age boys and those of girls.

"Basically their problems are the same," he says. "It's the problem of growing up, going into adulthood, and needing security and a place in the world. Actually, it's the same problem we all have, the need for security and acceptance."

Sometimes it takes several visits, he finds, to establish any kind of confidence on the part of youngsters who have been hurt by adults so many times that they have a tendency to distrust all of them. Often he finds just listening to them is the most helpful thing of all.

"One of our most desperate needs in our whole society is for someone to listen to us," he says. "Everyone is willing to tell the teen-ager what he ought or ought not to do, to give good advice, but no one is willing to listen to him or her, to respect them as real people."

The Rev. Mr. Dalton, a long and lanky, engagingly informal young man, who looks a little like a clerical Estes Kefauver, entered the ministry with no idea of working with young people in urban settings. His first work with the church was at his Elmira (N.Y.) home with the Episcopal Church Army, a lay organization which assists the clergy in rural areas.

"I started out to do rural work and ended up in the city," he laughs.

WHILE he had no formal seminary training, he studied at the University of Cincinnati and after he was ordained, worked with a Cincinnati church which had a week-day neighborhood house program and a summer camp. He found that working with teen-agers was what he was meant to do all along. In the course of events, he became well acquainted with the courts and with teen-agers in trouble. His next church was in Louisville, Ky. After four years there, he came to St. Louis last September.

The Rev. Mr. Dalton, his wife, Mary, who is the daughter of a Presbyterian minister and also did some mission work in Cincinnati, and their four daughters, Beth, 6, Margaret, 4, Delinda, 2, and Barbara, eight months, are living in St. Charles temporarily but expect to move to Webster Groves soon. But it is as a "downtown pastor" trying to help meet the needs of people in the downtown areas, that he hopes to continue his work.

He feels he has not been here long enough to give advice or draw conclusions concerning juvenile delinquency in St. Louis, but is of the opinion that "a great deal of prevention work is done by probation officers, much more than most people realize," and that "there are wonderful examples of meeting neighborhood needs in the downtown area but they are spotty and should be greatly enlarged."

He believes, too, that working with the youngsters is the "most hopeful kind of institutional work."

"You work with normal young people and try to help them develop into good men and women," he says. "Basically these kids aren't any different than any other kids in church on Sunday morning. They're just as fine, just as responsive. We hope to help them turn out just as well."

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"Inquire," "Inquisitive," "Inquisition."

THESE words present something of a sermon on moderation. It seems a far cry from the innocuous "inquiry" to an "inquisition" in the acquired sense of this word, yet they share a common origin.

We have "inquire" from the Old English "enqueren," out of the Latin "inquirere." This is composed of the prefix plus "quaerere," to seek. And that has been the significance of this word as far back as we can find it—simply to seek.

From the same source came "inquisitive," originally designating one with an inquiring mind, one disposed to investigate. The sense of meddling curiosity, of prying, is to be charged less to the word than to what we human beings have made of it!

From the same root, again, as 'inquire," but with a noun ending, comes "inquisition." Etymologically, this should connote no more than an inquiry, a seeking for information; indeed, in the lexicon of law it has this significance of a judicial examination. However, we are all familiar with the grim extremes which this word has come to suggest.

Considering that the spirit of inquiry is a good thing, are these words then not an eloquent reminder that there can be too much of a good thing?

Washday Statistics

It has been estimated that on the average the homemaker takes 625 steps to hang one load of wash; walks one-fourth mile doing the weekly wash and walks 40 miles a year doing the laundry. She carries about 64 pounds of wash each week and lifts over two tons of clothes a year.

Secrets of Charm

Suits to Fit Your Figure

THIS season it is going to be easier to suit your figure than at any time since before World War II. So varied are the lines, so infinite the number of styles and details, as well as materials, that virtually every figure can find a flattering version of a suit. All you need to know is your figure and its shortcomings and then choose the suit that accentuates the good and minimizes all else.

If you are tall and slender your choice is practically unlimited. But if you wish to play down your height and your slimness, choose a belted suit with a matching stole. The new dressy suits with pleated or full skirts also will give you most effective style.

ARE YOU top heavy? Choose a V-throated, modified tulip style and you'll be wearing one of the season's most popular flatterers. One with pleated or flaring skirt may create your loveliest look. Be sure to see those fashioned of the new silk-wool blends.

If heavy hips are your problem, the open neckline that has soared to new popularity could be the choice that would give you your greatest smartness. Look for models with diagonal pocket slits, rounded shoulder fullness and take care that the jacket is either of bolero or very long length. The jacket that ends at the hip is the one not to choose.

Are you short and slender? The darling of the season, the empire style, was made especially for you with straight skirt, bosom accent and an attentuating line that is sure to be wonderful. Take plenty of time to find the suit with all details keyed to your size.

DO YOU HAVE a "squared" figure: Look for the suits that are devoid of horizontal lines. These can be princess, tulip or empire in styling. Cardigan necklines, gently rounded shoulders with quickly narrowing sleeves and all possible accent on vertical lines are your flatterers.

Remember that it's wiser to pay less and spend more on alterations than to choose the most expensive suit you can afford and not have it perfectly fitted. The secret of being smartly suited lies in wearing a costume that is faultlessly proportioned to your figure. The right suit for you is the one that will be smart for years to come!

Contract Bridge

IT ISN'T often that a player who properly responds with only one no-trump to partner's opening can eventually wind up by jumping to a slam, but North was given that marked opportunity in the following deal.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	1N.T.	Pass
2♥	Pass	2N.T.	Pass
3♦	Pass	6♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

On the surface North's series of responses looks inconsistent; he apparently bid weakly, then a little stronger, then all out. Actually, however, there was great logic in each and every one of his bids. Let's analyze:

Over the one spade, North might have bid two diamonds, since he had the bare requirements, academically speaking. However, his hand was very thin for this two-over-one response, and it is usually wise to be conservative on this round. The best reasoning is that if partner cannot bid again over one no-trump, nothing important will be lost.

When South did in fact bid two hearts, however, North's holding was obviously worth a "positive" rebid, and since a return to South's first-bid suit, spades, would have been noncommittal at best and distributionally unwise in the bargain, North implied his minor-suit values by repeating the no-trump.

South's three-diamond bid changed North's hand from A to Z, and what had been originally a so-so holding now became extremely powerful. The main thing was that in the light of South's bidding of three suits, North knew that he did not have to worry about club control. The fact that North had nothing of great value in clubs made his other assets all the more usable, and so, sensing (what was true) that South himself had probably bid his hand to the limit, North took the responsibility of bidding the slam rather than merely inviting it.

St. Louisans At Resorts In Florida

HOBE SOUND, Fla., March 1.

THE beach at Hobe Sound these days has as many familiar faces as one sees at the corner of Maryland and Euclid! Many St. Louisans now own winter homes here while others spend the season at the Jupiter Island Club.

Slightly off the beaten track, across the inland waterway from the village of Hobe Sound, the community of Jupiter Island is quite self-contained with its own yacht landing, tennis courts, nine-hole golf course, beach club, movie theater and even a school.

Both clubhouse guests and cottage residents meet daily at the beach for buffet lunch and on Thursday nights, attend the weekly dinner dances. The smart shops and night clubs of Palm Beach are only 25 miles south for those who feel strong enough to cope with the only forms of sport not provided here.

The Steve Carews have lived here for several winters and their young sons attend the small day school. Mrs. Carewe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Lewis, who formerly owned a home here, arrived last weekend for a late winter holiday.

Staying with the Carewes now are Mr. and Mrs. Don Meyer. The Meyers plan a trip to Nassau next week before returning home.

The Spencer Olins also have a house here and have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. John F. Krey. At the south end of the island is the home of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Schock. Their daughter, Mrs. Oliver Langenberg, and her two children, Alice and Peter, are with them now, and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Schock (she was Dian Chandler) arrived yesterday. Young Bill Schock and Mrs. Langenberg will be part of the Hobe Sound Tennis Team which will go down to Palm Beach tomorrow to play against the Bath and Tennis Club team.

* * *

NEXT DOOR to the Schocks lives Mrs. Howard Holmes. Her daughter, Mrs. Troy Jones, the former Mary Brooks Holmes, was with her earlier in the season. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Carter were her guests last week and the Hayward Posts are now visiting her for a few days before going down to the Keys.

The Schock and Holmes houses overlook the Indian River inlet with green lawns stretching to the quiet, palm-fringed water. Facing the sea on the other side of this narrow strip of land, is the winter home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Wilson. The east wall of their living room is all glass, looking out over the white sand and blue ocean. Visiting them now are Mrs. N. S. Chouteau Walsh and her nephew, Timothy Hennessey. Earlier this season Mrs. Wilson's nephew, Bill Moore, and his bride, the former Sally Shepley, spent several days en route back to St. Louis from their wedding trip, with the Wilsons.

Mr. Wilson played last week in the Everglades member-guest golf tournament in Palm Beach. Mrs. Wilson took part in last Saturday's round robin tennis tournament and other St. Louisans playing that day included Mrs. Carewe, Mr. Olin and the Meyers.

At the Jupiter Island Club are Mrs. Allen T. West and her daughter, Mrs. Clinton Whittemore Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langenberg, annual visitors to Hobe Sound. The John Haywards arrived a few days ago.

In late March the St. Louis colony will be even larger as many families now join their children here for their school and college spring vacations.

* * *

The St. Louis Chapter of the National Society of Arts and Literature will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at a tea at the home of Mrs. John P. Meyer in Huntleigh Village for the purpose of completing its organization. Guest of honor will be Mrs. John H. Lapham of San Antonio, Tex., national president. The purpose of the society is to encourage young artists, writers and musicians in their work.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. David B. Flavan, 17 Briarcliff, Ladue, returned to St. Louis last week from a late winter visit in Europe. During their six-week trip they visited 10 countries, beginning their tour in Germany and flying home from Lisbon.

Dr. and Mrs. Laurence Michael Riordan of the Greystone apartments, 410 North Newstead avenue, are expected home this week from a six-week trip to Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert A. Francis, 21 Eversdale Court, Ladue, have gone by plane to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras festivities. They will be away two weeks.

My Day

Party Marks Closing of Asia Institute

By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON.

IN New York on Thursday night I attended a party given by Samuel Barlow for Dr. Pope and the members of the staff and trustees of the Asia Institute.

Mrs. Roosevelt

The institute had to close its doors because the money could not be raised for it to continue, but it has a fine record, having graduated many fine students and having made a good contribution to American knowledge of Asia in general.

The staff accomplished unbelievable things under very difficult conditions, and I am sure it is heartbreaking for Dr. Pope to see the institute, which he founded and carried on his shoulders for so long, finally come to an end.

The suggestion was made that an association be created of students and faculty and such trustees as desired to join, and that occasionally they meet. I hope this is carried out, for there are a great many worthwhile people in the group and it would be advantageous to bring them together from time to time.

* * *

ON FRIDAY MORNING I met with Women United, an organization of women observers at the U.N., representing different national organizations. One guest was present from Australia, representing the United Country Women of the World.

I was there to try to tell them some of my observations about public opinion in this country on the U.N.

I have traveled a great deal this year within the United States, but I find it difficult to gauge just what the state of public opinion is. On the whole, I think people are gaining in their interest in the U.N. and are becoming anxious for more information.

I was then asked about the work of the American Association for the U.N., and I was glad to tell them what we had done and what we hoped to do. I hope these women will send me their observations as to the success of our work, for they are traveling in different parts of the country and have many contacts with groups working for the U.N.

* * *

I RECEIVED a pamphlet the other day which I think may be of interest to many people. It came from the National Citizens Commission for the Public Schools.

This commission will supply information to anyone who has local school problems on which he would like to consult with experts. They have films to distribute. They publish a monthly news letter. They are prepared to put you in touch with other people in your locality concerned with public schools.

There are many other services which you can obtain by writing to their headquarters at 2 West Forty-fifth street, New York City, or if you know where it is, you can write directly to your regional office.

Orange Icing.

To get dust out from behind a radiator flush with the wall, hang a wet cloth behind the radiator, attach hose and crevice tool to the blowing end of your vacuum cleaner, and blow the dirt out onto the wet cloth. Dust will stick to the wet surface until you shake it off.

International Designers Pattern

FABIANI is one of the most distinguished names in the Italian couture group and because he is a man, perhaps he knows best how to make a point of a woman's beauty. His unlined suit or two-piece dress exemplifies the uncluttered look so important on today's fashion scene. The collar, cut in one of a piece with the body of the jacket, owes its news value to the stand away neckline. The sleeve, set in below the normal shoulder line is an extremely popular arrangement among almost all European houses as well as among our more famous American ones. Note, too, the shorter than wrist length sleeves. For spring, make it faille, linen or a worsted and silk mixture. For summer, its best bets are pique or some heavily bodied cotton.

Pink Tints.

Many of the colors which Nettie Rosenstein likes for spring seem to be tinted with pink, rather than muted or grayed, as some designers prefer. Having launched the vogue for mixed shades of red, and red and pink, this designer carries the idea forward in a number of combinations of red coat and pink-or-red dress.

The modern electric range is porcelain enamel covered. This makes it rust-and-corrosion proof, and easy to clean as a china dish. In addition, range cooking tops, because of their greater exposure to food acids and stains, usually are finished in a special acid-resisting porcelain enamel.

Telephone Numbers To Change April 4

FINAL BIG STEP OF CHANGE TO "2-5" NUMBERING SYSTEM FOR GREATER ST. LOUIS TELEPHONES . . . CHANGES INVOLVE MOST ST. LOUIS CITY AND ILLINOIS TELEPHONES . . .

Promptly at 12:01 A.M. April 4, the final step of the change to the "2-5" numbering plan will be put into operation.

At that time, new numbers for practically all St. Louis city subscribers and most Illinois customers served by Southwestern Bell will go into effect.

For many customers, the change simply adds a fifth figure between the prefix name and the four figures of their present number. Others will get a new prefix name.

A new Greater St. Louis telephone directory will be issued immediately before the April 4 changes. It will list all the new "2-letter, 5-figure" numbers.

You will save yourself many wrong numbers and delayed calls by consulting the new directory on and after April 4.

These large-scale number changes are designed to keep telephone service expanding and improving with this growing area's needs. The "2-letter, 5-figure" numbering system provides a needed increase of number combinations to take care of all customers. It also prepares Greater St. Louis for a future improvement in long distance service — nationwide long distance dialing.

* * * *

For example, PArkview 1-2199. If you were to give this number to the operator, or repeat it to a friend, try breaking it up like this:

"PArkview one . . . Two one . . . nine nine"

TELEPHONE NUMBERS WITH THESE PREFIX NAMES WILL CHANGE AT 12:01 A.M. APRIL 4

Those few customers who will have the last four figures of their present telephone numbers changed before April 4 have been notified of their new numbers. If you have not been notified of such a change, the only change will be the prefix. You can find out your new, April 4 number by consulting the list below.

Our Virgin Island

A True Adventure Serial

A Storm.

I FIRST paddled the boat cautiously around the calm bay. It didn't leak and went along nicely. At last I had courage enough to put the outboard on it.

That boat took off.

(Later we were forced to put that fragile thing through some extremely rough water. The boat behaved oddly. If a wave smacked it on the bow, instead of being knocked backward or battering its way forward, it just folded back somewhat like Rodie's shoes. If currents caught it bow and stern, the boat just formed a shallow S and went ahead. It had no competitive spirit, no resistance — it wriggled and writhed and bent at the will of the sea. If a broaching wave hit it, it would almost fold up, but it wouldn't turn over. Slowly we developed absolute confidence in that curious craft.)

Now, with two boats, we could stop renting one and let John and Dick use the Jalopy.

The comings and goings of John and Dick were, for a long time, the cause of much raging around on my part. I wanted them to start work at 8, take an hour for lunch, and quit at 5. Instead, they would arrive at what, to me, seemed completely senseless and arbitrary hours. For a while they would show up at 4:30 in the morning. Gradually this would get later and later until, when they were getting to the Cay at 8, I'd be happy. But then they would start coming at 9, 10, 11.

I finally had it out with them. Laid down the law, etc.

I came out of that one beaten and wiser. After John finished a long, involved, and veiled accusation of tyranny, Dick straightened out the whole thing.

"Bahss," he said, "we comin' wid d'flow o' d'sea. If we come when d' sea flowin' hard against us we be sailin' on top same wave for one hour, two hour an' not reachin' past Camanoe point self."

So they came when the currents were with them and went away under the same conditions. Rodie and I had to adjust ourselves to this and it helped us slowly to adjust ourselves to the rule of wind and sea, tide and current.

We learned, for instance, that a six-knot current runs between Beef and Little Camanoe, changing direction with the flow of the tides. After a while we could feel in our bodies the pull of this current, and would arrange our trips to East End accordingly.

* * *

THE weather to us, was so vital a part of our lives that we were always conscious of it. The weather brought us water, it could help us build the house or stop work on it. It determined whether to haul the boats out, moor, or just anchor them. It controlled what Rodie could cook for lunch and whether to hang up the bedspreads to keep the sacks of cement in the shed dry.

There was no doubt in my mind about it. Nor in Rodie's. We got some planks we had been hoarding and walled up the whole front of the shed, making it a box without an opening.

Into a kerosene tin we put some canned food and an opener, the first-aid kit, a bottle of scotch, matches, and a little charcoal. Into other tins I put the manuscripts, what money we had, and our marriage license. We sealed them and took them up the hill. We put all the tools in the eight-foot-deep cistern. Then we went around getting rid of everything we thought might start flying around.

For two or three days before this the weather had been ominous. The air was clearer than we had ever seen it. The sea, under a windless sky, had been so calm it looked oily. Around Scrub and Camanoe birds we had never seen before began to come in flocks. Frigate birds with eight-foot wingspread and all manner of open-ocean birds.

Without wind or cloud, it was hot everywhere. As we worked we poured sweat and the air was hot even in your throat.

On Friday afternoon the sea began to move again. There was still absolutely no wind but the sea was moving. By midnight there was a rhythmic thunder. With no wind to confuse or oppose the rolling waves, they moved in, perfectly silent, and as orderly as corrugations in tin. With no wind to tassel their crests, they were invisible to us, watching, until they struck. Then there would rise all along our coral reef a white wall. Water would pour over the reef and race across our bay, hissing and foaming.

The wind started early in the morning. At first it was erratic, hauling and veering and breaking up the rhythmic movement of the sea. By 8 o'clock the wind had steadied in the southeast and was growing stronger all the time. Rain squalls began to sweep over us and the sky came down.

This wind was in direct opposition to the current now running hard between Bees Island and Little Camanoe. For two or three square miles the sea was white everywhere and we could hear the roar and hiss and clash of wind waves striking the indomitable flow of current water. The waves out there were abrupt, steep-sided things and vicious. They were running in all directions, a wild melee, a battle royal.

* * *

IN THE middle of all this a boat appeared, its white sail hard to distinguish from the solid white water.

It was sailing free, the gale wind behind it. Half the time we couldn't see it as it rolled wildly or was hidden by the running walls of rain, but, each time, it reappeared. It was a masterpiece of seamanship.

"It's the Jalopy," Rodie said.

Now we could see Dick, his shirt in tatters, his black skin streaming water. He was bailing with a calabash in one hand, the other handling both sheet and tiller. He dragged the sail off her as she foamed into the bay. Then he rolled out of her and came in close to the beach.

"D'gale comin', bahss. I takin' you to East End. Milton Thomas say he shelter you in the house self. Everybody East End say givin' you shelter. Come quick in d'boat."

It broke our hearts to tell him no. He had risked his life to help us and it seemed ungrateful for us not to go.

But, in a hurricane in Dominica, I had seen a man killed by a piece of roofing tin flying through the air. The thing had cut him in two. In the same blow a woman had been killed by a chicken caught in the wind. Houses had collapsed, the walls and roofs killing the people inside, the flying debris killing those who fled.

Marina Cay would be, in case it really blew, safer than East End. A man can easily endure a 500-mile-an-hour wind as long as the wind is empty. And there was nothing now on Marina Cay for the wind to pick up and kill us with.

We asked Dick to stay with us rather than try to beat his way back. But he would not. The current, he said, would help him overcome the wind. Then he was gone in a squall of rain, the Jalopy reefed down and plunging.

From the top of Marina Cay the world was wild. Drake Channel was solid white as far as we could see. Over on Camanoe and Scrub Islands the trees were threshing around without pattern and the air was full of sound—the crash and roar and steaming of the sea, the harsh, grating shrilling of the wind, the muffled gunshot sound of rain.

These waves were far greater than I had thought possible. They had taught me at the Naval Academy that it takes a lot of fetch to make a really great wave. It takes a wild wind blowing over 500 or so miles of open water—fetch—to build up even a 25-foot wave. Yet, looking down on these things killing themselves on the rock and coral and sand of Marine Cay, I would have sworn that they were already running a good 20 feet—and the wind was still getting stronger.

They had taught me in the Naval Academy that waves never run more than 60 feet high. That would give us, at the worst, 10 feet of land above the water. But, since my Academy days, I had heard about waves much greater than 60 feet. Even the Navy will now almost officially admit that 100-foot waves have been seen and that there is a record of a giant of a wave which was accurately measured at 112 feet from crest to trough. One like that could sweep clean over Marina Cay, leaving us and our half-built house 37 feet under water.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

THE WORD "NORMAN" came from "Northman," and it was used to describe men of the North who invaded France more than 1000 years ago. These men sailed and rowed their long boats from Norway and Denmark down the North Sea, and conquered a section of France. To this day a part of France has the name of Normandy.

Some of the Northmen brought their families with them. Others married French women. The time came when the King of France was glad to make peace with these people, and to admit that they owned the land on which they had settled.

* * *

THE NORTHMEN, or Normans, learned to speak French, and in time it became their usual speech. The Norman ruler was granted the rank of duke.

One Norman duke gained the hardly pleasant name of Robert the Devil, and a son of this man later became Duke William. The new duke was to play an important part in the history of England.

At that time, England was under control of the Anglo-Saxons. There came a time when an Anglo-Saxon King named Harold took the throne.

Two years before he came to power, Harold went sailing on the English Channel, and in some manner reached the coast of Normandy. His vessel may have been wrecked. In any cas Harold fell into the hands Duke William.

At a later time William state that his prisoner had promise to give up all claims to the Eng lish throne—in favor of the Nor man duke. If Harold really mad such a promise, he felt that was forced from him, and wa nothing which could keep hi from taking the position of King

FILLED WITH the desire conquer, Duke William gathere an army of about 40,000 me and set out to cross the Englis Channel. That event took plac 888 years ago.

William's fast boat reache England ahead of the others his fleet. No English soldie were there to bar his way, an he eagerly leapt to the shor Tripping and falling, he cause his soldiers to groan and ex claim, "This is a bad omen!"

"Not at all!" replied the duke waving a hand filled with sand "I have here a handful of Eng lish soil, and it is a sign that shall own all of England!"
